U. S. Proposes to Soviets That Each Destroy 480 Bombers

GENEVA (AP) — The United States proposed to the Soviet Union today that they each destroy 480 planes from their strategic bomber fleets over a two-year period.

The proposal for destruction of American B47 and Soviet TU16 Badger bombers was made at a meeting of the 17-nation disarmament conference by U.S. Negotiator Adrian S. Fisher.

It differed substantially from the demand for total destruction of all strategic bombers of both nations made to the conference on Jan. 29 by Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin.

Fisher suggested that the two big powers should each destroy 20 planes a month over a two-year period. In addition, he said the United States is prepared to destroy an additional agreed number of planes in its mothball reserve.

Fisher stressed that the destruction of planes would have to be carried out under strict observation by the other nation.

"The B47 and the TU16 bombers are logical armaments with which to start the process of physical destruction of arms," Fisher said. "The United States and the Soviet Union possess roughly comparable numbers of these aircraft and the two types of aircraft have been assigned generally similar strategic roles."

Fisher met in advance an expected Soviet objection that both the B47 and the Badger are being phased out of battle-ready forces as obsolete.

"The phasing out of aircraft does not mean destruction," he said. "Bombers in storage can be flying again in short order."

Fisher warned that the B47 and the Badger also could become a threat to peace if they fell into the hands of nonnuclear powers, which have no plane of similar performance.

He said the Soviet proposals for blanket destruction of all bombers by all nations would seriously upset the power balance between the United States and the Soviet Union, and it raised additional difficulties, such as the need to agree on what constitutes a bomber.

"There are many types of aircraft, both civil and military, which might be capable of carrying bombs although we would not consider them as bombers and would not agree to their destruction," Fisher said.

"The proposal of the United States makes it possible to get on promptly with the objectives of the Soviet proposal—the physical reduction of bombers—without having to deal with these vexatious problems."

LBJ Asks Congress to Give $3.4 Billion for Foreign Aid

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today for $3.4 billion in foreign aid to help "build a world in which the weak can walk without fear."

In a special message to a Congress which has become increasingly resistant to foreign aid in recent years, Johnson depicted the program as a bulwark against both war and "the ambitions of Communist imperialism."

He promised no waste in the operation and asked for permanent authority for U S arms aid abroad.

On Capitol Hill, there were prompt predictions of trouble ahead for the President's proposals.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M Dirksen of Illinois said there were "still possibilities for real economies." Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana commended the President for the reduced requests but said "as always, the program will have to plow a difficult road."

Rep Otto E Passman, D-La., chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee which handles foreign aid, said he hoped Congress would approve less than $3 billion.

House committee hearings on the measure may open next week, but Senate hearings are not expected to begin until after the Easter recess.

Johnson said the groundwork for his request—$1 billion in arms aid and $2.4 billion for economic assistance—with this summation:

"The proposals contained in this message express our self-interest at the same time that they proclaim our national ideals.

"We will be laying up a harvest of woe for us and our children if we shrink from the task of grappling in the world community with poverty and ignorance.

"These are the grim recruiting sergeants of communism. They flourish wherever we falter. If we default on our obligations, communism will expand its ambitions.

"That is the stern equation which dominates our age, and from which there can be no escape in logic or in honor."

Johnson disclosed in the long-awaited message that he has decided against any major shake-up in the overseas assistance program. He had appointed a special committee to study reorganization possibilities.

Instead, Johnson concentrated on a number of streamlining activities which he said would boost efficiency of the program, help U S friends abroad get off the dole and at the same time "aid in frustrating the ambitions of Communist imperialism" for world domination.

Johnson noted the $3.4 billion for the fiscal year starting next July 1 is $1.5 billion below President John F. Kennedy's original foreign aid request a year ago. Congress chopped off about $1.5

It was the first fighting on the east Mediterranean island in a week.

A British army spokesman said firing started at the village of Ghaziveran, said to be surrounded by Greek Cypriots.

Two Women Held For Threatening Texas Governor

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Two Nashville, Tenn., women were charged Wednesday with making a threatening telephone call to Texas Gov. John B. Connally on the day a Dallas jury decreed the death sentence for Jack Ruby for the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of—President John F. Kennedy.

Court Injunction Obtained Against Railroad Strike

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) —The Southern Pacific Railroad Wednesday night obtained a California Superior Court restraining order banning a strike by five railway operating brotherhoods. The order was signed by Superior Court Judge James T. O'Keefe of San Mateo County.

His order restrains the unions from calling a strike, picketing, slowing down or interfering with railroad operations.

A union spokesman had denied that any strike action was planned after a railroad negotiator in Washington had announced the Southern Pacific would seek a court injunction. The union spokesman charged industry spokesmen with using "scare" tactics.

Cops Break Up Racial Battle in Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Two dozen police were needed to break up a rock and bottle hurling battle during an attempted sit-in demonstration at a restaurant in Atlanta's southeast section.

The incident at Daniel's restaurant Wednesday night was the worst outbreak of violence in the city in a month and a half.

A police lieutenant was struck with a bottle and knocked down and several other officers received minor injuries. Traffic Capt. A C Bryant said at one time it was "on the verge of a riot."

Police said 17 Negroes were arrested. Four were charged with violating Georgia's anti-trespass law, the others with disorderly conduct.

Twenty-two Negroes were taken into custody at Athens, Ga., about the same time, during an antisegregation demonstration at an eating place.

37 Peruvians Rescued From Savage Indians

By THOMAS J. STONE

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Unconfirmed reports say Peruvian troops have rescued 37 engineers as savage Indians closed in on them after a week's siege in the Amazon jungle. Another engineer was believed killed in the siege.

The reports in Lima newspapers said the group of Peruvian government employes was saved Wednesday when 50 to 75 soldiers hacked their way through dense forests to a tiny knoll where the road surveying team was making a last stand.

The party and its escort were reported trekking toward the Yaravi River on the Brazilian border, a two-day march. A gunboat was waiting there to take them to the Amazon River

$36.3 Million Approved For Area Military Projects

The Air Force Academy field house moved one step closer to reality Wednesday with the passage of a military construction bill by the House of Representatives allocating $36.3 million for the Colorado Springs area.

Included in the bill was $18,256,000 for Ft. Carson; $17,080,000, for the Air Force Academy and $1,035,000 for Ent AFB. All of the funds have been allocated for fiscal 1965 and will probably not be available until the end of this year or early next year.

Funds for the field house were earmarked among the total designated for the academy. The facility is expected to cost $6.9 million.

Ft. Carson's share, which is about the same amount as was allocated last year, will probably be used for construction of a complex of 10 barracks for enlisted men with related gymnasium, classrooms and headquarters buildings; two battalion motor repair shops with related facilities; four ammunition igloos and a mess hall at Butts Air Field.

NORAD will get only a small share of the Ent allocation. Part of the money will be used to construct a law enforcement building at the Hardsite. The remainder will be used to build a gymnasium and airman's dormitory at Peterson Field.

Dog Sleds Still Kept on Hand, — Just in Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department isn't using dog sleds to deliver the mail in Alaska any more, but it still keeps them on hand in case the airplanes aren't working.

William J. Hartigan, assistant postmaster general, was asked about it at a recent House appropriations hearing.

His testimony was made public today.

"We suspended — we retired or semiretired — the last dogsled in Alaska under the provision that he be on a standby basis," Hartigan said. "In case the plane did not go, we use the dogsled. I think this is a very unique point in the field of transportation, where a dogsled is standing by as backup transportation for an airplane."

Winter Unleashes Another Wallop in Wide Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter unleashed one final wallop today, peppering the nation's Plains and Midwestern states with rain and snow and bringing warnings of heavy snow and blizzard conditions for some areas.

With spring less than 24 hours away — it officially begins at 9:18 a.m. EST Friday—livestock warnings were issued for eastern Montana, northeastern Wyoming, North Dakota, western and central South Dakota and central Nebraska.

Locally heavy snow and blizzard conditions were expected in the Dakotas.

Snow, cold and strong winds were to spread into the Upper Great Lakes today. Occasional rain with scattered thundershowers plagued Kansas, Iowa, Southern Illinois, and Indiana, and south into eastern New Mexico, Texas and Alabama.

Snow accumulated in the northern Plains and Upper Mississippi Valley.

Rainstorms pounded the central Plains and Lower Mississippi Valley.

More than one inch fell in south central Texas in a 6-hour period. Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio reported 3.31 inches.

Snow flurries fell in the central and northern Appalachians and in the central and northern Rockies.

Temperatures ranged from near zero in Upper Michigan to the 70s in the extreme southern sections of Florida and Texas.

Mostly fair weather prevailed along the Atlantic Seaboard and in Pacific Coast states, but rain was expected in western Oregon and Washington State.

Bids on NORAD Work to Be Opened Today

Bids are scheduled to be opened late today for an approximate $6.5 million project at the NORAD Hardsite under Cheyenne Mountain.

Officials of the Omaha District of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers were to open the bids in the Antlers Hotel. The project is part of Phase II of the Hardsite construction program.

Included in this phase will be the erection of the solid steel blast doors.

Hoffa Frantically Tries to Quell Budding Revolt

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Convicted Teamsters' President James R. Hoffa is seeking to quell any budding revolt in his giant union by personal appeals to its 1.7 million members.

His approach, in a previously unpublicized letter, is that he will eventually upset his eight-year federal jury tampering conviction—and that if he does not, all Teamsters would have as much to lose as he does.

Hoffa's letter to all Teamsters' officials and members seeks to identify the unions' in-

Warfare Flares Up Again On Embattled Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Fighting flared up in troubled Cyprus early today with Greek Cypriots reported using mortars against a village of Turkish Cypriots 28 miles west of Nicosia.

It was the first fighting on the east Mediterranean island in a week.

A British army spokesman said firing started at the village of Ghaziveran, said to be surrounded by Greek Cypriots.

First reports said the trouble appeared to start over a roadblock erected by the 500 Turkish Cypriot villagers as a protection.

Greek Cypriots objected to the road barriers which were

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Two Nashville, Tenn., women were charged Wednesday with making a threatening telephone call to Texas Gov. John B. Connally on the day a Dallas jury decreed the death sentence for Jack Ruby for the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of—President John F. Kennedy.

By THOMAS J. STONE

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Unconfirmed reports say Peruvian troops have rescued 37 engineers as savage Indians closed in on them after a week's siege in the Amazon jungle. Another engineer was believed killed in the siege.

The reports in Lima newspapers said the group of Peruvian government employes was saved Wednesday when 50 to 75 soldiers hacked their way through dense forests to a tiny knoll where the road surveying team was making a last stand.

The party and its escort were reported trekking toward the Yaravi River on the Brazilian border, a two-day march. A gunboat was waiting there to take them to the Amazon River

$36.3 Million Approved For Area Military Projects

The Air Force Academy field house moved one step closer to reality Wednesday with the passage of a military construction bill by the House of Representatives allocating $36.3 million for the Colorado Springs area.

Included in the bill was $18,256,000 for Ft. Carson; $17,080,000 for the Air Force Academy and $1,035,000 for Ent AFB. All of the funds have been allocated for fiscal 1965 and will probably not be available until the end of this year or early next year.

Funds for the field house were earmarked among the total designated for the academy. The facility is expected to cost $6.9 million.

Ft. Carson's share, which is about the same amount as was allocated last year, will probably be used for construction of a complex of 10 barracks for enlisted men with related gymnasium, classrooms and headquarters buildings; two battalion motor repair shops with related facilities; four ammunition igloos and a mess hall at Butts Air Field.

NORAD will get only a small share of the Ent allocation. Part of the money will be used to construct a law enforcement building at the Hardsite. The remainder will be used to build a gymnasium and airman's dormitory at Peterson Field.

Court Injunction Obtained Against Railroad Strike

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) —The Southern Pacific Railroad Wednesday night obtained a California Superior Court restraining order banning a strike by five railway operating brotherhoods. The order was signed by Superior Court Judge James T. O'Keefe of San Mateo County.

His order restrains the unions from calling a strike, picketing, slowing down or interfering with railroad operations.

A union spokesman had denied that any strike action was planned after a railroad negotiator in Washington had announced the Southern Pacific would seek a court injunction. The union spokesman charged industry spokesmen with using "scare" tactics.

Cops Break Up Racial Battle in Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Two dozen police were needed to break up a rock and bottle hurling battle during an attempted sit-in demonstration at a restaurant in Atlanta's southeast section.

The incident at Daniel's restaurant Wednesday night was the worst outbreak of violence in the city in a month and a half.

A police lieutenant was struck with a bottle and knocked down and several other officers received minor injuries. Traffic Capt. A. C. Bryant said at one time it was "on the verge of a riot."

Police said 17 Negroes were arrested. Four were charged with violating Georgia's anti-trespass law, the others with disorderly conduct.

Twenty-two Negroes were taken into custody at Athens, Ga., about the same time, during an antisegregation demonstration at an eating place.

Dog Sleds Still Kept on Hand, – Just in Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department isn't using dog sleds to deliver the mail in Alaska any more, but it still keeps them on hand in case the airplanes aren't working.

William J. Hartigan, assistant postmaster general, was asked about it at a recent House appropriations hearing.

His testimony was made public today.

"We suspended — we retired or semiretired — the last dogsled in Alaska under the provision that he be on a standby basis," Hartigan said. "In case the plane did not go, we use the dogsled. I think this is a very unique point in the field of transportation, where a dogsled is standing by as backup transportation for an airplane."

Winter Unleashes Another Wallop in Wide Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter unleashed one final wallop today, peppering the nation's Plains and Midwestern states with rain and snow and bringing warnings of heavy snow and blizzard conditions for some areas.

With spring less than 24 hours away — it officially begins at 9:10 a.m. EST Friday—livestock warnings were issued for eastern Montana, northeastern Wyoming, North Dakota, western and central South Dakota and central Nebraska.

Locally heavy snow and blizzard conditions were expected in the Dakotas.

Snow, cold and strong winds were to spread into the Upper Great Lakes today. Occasional rain with scattered thundershowers plagued Kansas, Iowa, Southern Illinois, and Indiana, and south into eastern New Mexico, Texas and Alabama.

Snow accumulated in the northern Plains and Upper Mississippi Valley.

Rainstorms pounded the central Plains and Lower Mississippi Valley.

More than one inch fell in south central Texas in a 6-hour period. Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio reported 3.31 inches.

Snow flurries fell in the central and northern Appalachians and in the central and northern Rockies.

Temperatures ranged from near zero in Upper Michigan to the 70s in the extreme southern sections of Florida and Texas.

Mostly fair weather prevailed along the Atlantic Seaboard and in Pacific Coast states, but rain was expected in western Oregon and Washington State.

Bids on NORAD Work to Be Opened Today

Included in this phase will be the erection of the solid steel blast doors.

De Gaulle Mexico Visit Stirs Some Misgivings

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials so far discount the possibility that President Charles de Gaulle's visit to Mexico will make serious trouble for the United States in Latin America.

But under the official surface calm there is some apprehension that De Gaulle may get caught up in or perhaps inadvertently stimulate new waves of anti-Americanism.

The French leaders and President Johnson are, in a sense, now embarked on rival campaigns for prestige and effective influence in South American affairs.

In a speech Monday to the Organization of American States Johnson presented his ideas for putting new life into the multi-billion-dollar Alliance for Progress.

At the same time the President acted to strengthen the authority of his hand-picked director of all U.S.-Latin-American activities, Assistant Secretary of State Thomas Mann. And an extraordinary conference was opened between top Washington officials, including the President, and U.S. ambassaors and aid directors in Latin-American countries.

Coincident with these moves by Johnson, De Gaulle arrived in Mexico city to be greeted by an enthusiastic crowd of 300,000. The French leader joined with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos in projecting a new alliance between Mexico and France—an alliance which they agreed is not meant to harm anyone.

The contrast between the problems with which Johnson and De Gaulle were dealing in their almost - cimultaneous speeches was sharp and dramatic.

The Alliance for Progress, which is the heart of U.S. relations and hopes for the future in Latin America, has now been running for more than two years. It has cost the United States about a billion dollars a year. Along the way it has become loaded with problems and criticisms, some errors and failures.

In the background of Johnson's speech also stood a history of disputes and difficulties as well as profitable trade and long periods of friendly relationships with many Latin-American countries.

There are current disagreements over Cuba and deep concern over the U.S.-Panamanian quarrel centering around the Panama Canal.

De Gaulle's dramatic entry on the Latin-American scene gains strength from the fact that it is free of such handicaps.

As between the two great nuclear powers, the United States and the Soviet Union, he seems to be intent on offering as many other nations as possible the prospect of a "third world" brought into being by French leadership, marked by increasing trade ties with France and responsive to the dissatisfaction of people who do not like either the Soviet or the American way.

Washington authorities are sensitively alert to widespread anti-U.S. sentiments in Latin-American countries which in their view create an opening for De Gaulle's personal diplomacy and his vision of the French offer of a third way of international life.

Officially the U.S. government's position is that De Gaulle's visit to Mexico and later trips which he plans to other American countries hold a welcome hope of increasing ties between Latin America and U.S. allies in Europe. The United States for several years has been urging France, West Germany, Britain and Italy to expand their roles—economic, political and cultural—in Central and South America and the Caribbean.

Privately officials admit that the special circumstances in which De Gaulle is making his first trip to Mexico were not foreseen in the original development of this U.S. policy.

In recent years the French leader has crossed U.S. policy acims at so many points that a constant uneasiness about what he will do next has become more or less permanent in Washington.

His recognition of Communist China in January is but the latest of a series of incidents going back to his determination to give France an independent nuclear force and various denials cooperation with the United States and other allied countries in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and in the United Nations.

What disturbed U.S. leaders even more was De Gaulle's quick followup of recognition of Red China with advocacy of a policy of neutralization for Southeast Asia. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said such talk tended to undermine morale in South Viet Nam where the United States has more than 15,000 men engaged with the Vietnamese in a war against Communist guerrillas backed by Red China.

Rev. O'Callahan, Medal of Honor Chaplain, Dies

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—The Rev. Joseph T. O'Callahan, 58, only chaplain to win the Medal of Honor, died Wednesday night in St. Vincent Hospital.

Father O'Callahan, a Jesuit, was a former professor at Holy Cross College and had been living there recently.

He won the Medal of Honor for heroic conduct aboard the carrier Franklin on March 19, 1945, when the carrier was attacked by Kamikaze pilots off Kobe, Japan. He was wounded by a shrapnel fragment during the attack.

Father O'Callahan headed the Holy Cross mathematics department from 1938 until he entered the Navy Chaplains Corps in November 1940.

He participated in the invasion of North Africa aboard the carrier Ranger. He was discharged with the rank of commander.

After the war he returned to Holy Cross to teach in the philosophy department.

He leaves his mother, Alice O'Callahan of Worcester; two sisters, Rose O'Brien of Cambridge and Sister Rose Marie, O.P., stationed at Maryknoll College in Manila, and three brothers, John T. of Cambridge, Edward J. of Brookline and Cornelius J. of Philadelphia.

Kentucky Governor Boosts Civil Rights

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Gov. Edward T. Breathitt said he would work for civil rights on several fronts if the Kentucky Legislature fails to pass an antibias bill before it adjourns Friday.

The Legislature has beaten down several attempts to bring the civil rights bill to a vote.

Breathitt's remarks were made on a telvised show here Wednesday night.

Change in Latin Policy by U.S. Being Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some U.S. diplomas in Latin America believe the United States should modify its policy of disapproving certain military and other strongly conservative Latin-American governments, U.S. sources said Wednesday night.

This view was said to have cropped up on a number of occasions during the three-day review of U.S.-hemispheric policies which was concluded on Wednesday.

The U.S. ambassadors and chiefs of aid missions throughout Latin America were here for the special consultations. The State Department announced the envoys would start returning to their posts Thursday, but gave no word on the results of the parley.

Informed sources said privately, however, that the issue of how far the United States should go in opposing certain dictatorships or military governments was prominent.

President Johnson met with the ambassadors Wednesday afternoon. Others who took part in the meetings at various stages included Secretary of State Dean Rusk, David Bell, foreign aid director, Thomas Mann, assistant secretary of state for Interamerican affairs, and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Almost 75 per cent of all American scientists and engineers are in private industry and research, while the others work for government and universities.

Bull Wins but Owner Loses in Georgia

The Georgia Court of Appeals upheld Tuesday a $300 damage award by a Hall County jury to Jewell Hulsey.

Hulsey was driving along U.S. highway north of Gainesville, when he came upon a bull in the road.

The bull walked straight toward his truck, Hulsey said, while he tried unsuccessfully to brake to a halt. After the collision, the bull got up and was led back to a pasture. The truck was virtually demolished.

Hulsey sued the bull's owner, G.W. Law, for damages, charging negligence in not maintaining adequate fences.

Pershing Missile Is Slated for Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first 400-mile range Pershing bombardment missiles are expected to arrive in Europe next month to provide added nuclear striking power for the U.S. 7th Army in West Germany.

The movement of the most advanced army battlefield missile to Europe has been foreshadowed for quite some time.

The army last year sent to Europe 75-mile range Sergeant missiles and in October announced a further modernization of the 7th Army's missile capability.

The Pershing and the Sergeant, both powered by solid fuel, replace early model liquid fuel missiles which in some cases take hours to prepare for firing.

Hardly more than a tenth of the toal land area in the earth is now classed as arable, according to estimates by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations.

U.S. Passenger Strikes Back At Transport

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK (NEA) — After all these years of standing in line, that docile anonymity—the passenger—at long last may have found his voice and his fist.

The union movement has finally seeped across the ticket counter.

It has come, ironically, to the airline commuter who, by statistical average of his age, income and status, has probably never been any closer to a union hall than the Union League Club.

And while the Airways Club, Inc., is neither a union nor a league, it has all the scope, purpose and power of both.

After its first four years of existence, it has an enrollment approaching 20,000. All have one common interest: they put their lives in the hands of airline companies on an average of 28 times each year. One member in three is, by enrollment survey, a corporation president or chairman of the board.

"We get listened to," says Airways Club president David Quinn.

While Quinn sees the need for consumer watchdog activity in many areas of airline activity today, the Airways Club's primary objectives are safety improvement. Among them:

Development and installation of airport equipment to check baggage for bombs—a project that neither airlines nor insurance companies are researching.

Settlement of airport - community disputes over noise abatement infractions.

"The homeowner," says Quinn, "should certainly have every reasonable consideration. Jet aircraft do make considerable noise. But at many airports, pilots have to go through extremely dangerous landing maneuvers to avoid breaking municipal noise abatement law.

"The passenger's life is at stake because of the politics going on thousands of feet below him."

In addition, the Airways Club carries on a running campaign to upgrade personnel courtesy, to remind carriers of their scheduled responsibilities, to encourage members to air their gripes and to get passengers and airline companies to understand each other.

But Quinn admits that these inducements are not sufficiently strong to weld a brotherhood out of the travelers. What sells the Airways Club is the inexpensive flight insurance it offers and the discounts and protections it affords on the ground.

"It's awfully tough to sell safety," says Quinn, himself a naval air reserve commander and former airline pilot. "So, you have to establish your membership through other means before you can get to work on what has to be done.

"Especially with the airline five times safer to fly than to drive. Nevertheless, he'll insist that his business associates go in separate planes. But he does not bat an eye when they all go to the airport in the same car."

Mostly Malarky

"It says you're the dashing romantic type hunk of man that sweeps a girl off her feet. It has your weight wrong, too."

Smaldone Hearing Postponed a Month

DENVER (UPI)— A hearing for former Denver gamblers Clyde and Eugene Smaldone, scheduled for Monday, has been postponed a month.

The Smaldones will appear April 16 before Safety Manager Daniel Hoffman for a hearing on whether it is illegal for them to work in their brother's restaurant. eeethhsthtcfwy taurant.

Hoffman last month ordered Anthony Smaldone, the proprietor of Gaetano's Restaurant to fire his brothers on grounds they were "not of good character and reputation" and thus under Colorado law could not work in a licensed liquor outlet.

The brothers are on parole after serving seven years of a 12-year federal sentence for jury tampering.

Hoffa, 51, told his members: "I have never backed away from a fight in my life. In all my 32 years in the labor movement, I have consistently refused to 'conform' as a price of peace, for the simple reason that I have always known that the price would come out of the pockets of the rank and file I was elected to represent."

Hoffa apparently was not referring to the thousands of dollars in legal fees piled up on his trial at Chattanooga, Tenn., and numerous previous court battles.

Rather, the reference appeared to be an attempt to persuade Teamsters' members no one can represent them better than he at the bargaining table, or run the huge union as well as he has in the past seven years as its president.

There has been no open move among high-ranking Teamsters to dump Hoffa, but the labor chieftain is clearly worried and eager for reassurance from his members.

The business of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters will be conducted as usual. Whenever possible, I will be in the field talking with you, the rank and file, finding out firsthand what your problems are and working with you to come up with solutions," Hoffa's letter said.

"The open door policy in Washington headquarters will continue. I am still available to any one of you desiring to speak with me," he added.

Most of Hoffa's top fellow Teamsters officials who have commented publicly on Hoffa's March 4 conviction have urged until appeals are completed.

But Hoffa was reportedly furious at one union official's statement to reporters that "something will have to be done" if Hoffa goes to jail.

Charles Bell, president of the Washington Joint Council, made the statement at a recent press conference called by the Teamsters' eastern conference a few days after Hoffa's conviction.

Seamen's Union In Canada Ousts Chieftain

By FRED W. COLEMAN

OTTAWA (AP)—Canadian officials anxiously awaited a response from union seamen today to the removal of Hal C. Banks as Canada's maritime labor czar.

Banks, 55, the U.S.-born labor leader who has been the central figure in the Great Lakes shipping war, was ousted on Wednesday from the presidency of the 15,000-member Seafarer's International Union of Canada. The dismissal was ordered by the government board of trustees for Canada's maritime unions.

The ouster was announced simultaneously in the House of Commons and at union headquarters in Montreal.

Forty policemen surrounded the union building in anticipation of trouble, but there were no incidents.

In Vancouver, however, seamen gathered angrily in their hiring hall and sent a telegram to the trustees.

"We protest the arrogant, overbearing action in dismissing our president without consulting the membership," the telegram read. "We demand an explanation of this vicious act."

The trustees' announcement said simply:

"Hal Banks has been fired. All members are asked to maintain internal discipline."

Banks refused to comment to reporters who sought him at his luxury apartment in a Montreal suburb.

The incident occured in the 900 block of N. Tejon Street. The woman described the man as about 30 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, brown haired and wearing glasses. He was dressed in a brown and white jacket and wore light colored jeans, the woman said.

However, the ministry of aviation said the latest report it had was relayed by one of several air force planes which had been bombing and strafing the Indians, who reportedly had the engineers surrounded on a knoll about 30 by 90 feet, in area.

Some newspaper reports said 34 Indians were killed, but the government said it knew of only two dead. Two engineers were believed wounded.

An official said the Indians were believed to be of the Mayoruna tribe, described as "wild, naked savages still living in the stone age."

Poisoned arrows are their main weapons, the official said, and they probably have some guns stolen in raids on civilized villages.

The engineers were attacked eight days ago, four weeks after they set out from Requena to map a road through the jungle to the Brazilian frontier 75 miles to the east. Requena is 550 air miles north of Lima.

The Indians' strength was variously estimated at from several dozen to several hundred.

Belli Is Fired As Chief Defense Counsel for Ruby

Saturday's verdict," Mrs. Grant said.

Belli's televised bitter comments have brought wide criticism from Texas officials and from officials of the American Bar Association.

Ruby's brother, Hyman Ruby of Chicago, said "the opinions this man expressed about Dallas, the jury, Judge Joe B. Brown and Dist. Atty Henry Wade are not shared by Jack or any member of his family."

As early as Jan. 22, the letter maintained, Ruby "tried to disengage" Belli after a disagreement over tactics used by the lawyer. Belli "bitterly opposed and forced himself" on Ruby and "would not consent at that time to any local adequate, competent counsel," the letter said.

Ruby pleaded innocent of shooting Oswald by virtue of insanity. In the month-long trial, Belli tried to prove that the balding night club operator was a victim of a form of epilepsy and not in control of himself Nov. 24 when he lunged forward and shot the manacled Oswald in the Dallas Police Jail basement.

Ruby himself signed the two-page letter. Copies were sent to the two other defense lawyers, Joe Tonahill of Jasper, Tex., and Phil Burleson of Dallas, but it was not immediately known how their status was affected.

Warfare Again Flares Up on Embattled Cyprus

Turkish Cypriots in the all-Turkish town of Lefka, 5 miles southwest of Ghaziveran, threatened to attack Greek Cypriot villages near them if the Greek Cypriots did not cease firing by 10 a.m. But 15 minutes after that hour, there was no word that an attack had started from Lefka.

Latins Promised 'Better Prices' By De Gaulle

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle ends his visit to Mexico today after three days of trying to project a new image of France as a big brother of Latin America.

The French president and his wife were to leave by plane at noon for the French Caribbean island of Guadalope. After visits to Cayenne, French Guiana, and Martinique, they return to Paris March 23.

In a joint communique signed with Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos Wednesday night, De Gaulle pledged France would work at the U.N. Trade Conference in Geneva next week would pay Latin America better prices for its raw materials and manufactured products.

The two presidents also pledged to work for deveopment of exchanges between Latin America and the European Common Market, calling such exchanges "desirable for their mutual benefit."

The communique also said:

1. Mexico and France will hold periodic consultations on foreign relations, economic, trade and cultural matters.

2. De Gaulle's visit aimed not not only at tightening bonds between Mexico and France, but also at emphasizing the similarity of points of view, ideals and culture of France and all Latin-American nations.

3. France recognizes the role it can play in Latin America by virtue of old ties.

4. Both presidents recognized "the existence of an equal devotion to the cause of peace which can only be assured in a stable manner within the respect for the independence of each country and through the participation, on terms of equality, of all peoples."

The remainder of the communique dealt with plans for expanding commercial, cultural and technical cooperation between Mexico and France.

De Gaulle arrived Monday by jet to an enthusiastic welcome. Despite his 73 years, he carried out a schedule much younger men might have found exhausting.

Wednesday 50,000 shoving, cheering students gave De Gaulle such a boisterous welcome to the National University that police were alarmed. But no one was hurt and De Gaulle, sweating profusely, made it into the packed university auditorium for a speech.

"We will concentrate our efforts in Alabama," King said. "But we are not leaving out other areas."

A team is working in Alabama to mobilize Negroes, King said.

"We are hoping to get at least 10,000 recruits for a nonviolent army who will be willing to spend their vacation in jail if necessary," he said.

He said SCLC is helping in Mississippi desegregation efforts and will try to send at least 1,500 students from northern and western colleges and universities to Mississippi this summer to join the drive.

If there is a serious filibuster in the U.S. Senate against the civil rights bill, "then we definitely plan action in Washington and supportive action all around the country," he said.

Another phase of his efforts, King said, will center this summer on the presidential election and political conventions.

"I plan to travel into northern communities and try to initiate a very massive, intensified voter registration drive," he said. "We have studied marginal districts all over the United States — those districts there congressmen barely got elected and additional votes would make the difference.

"In many instances, these congressmen have been wishy-washy on civil rights and new voters could change that."

King said he will call a conference, probably in September, "to launch a nationwide selective buying program" on a national basis.

It will be an exepansion of "operation breadbasket" in Atlanta where Negroes report significant gains in employment through negotiations coupled with the threat of boycotts.

"We have surveys of Negro spending under way," King said. "In most industries the Negro spends enough to make the difference between profit and loss."

SCLC, which has added more than 40 affiliate organizations in the past six months, is growing rapidly, King said, and is broadening its scope.

"We have made a definite decision to develop stronger ties with the northern movements," he said.

Asked about possible division among civil rights groups, King retorted: "I think we are more united than ever before.

King said his organization's inactivity during the past few months was deliberate.

"It was a planned pause to reassess and to look over the future, to chart our course," he said. "It is best to have planned, organized programs."

Even if the civil rights bill passes with little or no change, there will be a great amount of activity testing places of public accommodations, he said.

King said white reaction, such as the protest of New York parents over planned integration, was not a setback and that the civil rights movement "has more allies in the white community than ever before."

He said Malcolm X's move to gain a following "won't get to first base—if we continue to make progress in civil rights." However, he said, defeat of the civil rights bill would open the way "for the irresponsible, violent forces to take over."

Morocco Students Revolt Against Moscow Embassy

The students vowed to resist if Moroccan officials called in Soviet police to oust them.

The Soviet guards usually outside foreign embassies were missing when newsmen visited the embassy after the sit-in began.

An embassy spokesman had no comment. The students reported they had promised him to leave tomorrow without messing up the embassy or using the telephones.

Slogans pinned up in a hallway called for "immediate liberation of political detainees." A student spokesman said the Moroccan government had condemned leaders of the National Union of Popular Forces and two students. The union is a violent opposition group in Morocco which was accused of plotting last July against King Hassan II.

The students all are members of the Soviet section of the National Union of Moroccan Students. There are about 60 of the Soviet section of the National Union of Moroccan Students. There are about 60 of them in Moscow.

Local Man Admits Taking Part in Region Holdups

Gary Duane Adamson, 23, 141 E. Navajo St. has admitted to taking part in two holdups in Colorado Springs and another in Denver, the sheriff's department said Wednesday.

Adamson was picked up by members of the sheriff's office Tuesday night as he was trying to leave the Vi Vesta Court, 138 E. Navajo St. Tuesday night.

The sheriff's office had been alerted by Denver police to look out for him as he was wanted there for questioning regarding another stickup.

Adamson told Deputy Sheriffs Woodrow Littrell and Franklin T. Ripley that his partner in the three stickups was Joel J. Whitman, 21, a Ft. Carson soldier. Whitman is being held in Denver General Hospital after a car he was allegedly driving following the stickup crashed into a second automobile. Adamson said they got $80 in the robbery but during the chase he threw the money and the gun out of the window.

Whitman's injuries are light, but the driver of the second car, Walter F. Hamilton, 47, of Arapahoe County, an innocent victime, is in critical condition.

Adamson is now in El Paso County Jail and being held on a Denver warrant with $25,000 bond as a detainer. Littrell and Ripley quoted him as saying that he robbed the Lincoln Creamery in Denver Monday night while Whitman waited in the getaway car. They were chased by Denver police and after the crash Adamson walked away. Later he stole a car and drove to Colorado Springs.

Adamson continued saying that he and Whitman held up the WW Gas Ranch, 1207 S. Nevada Ave. last Thursday and the Site Service Station, 4320 N. Nevada Ave. Saturday. They got about $103 from the WW Gas Ranch and $104 from the other filling station.

On both occasions, the suspect stated, Whitman was in his own car and Adamson in a stolen one. The pair split the money between them.

District Attorney Pat Hinton said this morning that charges of aggravated robbery and conspiracy would probably be filed against Adamson in the local District Court Friday. He added a warrant will be issued to hold Whitman pending the decision by Denver authorities.

Owner Reports Car Taken by Employe

Jack Mynier of the Kings Drive In, 1915 E. Platte Ave., reported to the sheriff's office Wednesday that a former employe had taken his personal car and left Colorado Springs March 12.

According to Deputy Sheriff Bernard Barry, the employe told the cook that he was going on a personal errand and would be away for about 15 minutes. The missing car is a 1960 Dodge Dart, red, Colorado License KB-9536, ID 5207160887. It is worth $1,500.

Mynier has signed a complaint alleging larceny by bailee.

LBJ Asks Billions More for Foreign Aid

Even with Johnson's reduced figure, the overseas assistance program is expected to run into more trouble in Congress this year. Johnson appeared to anticipate critics in outlining what he termed "prudent and responsible programs."

The main change sought by the President from the existing foreign aid process was his request that Congress provide a "continuing authorization" for military assistance.

The administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower made a similar request but failed to get Congress' approval.

Under the present system, Congress must vote a new authorization each year for the arms and economic aid program. Under Johnson's proposal, only economic assistance would need new authorization, although the arms program still would be subject to annual review by the Senate and House authorizing committees.

The congressional appropriations committees would, however, still have to vote on the amount of funds each year for the program.

Johnson said he has ordered David Bell, director of the Agency for International Development, which handles foreign aid to cut 1,200 employes by the end of next fiscal year. This is 400 more than the force reduction figure in his January budget message.

Further emphasizing what he termed "steadily increasing efficiency in assistance operations," Johnson said:

1. Foreign aid saves American taxpayers several times the money they would have to add to the U.S. defense budget if they did not have the program supporting U.S. allies abroad.

2. The $3.4 billion will not be spread all around the world, but will be focused where it will produce the best results, and aid-receiving countries will be prodded to become self-supporting. Johnson said 14 countries are approaching the point where U.S. gifts and easy-term loans will no longer be needed.

3. More will be done to use private enterprise in overseas development, including proposed legislation for special tax credits for U.S. businessmen investing in backward lands.

4. Greater foreign aid contributions will be sought from other free world industrial countries.

5. The aid program will be operated with increasing efficiency under "firm foreign policy guidance from the secretary of state."

The Agency for International Development will continue to manage economic programs. The Defense Department will run arms aid, under co-ordination through AID.

Johnson said he had decided to continue this existing set-up after careful study. Last December he named a committee headed by Undersecretary of State George W. Ball to see what changes might be made.

The Ball committee considered a wide variety of alternatives but reportedly wound up with a conclusion that the existing system should basically be continued. Johnson has, however, ordered AID to reduce the number of its separate missions overseas.

Historic Antlers May Be Replaced By New Hotel

their leases by Oct. 1. The businessman said the request was made by Kenneth W. Geddes, Colorado Springs attorney. The businessman stated that Geddes did not say whom he was representing.

H. Chase Stone, president of the First National Bank, who was listed as a trustee of the Antlers Development Corp., has been out of town since the first of March and will not return until about April 1, according to a spokesman at the bank.

Benjamin Swig of San Francisco, present owner of the historic hotel, told the Gazette Telegraph earlier this week that there have been some negotiations in progress for the transfer of ownership of the Antlers.

Swig said he does not know the name of the prospective buyer, as the negotiations are being handled through an attorney. He told the Gazette Telegraph that he expects something concrete to be accomplished this week and that the information will be made available to all news media in this area.

Swig said that no conventions have been scheduled at the hotel after Oct. 1, 1964. He said he expected that the hotel would be sold by that time and that he did not want to commit the new owners to any activities after that time.

A rumor that the hotel was being purchased by the Union Pacific Railroad was denied denied earlier this week by V.I. Westerdahl, assistant to Arthur E. Stoddard of Omaha, Neb., president of the railroad. Westerdahl said he had heard of no negotiations involving any official of the railroad concerning purchase of the hotel.

When he was asked this morning if his firm had been asked to sell its lease, Robert F. Delaney, manager of Boettcher and Co. said, "I can't comment on that; I'm sorry."

Eagles Slate Carnival Friday

The Fraternal Order of Eagles is sponsoring a fun-filled carnival at 6 p.m. Friday at the Eagle's Home, 109 W. Colorado Ave., it was announced by Jack Warner, president of the order.

The affair is open to the public, and will feature some 15 carnival entertainment booths with a snack booth to supply carnival goers with hamburgers, hot dogs, sandwiches and refreshments. Entertainment includes a spook-house, dart booth, wheel of fortune, make-up booth, fortune telling, and others, with prizes for everyone.

"Proceeds will be used to buy crutches, canes, wheel chairs and other items for the handicapped," Warner said. "These items will be loaned to handicapped persons in the Colorado Springs area for as long as they are needed, at no charge," he added.

Warner also announced that the Eagles are seeking donations of such items, not being used. The Order will accept donation of damaged articles, which will be repaired before being put into use, he said.

Persons interested in donating such items may call Tony Trajanovich, committee chairman, 634-5022.

Project Yields 314 Pounds Of Old Medicine

Personnel from the Air Force Academy's 7625th USAF Hospital reaped a unique and potentially dangreous harvest as a result of Project Play It Safe II.

The "harvest" collected 1,432 items of useless and possibly dangerous material weighing a total of 314 pounds.

Capt. Jack D. Hegele, hospital administrative officer and originator of the drive, said the project will be held again in May of next year. The theme will be "Mayday" — the international distress signal.

Personnel giving up their day off to take part in the drive included: Sgt. Pinson, M. Sgt. Milton J. Thiem, T. Sgt. Auslin Hassell, S. Sgt. Anthony Ellison, T. Sgt. Charles Demsdale, S. Sgt. John S. Erbes, Airman 1. C. Robert Horton, Airman 2. C. Richard Yeakel, Airman 1. C. Harold Playford, Airman 2. C. Donald Marchman, Airman 1. C. John Kresky, Airman 2. C. Waymon Kruch, Airman 1. C. Robert L. City Traffic Effort Gets Compliment

Altho the Colorado Springs police department receives its share of complaint calls — and there have been quite a few recently when tickets have been issued for right turns downtown — every once in awhile a complimentary one is sent to Police Chief Cecil J. McKissick.

One compliment was received recently from a woman who lives on North Prospect Street and who said she thought both City Traffic Engineer Don L. Smith and the chief were doing a good job.

"Because of the job both of you have done and the courteous, well-trained police officers we have in Colorado Springs, this city is moving ahead safely even with its rapid expansion."

She remarked in the letter that she received a speeding violation ticket late in 1962 "but the officer who gave it to me explained it so well that I still feel it was the best $15 I ever spent — spent to bring home to me again the rule that a car is a lethal weapon that must be handled with as great care as one handles a gun, and that traffic regulations must be followed to prevent injury."

"It brought home to me," the woman added, "my individual obligation to know and to follow these regulations which were made for my protection and convenience, as well as for others."

Gun, Clothes Reported Missing From Car

C. H. Harrison, 211 N. Swope Ave. reported to the sheriff's department Wednesday that a quantity of men's and women's clothing and a revolver, serial number 715879, worth a total of $236.50 had been stolen from his car.

He told Undersheriff Doyle McCammon that the vehicle was parked at the rear of 211 S. Swope Ave., at the time and that it was unlocked.

Hoffa Frantically Tries to Quell Budding Revolt

terests with his own in his long battle against Justice Department efforts to put him behind bars.

Hoffa, 51, told his members: "I have never backed away from a fight in my life. In all my 32 years in the labor movement, I have consistently refused to 'conform' as a price of peace, for the simple reason that I have always known that the price would come out of the pockets of the rank and file I was elected to represent."

Hoffa apparently was not referring to the thousands of dollars in legal fees piled up on his trial at Chattanooga, Tenn., and numerous previous court battles.

Rather, the reference appeared to be an attempt to persuade Teamsters' members no one can represent them better than he at the bargaining table, or run the huge union as well as he has in the past seven years as its president.

There has been no open move among high-ranking Teamsters to dump Hoffa, but the labor chieftain is clearly worried and eager for reassurance from his members.

The business of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters will be conducted as usual. Whenever possible, I will be in the field talking with you, the rank and file, finding out firsthand what your problems are, and working with you to come up with solutions," Hoffa's letter said.

"The open door policy in Washington headquarters will continue. I am still available to any one of you desiring to speak with me," he added.

Most of Hoffa's top fellow Teamsters officials who have commented publicly on Hoffa's March 4 conviction have urged until appeals are completed.

But Hoffa was reportedly furious at one union official's statement to reporters that "something will have to be done" if Hoffa goes to jail.

Charles Bell, president of the Washington Joint Council, made the statement at a recent press conference called by the Teamsters' eastern conference a few days after Hoffa's conviction.

Seamen's Union In Canada Ousts Chieftain

By FRED W. COLEMAN

OTTAWA (AP)—Canadian officials anxiously awaited a response from union seamen today to the removal of Hal C. Banks as Canada's maritime labor czar.

Banks, 55, the U.S.-born labor leader who has been the central figure in the Great Lakes shipping war, was ousted on Wednesday from the presidency of the 15,000-member Seafarer's International Union of Canada. The dismissal was ordered by the government board of trustees for Canada's maritime unions.

The ouster was announced simultaneously in the House of Commons and at union headquarters in Montreal.

Forty policemen surrounded the union building in anticipation of trouble, but there were no incidents.

In Vancouver, however, seamen gathered angrily in their hiring hall and sent a telegram to the trustees.

"We protest the arrogant, overbearing action in dismissing our president without consulting the membership," the telegram read. "We demand an explanation of this vicious act."

The trustees' announcement said simply:

"Hal Banks has been fired. All members are asked to maintain internal discipline."

Banks refused to comment to reporters who sought him at his luxury apartment in a Montreal suburb.

The incident occured in the 800 bock of N. Tejon Street. The woman described the man as about 20 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, brown haired and wearing glasses. He was dressed in a brown and white jacket and wore light colored jeans, the woman said.

37 Peruvians Rescued From Savage Indians

port of Iquitos, 830 miles northeast of Lima.

However, the ministry of aviation said the latest report it had was relayed by one of several air force planes which had been bombing and strafing the Indians, who reportedly had the engineers surrounded on a knoll about 30 by 90 feet in area.

Some newspaper reports said 34 Indians were killed, but the government said it knew of only two dead. Two engineers were believed wounded.

An official said the Indians were believed to be of the Mayoruna tribe, described as "wild, naked savages still living in the stone age."

Poisoned arrows are their main weapons, the official said, and they probably have some guns stolen in raids on civilized villages.

The engineers were attacked eight days ago, four weeks after they set out from Requena to map a road through the jungle to the Brazilian frontier 75 miles to the east. Requena is 550 air miles north of Lima.

The Indians' strength was variously estimated at from several dozen to several hundred.

The engineers had a mobile radio transmitter and tapped out an urgent morse code message received by a military post in Iquitos, 100 miles north of Requena.

Belli Is Fired As Chief Defense Counsel for Ruby

Saturday's verdict," Mrs. Grant said.

Belli's televised bitter comments have brought wide criticism from Texas officials and from officials of the American Bar Association.

Ruby's brother, Hyman Ruby of Chicago, said "the opinions this man expressed about Dallas, the jury, Judge Joe B. Brown and Dist. Atty. Henry Wade are not shared by Jack or any member of his family."

As early as Jan. 22, the letter maintained, Ruby "tried to disengage" Belli after a disagreement over tactics used by the lawyer. Belli "bitterly opposed and forced himself" on Ruby and "would not consent at that time to any local adequate, competent counsel," the letter said.

Ruby pleaded innocent of shooting Oswald by virtue of insanity. In the month-long trial, Belli tried to prove that the balding night club operator was a victim of a form of epilepsy and not in control of himself Nov. 24 when he lunged forward and shot the manacled Oswald in the Dallas Police Jail basement.

Ruby himself signed the two-page letter. Copies were sent to the two other defense lawyers, Joe Tonahill of Jasper, Tex., and Phil Burleson of Dallas, but it was not immediately known how their status was affected.

By that time an estimated 200 Negroes were milling about one side of the street and several truck drivers and a number of white persons were on the other side.

Morocco Students Revolt Against Moscow Embassy

The students vowed to resist if Moroccan officials called in Soviet police to oust them.

The Soviet guards usually outside foreign embassies were missing when newsmen visited the embassy after the sit-in began.

An embassy spokesman had no comment. The students reported they had promised him to leave tomorrow without messing up the embassy or using the telephones.

Slogans pinned up in a hallway called for "immediate liberation of political detainees." A student spokesman said the Moroccan government had condemned leaders of the National Union of Popular Forces and two students. The union is a violent opposition group in Morocco which was accused of plotting last July against King Hassan II.

The students all are members of the Soviet section of the National Union of Moroccan Students. There are about 60 of the Soviet section of the National Union of Moroccan Students. There are about 60 of them in Moscow.

Even with Johnson's reduced figure, the overseas assistance program is expected to run into more trouble in Congress this year. Johnson appeared to anticipate critics in outlining what he termed "prudent and responsible programs."

The main change sought by the President from the existing foreign aid process was his request that Congress provide a "continuing authorization" for military assistance.

The administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower made a similar request but failed to get Congress' approval.

Under the present system, Congress must vote a new authorization each year for the arms and economic aid program. Under Johnson's proposal, only economic assistance would need new authorization, although the arms program still would be subject to annual review by the Senate and House authorizing committees.

The congressional appropriations committees would, however, still have to vote on the amount of funds each year for the program.

Johnson said he has ordered David Bell, director of the Agency for International Development, which handles foreign aid to cut 1,200 employes by the end of next fiscal year. This is 400 more than the force reduction figure in his January budget message.

Further emphasizing what he termed "steadily increasing efficiency in assistance operations," Johnson said:

1. Foreign aid saves American taxpayers several times the money they would have to add to the U.S. defense budget if they did not have the program supporting U.S. allies abroad.

2. The $3.4 billion will not be spread all around the world, but will be focused where it will produce the best results, and aid-receiving countries will be prodded to become self-supporting. Johnson said 14 countries are approaching the point where U.S. gifts and easy-term loans will no longer be needed.

3. More will be done to use private enterprise in overseas development, including proposed legislation for special tax credits for U.S. businessmen investing in backward lands.

4. Greater foreign aid contributions will be sought from other free world industrial countries.

5. The aid program will be operated with increasing efficiency under "firm foreign policy guidance from the secretary of state."

The Agency for International Development will continue to manage economic programs. The Defense Department will run arms aid, under co-ordination through AID.

Johnson said he had decided to continue this existing set-up after careful study. Last December he named a committee headed by Undersecretary of State George W. Ball to see what changes might be made.

The Ball committee considered a wide variety of alternatives but reportedly wound up with a conclusion that the existing system should basically be continued. Johnson has, however, ordered AID to reduce the number of its separate missions overseas.

Local Man Admits Taking Part in Region Holdups

Gary Duane Adamson, 23, 141 E. Navajo St. has admitted to taking part in two holdups in Colorado Springs and another in Denver, the sheriff's department said Wednesday.

Adamson was picked up by members of the sheriff's office Tuesday night as he was trying to leave the Vi Vesta Court, 138 E. Navajo St. Tuesday night.

The sheriff's office had been alerted by Denver police to look out for him as he was wanted there for questioning regarding another stickup.

Adamson told Deputy Sheriffs Woodrow Littrell and Franklin T. Ripley that his partner in the three stickups was Joel J. Whitman, 21, a Ft. Carson soldier. Whitman is being held in Denver General Hospital after a car he was allegedly driving following the stickup crashed into a second automobile. Adamson said they got $80 in the robbery but during the chase he threw the money and the gun out of the window.

Whitman's injuries are light, but the driver of the second car, Walter F. Hamilton, 47, of Arapahoe County, an innocent victime, is in critical condition.

Adamson is now in El Paso County Jail and being held on a Denver warrant with $25,000 bond as a detainer. Littrell and Ripley quoted him as saying that he robbed the Lincoln Creamery in Denver Monday night while Whitman waited in the getaway car. They were chased by Denver police and after the crash Adamson walked away. Later he stole a car and drove to Colorado Springs.

Adamson continued saying that he and Whitman held up the WW Gas Ranch, 1207 S. Nevada Ave. last Thursday and the Site Service Station, 4320 N. Nevada Ave. Saturday. They got about $103 from the WW Gas Ranch and $104 from the other filling station.

On both occasions, the suspect stated, Whitman was in his own car and Adamson in a stolen one. The pair split the money between them.

District Attorney Pat Hinton said this morning that charges of aggravated robbery and conspiracy would probably be filed against Adamson in the local District Court Friday. He added a warrant will be issued to hold Whitman pending the decision by Denver authorities.

Historic Antlers May Be Replaced By New Hotel

their leases by Oct. 1. The businessman said the request was made by Kenneth W. Geddes, Colorado Springs attorney. The businessman stated that Geddes did not say whom he was representing.

H. Chase Stone, president of the First National Bank, who was listed as a trustee of the Antlers Development Corp., has been out of town since the first of March and will not return until about April 1, according to a spokesman at the bank.

Benjamin Swig of San Francisco, present owner of the historic hotel, told the Gazette Telegraph earlier this week that there have been some negotiations in progress for the transfer of ownership of the Antlers.

Swig said he does not know the name of the prospective buyer, as the negotiations are being handled through an attorney. He told the Gazette Telegraph that he expects something concrete to be accomplished this week and that the information will be made available to all news media in this area.

Swig said that no conventions have been scheduled at the hotel after Oct. 1, 1964. He said he expected that the hotel would be sold by that time and that he did not want to commit the new owners to any activities after that time.

A rumor that the hotel was being purchased by the Union Pacific Railroad was denied denied earlier this week by V.I. Westerdahl, assistant to Arthur E. Stoddard of Omaha, Neb., president of the railroad. Westerdahl said he had heard of no negotiations involving any official of the railroad concerning purchase of the hotel.

When he was asked this morning if his firm had been asked to sell its lease, Robert F. Delaney, manager of Boettcher and Co. said, "I can't comment on that; I'm sorry."

Owner Reports Car Taken by Employe

Jack Mynier of the Kings Drive In, 1915 E. Platte Ave., reported to the sheriff's office Wednesday that a former employe had taken his personal car and left Colorado Springs March 12.

According to Deputy Sheriff Bernard Barry, the employe told the cook that he was going on a personal errand and would be away for about 15 minutes. The missing car is a 1960 Dodge Dart, red, Colorado License KB-9526, ID 5207103897. It is worth $1,500.

Mynier has signed a complaint alleging larceny by bailee.

Eagles Slate Carnival Friday

The Fraternal Order of Eagles is sponsoring a fun-filled carnival at 6 p.m. Friday at the Eagle's Home, 109 W. Colordo Ave., it was announced by Jack Warner, president of the order.

The affair is open to the public, and will feature some 15 carnival entertainment booths with a snack booth to supply carnival goers with hamburgers, hot dogs, sandwiches and refreshments. Entertainment includes a spook-house, dart booth, wheel of fortune, make-up booth, fortune telling, and others, with prizes for everyone.

"Proceeds will be used to buy crutches, canes, wheel chairs and other items for the handicapped," Warner said. "These items will be loaned to handicapped persons in the Colorado Springs area for as long as they are needed, at no charge," he added.

Warner also announced that the Eagles are seeking donations of such items, not being used. The Order will accept donation of damaged articles, which will be repaired before being put into use, he said.

Persons interested in donating such items may call Tony Trojanovich, committee chairman, 634-5022.

Project Yields 314 Pounds Of Old Medicine

Personnel from the Air Force Academy's 7625th USAF Hospital reaped a unique and potentially dangreous harvest as a result of Project Play It Safe II.

The "harvest" collected 1,432 items of useless and possibly dangerous material weighing a total of 314 pounds.

Capt. Jack D. Hegele, hospital administrative officer and originator of the drive, said the project will be held again in May of next year. The theme will be "Mayday" — the international distress signal.

City Traffic Effort Gets Compliment

Altho the Colorado Springs police department receives its share of complaint calls — and there have been quite a few recently when tickets have been issued for right turns downtown — every once in awhile a complimentary one is sent to Police Chief Cecil J. McKissick.

One compliment was received recently from a woman who lives on North Prospect Street and who said she thought both City Traffic Engineer Don L. Smith and the chief were doing a good job.

"Because of the job both of you have done and the courteous, well-trained police officers we have in Colorado Springs, this city is moving ahead safely even with its rapid expansion."

She remarked in the letter that she received a speeding violation ticket late in 1962 "but the officer who gave it to me explained it so well that I still feel it was the best $15 I ever spent — spent to bring home to me again the rule that a car is a lethal weapon that must be handled with as great care as one handles a gun, and that traffic regulations must be followed to prevent injury."

"It brought home to me," the woman added, "my individual obligation to know and to follow these regulations which were made for my protection and convenience, as well as for others."

Gun, Clothes Reported Missing From Car

C. H. Harrison, 211 N. Swope Ave. reported to the sheriff's department Wednesday that a quantity of men's and women's clothing and a revolver, serial number 715679, worth a total of $295.50 had been stolen from his car.

He told Undersheriff Doyle McCammon that the vehicle was parked at the rear of 211 S. Swope Ave., at the time and that it was unlocked.

Classes in Home Nursing New Dimension

Home Nursing classes have assumed new dimensions with the addition of a series of films which are combined with the traditional learn-by-doing techniques of the Red Cross.

Classes are started in the basement of the Red Cross House, 1600 N Cascade Ave., as soon as they are filled.

"Classes are free, a service of the Red Cross, made possible by United Fund givers. Instructors are volunteers. Textbooks are purchased at cost. . . 75 cents. . . by each class member," Mrs. Norman Harloff, nursing services chairman, said.

The new series of films was developed for the National Red Cross and are endorsed by Civil Defense. Classes met for five, two hour sessions during which ume class members learn to care for sick, injured of convalescing members of the family. Emphasis is on fitting the needs of the patient into the routine of the family. The Home Nurse is taught to schedule her bedside nursing so that there is time left over for the rest of the family.

Following the instructions of the patient's doctor, keeping a chart, taking temperatures, making beds and even the emergency delivery of a baby are part of the course. In addition to the care of a patient at home the course teaches means of adapting the skills learned to emergency situations and disaster.

During March, Red Cross month, the local Red Cross announced that it will provide information on a number of services available through this agency. In some parts of the country the Red Cross drive for funds is being held. In the Pikes Peak Region, the Red Cross devotes the month to thanking United Fund givers for their support an explaining the services which this support made possible.

U.S. exports of farm products in 1963 were about eight per cent higher than the $5,031 million in 1962.

Johnson Gives Speech on St. Patrick's Day

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — A self-styled "Irishman by osmosis," President Johnson told a St. Patrick's Day dinner "I have found our nation's greatest strength lies in the dream of America — America, the land of hope; America, the land of opportunity.

"All the slings and arrows of our opponents in the world have never succeeded in destroying that image," he said Tuesday night.

With jest and with serious talk, Johnson spoke to more than 2,500 members of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick in a Waldorf-Astoria Hotel ballroom festooned with green streamers hanging from crystal chandeleirs. The headtable was scarcely visible behind green carnations.

Explaining why he is Irish by osmosis, the President spoke of the Irishmen in high government places — associates in the White House, the speaker of the House, and the Senate Democratic leader.

"I woke up this morning," he said with a smile, "and suddenly realized that the Irish have taken over the government. And I like it."

He said the dinner was supposed to be a nonpartisan affair, but remarked that the Democratic party is "so peaceful the Irish may move to the Republican party where the feuding is really going on."

Then, turning serious, the President said St. Patrick's Day is one in which America shares in a very definite sense because the Irish who came here had a dream of freedom and dignity.

"Here a man could hold his head as high as any other," he said, "and worship his God as he chose, without ever accounting to a soldier with a bayonet."

To an audience that interrupted frequently with applause, Johnson said nothing is more important to him than making this a land whose compassion will be an example to the world's other 119 nations.

He said he wants the United States to be a land where the sick of body can find help and the sick of heart can find hope.

The Rampart Reelers of Palmer Lake Monument held their weekly square dance Monday night, March 2. Added fun came when the club presented its caller, Pete English, a foot long "cigar" for his birthday. Refreshments of cake, ice cream and coffee were served by the Taylors and Waltons. The group met again March 9. Along with square dancing the club members learned the round dance, Bosa Nova, which proved to be a "limber upper." Pete English presented each couple with "Bachelor of Square Dance" diplomas. Diplomas will be given soon for the round dance. Following the dancing, pictures were shown of the valentine party given by the Englishes in February. Coffee and cookies were served by the Edgetts and Bowkers. Square Dance members are reminded of the Square Dance Jubilee, May 29, 30, 31, at Pine Crest. Further information may be had by calling 481-2234.

Cutting of Meat Imports May Spell Trouble

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Caught in the squeeze of international trade negotiations, the Johnson administration may be stockpiling some election troubles by resisting legislation to cut meat imports.

Republicans contend that the Western prairies are on fire with protests of cattle and sheep raisers. Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., contends some cattlemen are "going broke" because of boosted imports of beef, veal and mutton under voluntary agreements with Australia and New Zealand.

That there is Democratic concern over the matter was demonstrated by the action of Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield of Montana in proposing quotas which would limit such imports to the average of 1959-63 base period. Mansfield is seeking re-election in November.

Thus far, testimony in support of quotas of one kind or another has been taken by the Senate Finance Committee from North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa, Montana, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Nebraska, Vermont, Virginia, Oklahoma and Hawaii.

Hruska and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman got into a shouting match about the matter in a hearing Tuesday before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

Freeman testified that he is opposed to any legislation to place quotas on meat imports. He said the United States should wait to see if voluntary agreements with Australia and New Zealand don't strengthen domestic meat prices.

The secretary contended that only 15 per cent of the decline in prices paid to cattle raisers was caused by imports. He said 85 per cent could be attributed to an increase in domestic production. He promised to review the situation again next year.

Hruska said the cattlemen can't wait.

The patience of those people directly involved, who will be broke and bankrupt, will run out and they will say, 'You have to legislate'," he declared.

Freeman broke in to say that the Nebraska Republican who is seeking re-election his year, was making a campaign speech.

"I resent that very much," Hruska fired back. "This is not a political speech. That is the feeling of the people of the Midwest."

Freeman retorted that he knew a political speech when he heard one because "I make enough of them."

Unmentioned in this exchange was the fact that the Johnson administration is trying to keep its record clear of quota restrictions when it goes into international negotiations in Geneva in mid-May seeking to get the European Common Market to lower some of its barriers against American farm products.

A measure of success in such endeavors would be calculated to raise the administration's standing among farmers generally. It would not necessarily mitigate the resentment of cattle and sheep raisers at the low prices they still may be receiving in November.

Nickel Indian Head Is Composite Image

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Indian head on the Buffalo nickel was identified again today as a composite image. The periodic claims of individual chiefs for the honor are thus laid low.

The identification was made by Eva Adams, director of the Mint, at the request of Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont. Mansfield had asked if the model was Sam Resurrection, Montana Flathead Indian.

"According to our files the likeness is a composite," Miss Adams wrote the Senate Democratic leader.

She quoted from a letter which she said designer James Earle Fraser wrote in 1931 to the commissioner of Indian affairs:

"The Indian head on the Buffalo nickel is not a direct portrait of any particular Indian, but was made from several portrait busts which I did of Indians.

"I used three different heads. I remember two of the men. One was Irontail, the best Indian head I can remember. The other was Two Moons. The third I cannot recall. . ."

At least one of the three Indians forming the composite may have been a Montanan, according to the letter.

ANCIENT SHIP

SIRACUSA, Sicily (AP) — A wooden Roman sailing ship believed to date back to the 3rd or 4th century B.C. has been found in the coatal mudflats at the southeastern tip of Sicily. Ancient Rome had shipyards in that area to build fleets of vessels to supply its legions in Africa.

New Michaelis Drive-In Plans Three-Day Opening

The newest Michaelis Drive-In Restaurant, located at 3970 N. Nevada Ave., will hold its grand opening Friday, Saturday and Sunday, according to Harold Michaelis, owner and manager.

This is the fifth drive-in Michaelis has built in Colorado Springs, but with the opening of the new one, only four will be in operation. The drive-in formerly located at 3802 N. Nevada Ave. has been razed.

Special treats will be available to all customers of all four drive-ins during the three days and grand opening specials will be available at the four locations.

One of the outstanding points about the new north drive-in is its kitchen, which contains all stainless steel equipment custom built to fit the space provided without an inch to spare.

Michaelis has also purchased and is in the process of remodeling the Palomar Lodge, 3990 N. Nevada Ave., next door to his new drive-in. The lodge office has been torn down and replaced with a smaller replica of the distinctive Michaelis restaurant building for use as an office. In addition, three more units have been added, new sidewalks installed, and all sleeping units repainted white on the outside. When the motel remodeling is completed, the distinctive orange which characterizes the Michaelis properties will be prominent in the exterior and interior decor.

Entrance to the newest Michaelis Drive-In is on the south side of the property, which faces the east toward Nevada Avenue. Parking space has been provided beneath a canopy which runs parallel to the entrance corridor. Other space for parking may also be found at the rear of the building.

Michaelis has made extensive use of ceramic tile, both indoors and outside. Walls in the small walk-in service area are of ceramic tile as are the walls of storerooms and restrooms. In addition, tile has been used at both the front and rear of the restaurant building and on the motel's new office. Again, The Michaelis orange is a promient color.

Persons wishing to eat outdoors will find colorful tables and seating facilities on a patio immediately south of the restaurant building. Table tops are inlaid with colorful pieces of tile.

The entire property, including the motel, is surrounded by cyclone fencing by American Fence Co. with colorful metal venetian blind slats inserted to form an unusual pattern.

The property has been completely landscaped, using evergreens, cacti, and various native plants as well as colorful rocks.

Michaelis has been in business in the Pikes Peak Region since 1946. After selling his first business in Manitou Springs, he built the north drive-in, which has since been torn down, then those at 2442 E. Highway 24, 957 S. Nevada Ave., and 1603 W. Colorado Ave.

Youths Held In Probe of Shoplifting

Daniel Wayne Bartholomew, 19, of 2000 Mesa Ave. was arrested Wednesday afternoon and charged with petit larceny after he and a 17-year old youth were accused of shoplifting at the King Soopers store at 2727 E. Palmer Park Blvd., police reported.

William R. Murphy, manager of the store, told officers he followed Bartholomew and the youth outside after seeing them leave the store with several wrenches they had not paid for.

Murphy and several clerks from the store brought the two back inside and called police.

Bartholomew was placed in County Jail. He was later released on bond. The youth is being held in the Zebulon Pike Detention Center.

In another shoplift case Wednesday, police arrested Paul Ramsey Roberts, 37, of 440 E. Pikes Peak Ave. after he was accused of stealing a package of meat from the King Soopers store at 501 E. Pikes Peak Ave.

W. Donald Brown, the store manager, told police he saw Roberts walk out of the store without paying for the meat Wednesday afternoon. He followed Roberts, and after bringing him back inside, called the police.

Tank Knocks Store Off Its Foundations

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Groceryman Ed Booth plans to open as usual today despite a gaping hole in the wall caused by a runaway 50-ton Army tank.

The tank, en route to a nearby training site Wednesday, caught fire and was abandoned on a steep hill. Its brakes failed and backward it rolled, knocking Booth's store off its foundation.

Booth had taken Wednesday afternoon off, as usual, and no one was in the building when the tank hit.

Democrats Hold $100 Per Plate Fund Dinners

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Led by that eminent Hibernian, Lyndon B. Johnson, Democratic legions gather tonight for an "Irish party" calculated to fatten the party's campaign war chests by $5,000.

President Johnson prepared, for the $100-a-plate dinner, a speech expected to set the tone for the coming campaigns to keep the Democrats in office.

The theme of the dinner was all-green. The huge National Guard Armory's drill shed was festooned with hundreds of yards of green decor, interspersed with harps. Even the tickets, for which the faithful shelled out the long green, were printed in green.

Why the Irish motif two days after St. Patrick's Day? A Democratic party official explained that St. Patrick's Day has expanded itself — that the whole week is Irish week. It was also pointed out that Johnson, in a New York speech Tuesday, proclaimed himself "an Irishman by osmosis."

The dinner is in honor of the congressional "class of 1936." That is, men who first got elected in the Democratic sweep of that year, under Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Specifically, the members of the class being honored are President Johnson, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson of Washington, Rep. Michael J. Kirwan of Ohio, Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama, Rep. Harry R. Sheppard of California, Rep. W. R. Page of Texas, Rep. Albert Thomas of Texas, Rep. Eugene J. Keogh of New York and Rep. George M. Grant of Alabama.

The toastmaster will be the old party warhorse, James A. Farley, 75, former Democratic national chairman and postmaster general.

Farley expresses confidence of a Democratic sweep this year. Present party chieftains recall fondly how in 1936 he helped engineer the greatest sweep since George Washington's time.

Windsors Give Interview at French Castle

By RODNEY ANGOVE

PARIS (AP) — "Come back when we have flowers and sunshine," smiled the Duchess of Windsor.

"Yes," seconded the duke. "and let me know and I'll put on more presentable clothes."

Dropping in on "Les Windsors," as the French call the most famous residents of the Bois de Boulogne, wasn't all that casual. The picture-taking session had to be arranged in advance through a staff of secretaries. The duchess was prepared, but the duke was taken by surprise.

The duchess busy in town with social engagements, was driven across the spacious grounds in an American limousine painted British racing green, perhaps to match the green license plates of diplomatic status accorded by the French government.

A uniformed doorman met her at the driveway entrance to the squarish three-story house of yellowish sandstone. A bow-tied porter in tails helped carry her things through the wrought-iron double doors.

The auburn-haired duchess, 68 apologized for being a few minutes late. "This is one of those days when I'm running an hour behind time," she said.

In a chic white suit, simply cut, she gamely ventured a few yards across the spongy lawn in her spike heels so the balconied house would be in the background.

"Try to cut off the chimneys, they're not very pretty," she called, referring to smoke abatement devices foreign to the turn-of-the-century architecture.

The house is one of the few privately occupied properties in the vast park on the west edge of Paris. It is thinly screened from two thoroughfares by fences and shrubbery.

Callers are admitted through a sheet-iron gate controlled by caretakers in a service building. So busy is the staff of cooks, chauffeurs and a host of others that a switchboard with several outside lines is required.

The couple has rented the home from the city of Paris since 1953. The duke and duchess have lived outside Britain since their marriage in 1937, following the duke's abdication as King Edward VIII.

Asked if the duke would join her, the duchess touched her lips with surprise. "Oh dear. He didn't know he was invited. But we'll call him anyway."

"We've already photographed everything in there," she said with a gesture toward the long plush living room laden with souvenirs of royal origin.

A scuffling of dogs upstairs heralded the arrival of the duke, carrying the oldest of the five beige pugs, family pets for years.

"Photographs? Oh no, I'm not at all dressed for it," he said, patting his broad, loosely knotted necktie and short jacket of four-inch blue squares, a pattern the French call "Prince of Wales."

"Oh yes you are, dear," encouraged the duchess. "They can say you are in your country clothes."

A devotee of the countryside, the duke puts in his weekends working in the gardens of their rented 23-acre tract around a converted mill in the Chevreuse Valley outside Paris. There he does much of the actual digging in a garden designed by British landscape architect Russell Page.

"But you're so dressed up I wouldn't look right," the duke protested.

But he finally consented. At 69, the duke still plays golf every week on various courses around Paris.

The dogs ran off across the lawn and the duke went after them, catching up at the driveway lamp post decorated with a royal crown on top.

Early Approval Urged For Silver Dollars

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Sen. Frank Church D-Idaho, has urged a House subcommittee to give early approval to legislation authorizing issuance of $150 million in new silver dollars.

The senator said he wrote the Appropriations subcommittee on Treasury and Post Office, pointing out that Idaho is the leading silver producer in the nation and that silver dollars are a tradition of the West.

Windsors Give Interview at French Castle

By RODNEY ANGOVE

PARIS (AP) — "Come back when we have flowers and sunshine," smiled the Duchess of Windsor.

"Yes," seconded the duke. "and let me know and I'll put on more presentable clothes."

Dropping in on "Les Windsors," as the French call the most famous residents of the Bois de Boulogne, wasn't all that casual. The picture-taking session had to be arranged in advance through a staff of secretaries. The duchess was prepared, but the duke was taken by surprise.

The duchess busy in town with social engagements, was driven across the spacious grounds in an American limousine painted British racing green, perhaps to match the green license plates of diplomatic status accorded by the French government.

A uniformed doorman met her at the driveway entrance to the squarish three-story house of yellowish sandstone. A bow-tied porter in tails helped carry her things through the wrought-iron double doors.

The auburn-haired duchess, 68 apologized for being a few minutes late. "This is one of those days when I'm running an hour behind time," she said.

In a chic white suit, simply cut, she gamely ventured a few yards across the spongy lawn in her spike heels so the balconied house would be in the background.

"Try to cut off the chimneys, they're not very pretty," she called, referring to smoke abatement devices foreign to the turn-of-the-century architecture.

The house is one of the few privately occupied properties in the vast park on the west edge of Paris. It is thinly screened from two thoroughfares by fences and shrubbery.

MY ANSWER

QUESTION: Where is the joy Christians talk of? I hear you speak of the joy of following Christ, but I have only experienced it on a few occasions. Honestly, I want to know. Where is this joy? — E.S.

ANSWER: Where is the joy Christians talk about?

I saw it on the faces of the widows of those missionaries who were killed by the Auca Indians when they were taking Christ's message to them. I saw it in the face of Betty Eliot, the wife of one of those men who went to the wilds of South America to evangelize the tribe that killed her husband.

Where is that joy?

I saw it recently on the face of Fernando Vangioni, who suffers from crippling arthritis, but travels in great physical pain to the cities and jungles of Latin America, because he believes that Christ is the answer to the anguish of the human heart.

Where is this joy?

I saw it in the face of Tom Allan, one of Britain's greatest preachers, who in the midst of a coronary thrombosis, smiled and said: "Through this God is getting me ready for a larger ministry."

I saw it on the face of Dr. William Sangster, who, while dying of atrophy of the muscles said: "Billy, go tell everyone that I said Christ is equal to every crises, and that it is more blessed to serve Christ with a broken body, than to be well without Him!"

QUESTION: Among other things, I have lied a lot to my my husband that our marriage twelve years ago. Now he believes nothing I say, of course, and our marriage is breaking up. However, since I have received Christ as my Savior I have not lied nor been unfaithful. How can I convince my husband that our marriage has a possibility of working out?—V.

ANSWER: Obviously, you are paying for deceitfulness, and for the breaking of the marriage vows. You say you have received Christ. That is the wisest thing you have done thus far, but now you are faced with the task of getting your husband to forgive you. Because of your past, he has evidently lost respect for the woman you were. Now, you must conduct yourself in such a manner to make him fall in love with the new woman you are now, and to follow you in accepting Christ.

First, don't talk about the past. If you have asked him to forgive you, don't keep rehearsing your past mistakes. This will tend to make him think of the woman that was—rather then the person you are now.

Second, show him that you are entirely different. Let him see the beauty of Christ in your life. Be attentive; and affectionate; pray daily for guidance in this new adventure.

Third, don't be over-anxious about remaking him—let God do it through patience and prayer. My prediction is that God, through you, will win him over.

U.S. May Gain Atomic News, Official Says

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, told newsmen Tuesday that the United States probably would gain more than the Soviet Union in an exchange of atomic energy information.

He said the Soviet Union has an advantage over the United States because more American research results are published and the Russians have a highly efficient system of screening foreign technical journals.

INCREASED AID URGED

BOULDER (UPI)—Dr. Wassily Leontief, a leading economist, urged the United States Tuesday to up its foreign aid spending as much as $75 billion to prevent further widening of the economic gap between developed and underdeveloped nations. The Harvard University professor, speaking at Colorado University, said it was necessary for this country to triple or even quadruple its aid to help the underdeveloped nations keep pace with the growth. He said present aid should be increased from $4 billion to $25 million or $25 billion immediately.

All Does Not Glitter in Geneva Paradise

By JERRY SHEEHAN

GENEVA (NEA) — The director of the corporation places an affectionate hand on Frisby's shoulder and says:

"We like your style, Frisby. We're transferring you to our office in Geneva, Switzerland."

For eager junior executive Frisby, the words are almost too good to be true. He has heard about the tax-free living, the inexpensive European economy, Geneva's elegant resort atmosphere with swans paddling in the Rhone.

So Frisby packs his family and himself off for Switzerland to join the expanding American colony there.

Unfortunately for the mythical Frisby and the 7,500 American citizens in and around Geneva, all is not golden in paradise. An increasing number of U.S. firms are setting up offices in this centrally located European city. But with the advantages, they discover, come headaches.

An executive of Chrysler International, which employs 80 Americans in its Geneva world headquarters, said that a firm's biggest problem is women — wives of their employes.

U.S. companies have found that their personnel troubles are sharpened overseas. As one executive described it: "If a man drank a little too much or chased women in the states, the problem is increased here."

"There have been some sad cases," he said. "After a man is transferred here, his wife may get fed up with Europe and start nagging him. His work usually suffers and we have to send them home. It's bad for him and bad for the company.

"Usually the man is thrilled with living abroad; but it's the wife who has to do the shopping and cope with day-to-day problems in a foreign language. We have met the problem by bringing both the husband and wife here for a two-week trial period to see how they get along."

Other firms which have transferred persons to Geneva in sizable numbers include Esso Standard Oil, Proctor and Gamble, DuPont, U.S. Rubber, Union Carbide and Caterpillar Tractor.

"It was a little hard on my wife at first," said Robert Mitchell, a vice president of Chrysler International. "When I was told seven years ago about my new assignment in Geneva, I broke the news to my wife over a Martini after the kids had gone to bed. She cried before we left Detroit, but she loves it now."

Most Americans complain that the Swiss are cordial but distant and do not really accept them into their circles. The Swiss, however, complain that the Americans have set up a colony and stick to themselves. The American Club provides members with a full schedule of social activities.

One of the first things that new residents discover is that American-style living costs money. Modern apartments in the city rent from $200 to $350 a month; a house, $400 a month and up.

Mrs. Norman Christy, wife of Chrysler International's director of product planning, believes that most American wives in Geneva miss their parents and supermarkets mostly. Most of them complain about services. "It takes forever to get a washing machine fixed."

Living costs vary widely from the states. A cut and permanent wave are relatively cheap ($10); steak prices are high ($2 a pound).

Americans in Geneva welcome the chance to give their children a European education. Mr Christy's 6-year-old son attends a French school, and is fluent in that language. The daughters, 11 and 13, speak fair French.

The diplomatic colony, too, is an important section of the American island in central Europe.

Joseph McFadden, 41, has been in Geneva with his large family for a year and a half as deputy director of the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration (ICEM).

The McFaddens have two of their five children enrolled in a local French speaking school. Both parents and children apparently relish the chance to see Europe. The two oldest boys plan a bicycle ride through the continent this summer.

"Your children," said Mrs. McFadden, "can be good little ambassadors for the U.S. They counteract that one per cent of the American population here who can give Americans a bad name."

All Does Not Glitter in Geneva Paradise

By JERRY SHEEHAN

GENEVA (NEA) — The director of the corporation places an affectionate hand on Frisby's shoulder and says:

"We like your style, Frisby. We're transferring you to our office in Geneva, Switzerland."

For eager junior executive Frisby, the words are almost too good to be true. He has heard about the tax-free living, the inexpensive European economy, Geneva's elegant resort atmosphere with swans paddling in the Rhone.

So Frisby packs his family and himself off for Switzerland to join the expanding American colony there.

Unfortunately for the mythical Frisby and the 7,500 American citizens in and around Geneva, all is not golden in paradise. An increasing number of U.S. firms are setting up offices in this centrally located European city. But with the advantages, they discover, come headaches.

An executive of Chrysler International, which employs 80 Americans in its Geneva world headquarters, said that a firm's biggest problem is women — wives of their employes.

U.S. companies have found that their personnel troubles are sharpened overseas. As one executive described it: "If a man drank a little too much or chased women in the states, the problem is increased here."

"There have been some sad cases," he said. "After a man is transferred here, his wife may get fed up with Europe and start nagging him. His work usually suffers and we have to send them home. It's bad for him and bad for the company.

"Usually the man is thrilled with living abroad; but it's the wife who has to do the shopping and cope with day-to-day problems in a foreign language. We have met the problem by bringing both the husband and wife here for a two-week trial period to see how they get along."

Other firms which have transferred persons to Geneva in sizable numbers include Esso Standard Oil, Proctor and Gamble, DuPont, U.S. Rubber, Union Carbide and Caterpillar Tractor.

"It was a little hard on my wife at first," said Robert Mitchell, a vice president of Chrysler International. "When I was told seven years ago about my new assignment in Geneva, I broke the news to my wife over a Martini after the kids had gone to bed. She cried before we left Detroit, but she loves it now."

Most Americans complain that the Swiss are cordial but distant and do not really accept them into their circles. The Swiss, however, complain that the Americans have set up a colony and stick to themselves. The American Club provides members with a full schedule of social activities.

One of the first things that new residents discover is that American-style living costs money. Modern apartments in the city rent from $200 to $350 a month; a house, $400 a month and up.

Mrs. Norman Christy, wife of Chrysler International's director of product planning, believes that most American wives in Geneva miss their parents and supermarkets mostly. Most of them complain about services. "It takes forever to get a washing machine fixed."

Living costs vary widely from the states. A cut and permanent wave are relatively cheap ($10); steak prices are high ($2 a pound).

Americans in Geneva welcome the chance to give their children a European education. Mr Christy's 6-year-old son attends a French school, and is fluent in that language. The daughters, 11 and 13, speak fair French.

The diplomatic colony, too, is an important section of the American island in central Europe.

Joseph McFadden, 41, has been in Geneva with his large family for a year and a half as deputy director of the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration (ICEM).

The McFaddens have two of their five children enrolled in a local French speaking school. Both parents and children apparently relish the chance to see Europe. The two oldest boys [illegible] bicycle ride through the [illegible] last summer.

"Your children," said Mrs. McFadden, "can be good little ambassadors for the U.S. They represent that one per cent of the American population here who can give Americans a bad name.

Relief for State General Fund Is Being Provided

DENVER (AP) — Temporary relief can be given to Colorado's state general fund — hard-pressed for months—under two new laws signed by Gov. John A. Love.

One frees the general fund from a requirement that 5 per cent of its gross receipts be transferred to the special fund for new buildings. The moratorium on transfers applies only for the current fiscal year, ending June 30, but it saves the general fund about $7 million. As shown by the latest balance sheet of State Treasurer Homer F. Bedford, the fund has only about $2.5 million at present.

The other measure—called a treasury management law by Republicans—allows the general fund to borrow unused money from the construction fund provided the loan is repaid before the end of the fiscal year.

This provides a source of ready cash during periods of low income and high expenses.

The so-called treasury management law bears a sharp similarity to one of the "golden gimmicks" used several years ago by Democrat Steve McNichols when he was governor. Under that plan, McNichols borrowed money from the Colorado State Hospital building fund for the general fund. It subsequently was repaid.

Governor Love, discussing the bills with reporters, said the treasury management law is good business and may prevent the state from having to increase its $10 million revolving fund. Continued expansion of the state, the governor said, with increasing budgets means the $10 million revolving fund soon will become inadequate. Use of money lying unspent in the construction fund, he explained, will prevent the need to increase its size.

At present most of the revolving fund has been used, but Budget Director Con F. Shea says it will be restored by the end of the fiscal year if income tax and insurance tax receipts reach expectations.

The two bills were among 10 signed by the governor late Tuesday, birnging his total for the year to 73. He still has not exercised his veto power. Thirty bills passed by the legislature still await action.

Another of the measures tightens the penalty point law under which drivers' licenses can be suspended or revoked. It says 12 points accumulated within any 12-month period will be grounds for suspension. Court decisions on the old law required the points to be accumulated between the motorist's birthdays.

Other bills signed by the governor will:

Open the way for Fort Lewis College at Durango to spend $80,000 on an addition to its campus.

Increase the cost of barbers' licenses.

Increase the fees charged to practical nurses.

Enable members of the legislature's Joint Budget Committee to earn up to $2,000 extra pay yearly instead of the present $1,000 extra.

Require one judge of the 4th Judicial District to maintain his office and official residence in the eastern part of the district.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Two of three young men accused of killing a Malden policeman have been sentenced to life imprisonment.

The third defendant, Peter Ladetto, 25, brother of Louis, remained on trial in a Middlesex County Superior Court.

Suit Against Skating Rink Melts Away

CHICAGO (AP) — A suit against a skating rink was dismissed in Circuit Court Tuesday when a judge decided the problem had literally melted away.

Frank P. Lawler sought $5,000 damages and asked the court to close a private skating rink on the grounds the skaters made too much noise and damaged his property.

Judge Cornelius J. Harrington dismissed the case, noting "the unseasonably warm weather has solved the problem by melting the ice."

Thousand-Mile Airlift Of Troops Said Success

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources today reported success in testing a new method of airlifting lightly armed troops thousands of miles and equipping them with heavy gear from waiting ship depots.

Even a raging tropical storm failed to disrupt the operation seriously, authorities said.

The test was held in January and February. A 4,000-man brigade of Army infantry was flown from Hawaii to Okinawa and mated with tanks, artillery, ammunition and other stocks unloaded from depot ships.

Army and Defense Department observers have reported since that there were no serious hitches — that the method was shown to be both operationally and economically practical, sources said.

This could mean that the so-far limited plan involving three "forward floating depots" may be adopted on a wider scale.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has told Congress that if the Pacific test was successful "we will propose an expansion in the forward floating base program next year."

This concept is one way of permitting the United States to airlift troops swiftly to crisis points in various parts of the world.

Depot ships set sail from strategically located ports and rendezvous with the soldiers.

In the recent test, three depot ships moved from Subic Bay in the Philippines to meet the brigade at Okinawa.

The three converted World War II Victory vessels under Navy control were moored in Subic Bay about a year ago after being loaded on the U.S. East Coast with combat equipment.

The big question posed by Pentagon officials: Would the gear be in combat shape when it was needed?

The observer reports showed that none of the equipment and supplies stockpiled aboard the three ships had deteriorated. None had to be replaced.

Louisville Forgets Smoke Health Scare

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The smoking-health scare appeared a forgotten item today in Louisville's cigarette industry.

P. Lorillard and Philip Morris reported plants on a five-day week while Brown and Williamson Tobacco Co., said its operation called for a nine-hour, or one-hour overtime schedule on a five-day week. American Tobacco Co. said it was operating full schedule on two brands and four-day weeks on two others.

Short schedules became effective after the government panel reported unfavorably on cigarette smoking though most tobacco company spokesmen discounted speculation that the report was involved in the cutback.

Leukemia Boy, for Whom Dad Stole, Dies

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—Little Bradley McDonald, the 5-year-old Leukemia victim whose stepfather stole so that his last months might be happy, died Wednesday.

Bradley's stepfather, Gordon James McDonald, 35, served a month in prison last year for stealing $680 from his employer. His original six-month term was reduced by the British Columbia Court of Appeal when it learned McDonald had stolen for Bradley.

Bradley received donations and well wishes from all over the country after distribution of a picture showing him with McDonald.

Wife Is Excused From Serving on Jury

OROVILLE, Calif. (AP) — When Judge William Savage asked the 20-member jury panel if any of them knew the defendant, Lynn C. Green raised her hand.

She was excused.

Later a jury was selected. It convicted Nathan F. Green, 34, on a drunken driving charge.

Thousand-Mile Airlift Of Troops Said Success

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources today reported success in testing a new method of airlifting lightly armed troops thousands of miles and equipping them with heavy gear from waiting ship depots.

Even a raging tropical storm failed to disrupt the operation seriously, authorities said.

The test was held in January and February. A 4,000-man brigade of Army infantry was flown from Hawaii to Okinawa and mated with tanks, artillery, ammunition and other stocks unloaded from depot ships.

Army and Defense Department observers have reported since that there were no serious hitches — that the method was shown to be both operationally and economically practical, sources said.

This could mean that the so-far limited plan involving three "forward floating depots" may be adopted on a wider scale.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has told Congress that if the Pacific test was successful "we will propose an expansion in the forward floating base program next year."

This concept is one way of permitting the United States to airlift troops swiftly to crisis points in various parts of the world.

Depot ships set sail from strategically located ports and rendezvous with the soldiers.

In the recent test, three depot ships moved from Subic Bay in the Philippines to meet the brigade at Okinawa.

The three converted World War II Victory vessels under Navy control were moored in Subic Bay about a year ago after being loaded on the U.S. East Coast with combat equipment.

The big question posed by Pentagon officials: Would the gear be in combat shape when it was needed?

The observer reports showed that none of the equipment and supplies stockpiled aboard the three ships had deteriorated. None had to be replaced.

Louisville Forgets Smoke Health Scare

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The smoking-health scare appeared a forgotten item today in Louisville's cigarette industry.

P. Lorillard and Philip Morris reported plants on a five-day week while Brown and Williamson Tobacco Co., said its operation called for a nine-hour, or one-hour overtime schedule on a five-day week. American Tobacco Co. said it was operating full schedule on two brands and four-day weeks on two others.

Short schedules became effective after the government panel reported unfavorably on cigarette smoking though most tobacco company spokesmen discounted speculation that the report was involved in the cutback.

Carson Soldier Will Compete in Sport Car Race

Private William R. Eve, C Company, 2d Battalion, 61st Infantry, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized), Ft. Carson, Colorado, will compete in America's biggest sports car race March 21, at Sebring, Florida. Eve, a recent graduate of the battalion's Advanced Individual Trainee program, finished tenth in the Daytona Continental in Florida last month.

The 12 hour endurance race at Sebring, which attracts top drivers from thruout the world, is run over a five-mile track which winds thru twisting turns and straightaways. Sebring is second in international importance only to the 24-hour endurance race in LeMans, France.

Running a strong fifth in Daytona, Eve was a sure bet to finish near the top when his car developed generator trouble which delayed his re-entry into the race for over an hour.

Parents of Girls Get Birth Boost

That worrisome statistic (to parents of girls that is) of females far out-numbering the males got a shot in the arm Wednesday and early this morning.

If this sort of thing keeps up, the odds will be about even in a score or so years hence (for the parents of girls that is).

Sight, Hearing Problems Discussed at Seminar

"Too many yesterdays" in the assault of old age, accounts for a great many of the eye problems experienced by oldsters, said Dr. Neil Jepson, opthalmologist, speaking to a Wednesday Senior Seminar session.

Dr. Jepson shared speaking honors with Dr. John S. Pollard, general practice, before some 75 seniors and interested citizens attending the afternoon session in the Little Theater at City Auditorium. Moderator for the panel discussion was Dr. Katherine Chapman, opthalmologist. The discussion was on "Problems of Sight and Hearing."

Dr. Pollard in opening remarks stated that "following an examination, we in general practice, very frequently have to send a patient on to a specialist."

He commented on pains in the eye, allergy pains, and pains in the sinus areas, that are often mis-interpreted as being in the eye, by the patient. He stressed the importance of treatment to restore hearing loss due to ear infections that start as a cold, complicating to pain and pressure.

"General practicioners, the family doctor, often work as a team with the specialist," he said. "We can help you accept these gadgets (hearing aids, glasses) that they put on, as worth yuor while, after you have adjusted to them. We can be thankful that we have these gadgets and the specialists who prescribe and build them for us," he said.

Dr. Jepson opened his portion of the discussion by describing the eye as an extension of the brain, comparing it's operation to that of a camera. He then gave a detailed explanation of the anatomy of the eye, using a plastic model, in leading to his talk on four major diseases of the eye, and their correction.

He listed these as, Cataract - a condition where the "lens" within the eye becomes less transparent - correctable by surgery. Glaucoma - the increase of fluid pressures within the eye. Macular Detachment - the inside image-sensitive back part of the eye that becomes less than good "film," and Retinal Detachment - separation of the retina membrane, the image-sensitive film inside the eye, according to Dr. Jepson.

The Wednesday afternoon senior session was the fifth and last of a series this year. This was the third year for the weekly sessions held in the Little Theater. Weekly luncheon sessions recently concluded have been held for two years, sponsored by the Senior Coordination Council.

Sight, Hearing Problems Discussed at Seminar

"Too many yesterdays" in the assault of old age, accounts for a great many of the eye problems experienced by oldsters, said Dr. Neil Jepson, opthalmologist, speaking to a Wednesday Senior Seminar session.

Dr. Jepson shared speaking honors with Dr. John S. Pollard, general practice, before some 75 seniors and interested citizens attending the afternoon session in the Little Theater at City Auditorium. Moderator for the panel discussion was Dr. Katherine Chapman, opthalmologist. The discussion was on "Problems of Sight and Hearing."

Dr. Pollard in opening remarks stated that "following an examination, we in general practice, very frequently have to send a patient on to a specialist."

He commented on pains in the eye, allergy pains, and pains in the sinus areas, that are often mis-interpreted as being in the eye, by the patient. He stressed the importance of treatment to restore hearing loss due to ear infections that start as a cold, complicating to pain and pressure.

"General practicioners, the family doctor, often work as a team with the specialist," he said. "We can help you accept these gadgets (hearing aids, glasses) that they put on, as worth yuor while, after you have adjusted to them. We can be thankful that we have these gadgets and the specialists who prescribe and build them for us," he said.

Dr. Jepson opened his portion of the discussion by describing the eye as an extension of the brain, comparing it's operation to that of a camera. He then gave a detailed explanation of the anatomy of the eye, using a plastic model, in leading to his talk on four major diseases of the eye, and their correction.

He listed these as, Cataract - a condition where the "lens" within the eye becomes less transparent - correctable by surgery. Glaucoma - the increase of fluid pressures within the eye Macular Detachment - the inside image-sensitive back part of the eye that becomes less than good "film," and Retinal Detachment - separation of the retina membrane, the image-sensitive film inside the eye, according to Dr. Jepson.

The Wednesday afternoon senior session was the fifth and last of a series this year. This was the third year for the weekly sessions held in the Little Theater. Weekly luncheon sessions recently concluded have been held for two years, sponsored by the Senior Coordination Council.

We are indebted to Oren A. Hartsel of Simla for the following:

"Sod houses and school houses back in the 1900's were used for social centers, such as religious services, literary meetings, political debates, box suppers and dances.

"Neighbors were good to help one another build sod houses and barns and we knew our neighbors for miles around. My father was happy to help people homestead. Strangers were asked to stop and visit.

"Our closest neighbor was H. L. Kiick, who lived one mile south of us. Our sod school house was two miles south."

"The Hartsels came to Colorado in a covered wagon and arrived at the Myron Harper home one half mile south and one half mile east of Ramah. Mr. Harper showed my father large potatoes, corn, wheat and oats could be raised, and that homesteads could be filed on.

"Our homestead was 160 acres and we just needed to pay for the filing, which had to be done in Pueblo. My father's name was A. J. Hartsel and the first spring we lived in tents until the crop was planted. My father brought the first pinto beans to this country from Rocky Ford, Colo. That started the big bean industry.

"Our homestead was six miles southeast of Ramah. The family lived there until 1908, when my father bought some railroad property and built on it and rented the homestead. This property was one mile south and six miles east of Ramah. We lived there until 1912, when I became 21 years of age, at which time my father told me to farm the old homestead, which I did. On June 10, 1913, I married Anna M. Smith. On Dec. 1 of that year it snowed five days and nights. That was the biggest snowstorm I have ever seen in 72 years in Colorado. I went on skis to Simla to get groceries and had to carry them home. The horses could not make the trip. On Dec. 24 I tried, but the horses got down and had to be scooped out. My wife and I got to Simla at 2 p.m. and left at 4 p.m. arriving home at 9:30 p.m. Our children, one boy and one girl, were born on the homestead where we lived until 1924 when we rented the homestead. That fall I trucked for farmers and in the winter hauled school children to Alta Vista. In 1925 we moved to Simla and bought a two-ton truck and hauled livestock to Denver. Frank Chise helped haul freight. In 1943 we sold out to Grattin Barnhill, who later sold to the L. and E. Freight, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kosley.

"On June 10, 1963, we observed our 50th wedding anniversary."

$10 Million Aquarium Planned in Washington

By GEOFFREY GOULD

"It'll form a little crick, then a river and then the ocean. It will be the greatest aquarium and the greatest educational exhibit for students in the world. It'll keep those kids out of burlesque theaters."

A smile crossed his craggy face and he swiveled toward a visitor. "See the point I mean?"

The 77-year-old congressman from Youngstown, Ohio, was describing his vision of the $10-million national squarium—now in the planning stage—which he singlehandedly pushed through a somewhat reluctant Congress.

Behind Kirwan's bland exterior is will or iron.

He is chairman of the House Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, which doles out campaign funds. He heads an appropriations subcommittee for the Interior Department and other agencies.

His aquarium ran into much scornful talk of "fur-lined fish tank" and "glorified bathtub for fish" when it came up before Congress two years ago. One of those who opposed it was Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

Kirwan's response: "I'll hold up all Oregon's water projects until Morse learns something about fish."

Morse fumed and sputtered and threatened to have Kirwan expelled from Congress for legislative blackmail. But Kirwan prevailed.

"My mother always told me, 'never throw back a crabapple if someone throws a rock at you,'" he remarked.

"The family that fishes together stays together," he once declared.

He is quick to marshal statistics on America's sportsmen pouring $4 billion into the economy each year, and tourists spending $385-million a year in the nation's capital.

"Surely they deserve an aquarium," he says, "see the point I mean?"

Messerly was in charge of fishing operations for the state of Ohio before he came to Washington in 1950 to be director of the present aquarium, a meager, dark and cramped exhibit located in the basement of the Commerce Department. Kirwan calls it a national disgrace.

As the planners see it now, the new aquarium will range from depictions of mountain brooks to ocean depths, with a 300-foot trout stream and an even longer raceway for dolphins. There may even be a tank for a whale.

Kirwan envisions it as a great center for marine sciences as well as a spectacular tourist attraction. It is to be on a grassy point jutting into the Potomac not far from the Jefferson Memorial.

Once he got the idea, at any rate, Kirwan bulled it through with a stubbornnes that can only be called Irish.

For this man with a third grade education and four honorary college degrees is one of the last Hurrah Breed.

Of all the case-hardened men in public life who are fond of saying "I came up the hard way," no one can say it with more authority than Michael J. Kirwan.

$2-Billion Capital Spending Planned By General Motors

FREMONT, Calif. (AP)—The $2-billion capital spending program of General Motors Corp. for the next two years shaped up today as a force in the nation's economic future.

Big GM, world's largest manufacturing corporation, will spend the $2 billion on new plants and equipment in this country and abroad.

Fifty thousand new jobs in the United States will be one result of the program, General Motors said.

The new factory and plant expansion plans, announced by GM Wednesday, embrace more than two dozen cities in the nation.

In addition, General Motors will spend $1.2 billion on special tools to make its cars, trucks and other products.

GM's investment in the future, Chairman Frederic G. Donner said in a speech at Fremont, is geared to an anticipated automobile market of 10-million sales a year by 1970.

There was no immediate comment from the White House on the GM announcement. President Johnson in the past has expressed hope for industrial expansion that would stimulate continuing growth in national production and create new jobs.

The present tax cut was backed by the Johnson administration and the late President John F. Kennedy as a means toward this.

One-half to 55 per cent of the $2 billion is to be spent in Michigan. Romney said it would mean 25,000 more jobs for Michigan, where unemployment has been a problem.

Two cities, Kalamazoo and Tecumseh, will get General Motors plants for the first time. GM facilities in 10 other Michigan cities will be expanded.

Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto workers Union, said at Atlantic City, N.J., Donner's 50,000 new jobs figure could not be measured as an over-all gain since, he said, the GM jobs "will take jobs away from other companies and the parts industry."

We are indebted to Oren A. Hartsel of Simla for the following:

"Sod houses and school houses back in the 1900's were used for social centers, such as religious services, literary meetings, political debates, box suppers and dances.

"Neighbors were good to help one another build sod houses and barns and we knew our neighbors for miles around. My father was happy to help people homestead. Strangers were asked to stop and visit.

"Our closest neighbor was H. L. Kiick, who lived one mile south of us. Our sod school house was two miles south."

"The Hartsels came to Colorado in a covered wagon and arrived at the Myron Harper home one half mile south and one half mile east of Ramah. Mr. Harper showed my father large potatoes, corn, wheat and oats could be raised, and that homesteads could be filed on.

"Our homestead was 160 acres and we just needed to pay for the filing, which had to be done in Pueblo. My father's name was A. J. Hartsel and the first spring we lived in tents until the crop was planted. My father brought the first pinto beans to this country from Rocky Ford, Colo. That started the big bean industry.

"Our homestead was six miles southeast of Ramah. The family lived there until 1908, when my father bought some railroad property and built on it and rented the homestead. This property was one mile south and six miles east of Ramah. We lived there until 1912, when I became 21 years of age, at which time my father told me to farm the old homestead, which I did. On June 10, 1913, I married Anna M. Smith. On Dec. 1 of that year it snowed five days and nights. That was the biggest snowstorm I have ever seen in 72 years in Colorado. I went on skis to Simla to get groceries and had to carry them home. The horses could not make the trip. On Dec. 24 I tried, but the horses got down and had to be scooped out. My wife and I got to Simla at 2 p.m. and left at 4 p.m. arriving home at 9:30 p.m. Our children, one boy and one girl, were born on the homestead where we lived until 1924 when we rented the homestead. That fall I trucked for farmers and in the winter hauled school children to Alta Vista. In 1925 we moved to Simla and bought a two-ton truck and hauled livestock to Denver. Frank Chise helped haul freight. In 1943 we sold out to Grattin Barnhill, who later sold to the L. and E. Freight, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kosley.

"On June 10, 1963, we observed our 50th wedding anniversary."

Magnesia, in ancient geography, was the name of two cities in Asia Minor, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

$10 Million Aquarium Planned in Washington

By GEOFFREY GOULD

"It'll form a little crick, then a river and then the ocean. It will be the greatest aquarium and the greatest educational exhibit for students in the world. It'll keep those kids out of burlesque theaters."

The 77-year-old congressman from Youngstown, Ohio, was describing his vision of the $10-million national squarium—now in the planning stage—which he singlehandedly pushed through a somewhat reluctant Congress.

Behind Kirwan's bland exterior is will or iron.

He is chairman of the House Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, which doles out campaign funds. He heads an appropriations subcommittee for the Interior Department and other agencies.

His aquarium ran into much scornful talk of "fur-lined fish tank" and "glorified bathtub for fish" when it came up before Congress two years ago. One of those who opposed it was Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

Kirwan's response: "I'll hold up all Oregon's water projects until Morse learns something about fish."

Morse fumed and sputtered and threatened to have Kirwan expelled from Congress for legislative blackmail. But Kirwan prevailed.

"My mother always told me, 'never throw back a crabapple if someone throws a rock at you,' " he remarked.

He is quick to marshal statistics on America's sportsmen pouring $4 billion into the economy each year, and tourists spending $385-million a year in the nation's capital.

"Surely they deserve an aquarium," he says, "see the point I mean?"

Messerly was in charge of fishing operations for the state of Ohio before he came to Washington in 1950 to be director of the present aquarium, a meager, dark and cramped exhibit located in the basement of the Commerce Department. Kirwan calls it a national disgrace.

As the planners see it now, the new aquarium will range from depictions of mountain brooks to ocean depths, with a 300-foot trout stream and an even longer raceway for dolphins. There may even be a tank for a whale.

Kirwan envisions it as a great center for marine sciences as well as a spectacular tourist attraction. It is to be on a grassy point jutting into the Potomac not far from the Jefferson Memorial.

Once he got the idea, at any rate, Kirwan bulled it through with a stubbornnes that can only be called Irish.

For this man with a third grade education and four honorary college degrees is one of the last Hurrah Breed.

Of all the case-hardened men in public life who are fond of saying "I came up the hard way," no one can say it with more authority than Michael J. Kirwan.

Delay Feared In Glen Dam Storage Plan

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gov. George D. Clyde of Utah has wound up a 1,700-mile trip to collect autographs in an effort to head off any delay in the storage of water behind Glen Canyon dam in northern Arizona.

He wanted the signatures of the governors of Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico, in addition to his own, on a letter to Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall regarding storage of water in Lake Powell.

The letter was not scheduled to be made public until later today, but in view of past comments it was regarded as most likely that the four governors went on record as opposing any long delay in the filling of Lake Powell.

An aide to Gov. Clyde said it was believed that a decision is imminent from the Interior Department on the Lake Powel storage problem.

Gov. Clyde first flew to Cheyenne for the signature of Gov. Cliff Hansen of Wyoming; then to Colorado Springs for the signature of Gov. John A. Love, then to Albuquerque for the autograph of New Mexico Gov. Jack M. Campbell. At each stop the governors were on hand to meet the plane of the Utah chief executive.

All but Campbell are Republicans.

They represent the Upper Basin states of the Colorado River and they want to see storage of water in Lake Powell started as soon as possible. This is necessary for the generation of power which, in turn, will help pay off the cost of the project as well as to provide revenue for other projects in the Colorado River Storage Project.

The Bureau of Reclamation has ruled that no water may be stored upstream when the water in Lake Mead, behind Hoover Dam, drops below 14½ million acre feet. Because of prolonged drought conditions in the Colorado Basin, that minimum may be reached by April 1.

The Reclamation Bureau has set this minimum because of power commitments downstream and plans to replenish any shortage in Lake Meade from Lake Powell.

Five western privately owned utility companies have promised to make up any shortage in Hoover Dam electricity from their own sources. Gov. Clyde long has urged this alternative.

Teens Require Good Breakfast High in Protein

Attention always seems to be focused on teenagers. Although these young people may not enjoy being named as an individual group in our society, in one particular area, it's quite important to study them as one. That's concerning the food they eat.

Nutritionists agree that teenagers, including the girls, need more of the essential nutrients than their parents. Unfortunately many of today's youth have poor diets, and one of the most common food faults is eating a poor breakfast or none at all. Breakfast skimpers frequently end the day with a deficiency in nutrients.

It's particularly important for every teenager to consume a balanced high-protein morning meal, not only because food needs are high, but because food habits for life are usually formed during these years.

But what is Mom to do if her family refuses breakfast? Presenting facts is not enough. Teenagers need stronger motivation.

Girls, usually worse offenders than boys, must realize that sparkling eyes, lustrous hair, pep and energy come from wise choice of foods, not from the cosmetic counter. The vivacious, popular girl is usually eating right. Skipping breakfast does not keep weight down, either. It generally leads to a high-calorie snack later.

Boys have the desire for strong active bodies, and this is achieved through adequate protein, vitamins and minerals. Another teen wish is for good grades. If breakfast is poor, you are likely to be tired and unable to concentrate in class.

Mom, set a good example by eating breakfast yourself and by preparing tempting foods. There must be a source of high-quality protein to satisfy appetites and hold you until lunch.

Teenagers always enjoy meat, and Reba Staggs, meat expert, offers a few suggestions: regular or Canadian style bacon, ham, sausage links, sausage patties, dried beef (served creamed on toast) or corned beef hash.

Opening lead: Two of ◇

It has been said that the toughest defenders rarely false-card. But a false card may be effective if it can't possibly fool partner but might fool declarer. In today's hand East seized the opportunity to make a seemingly innocuous false - card which posed a problem that declarer couldn't solve.

The bidding, which followed routine lines, caused no comment except that North might have tried three notrump over South's three spades in an effort to explore the best contract. There is little doubt, however, that the final contract would have been the same.

West chose the unbid suit as his opening shot, which was properly ducked in dummy and East won with the queen. Declarer stepped up on the heart return and attempted to sneak through his singleton club. West rose with the ace and returned a diamond, East winning and exiting with a second heart.

Since the defenders had book in, declarer couldn't afford any loss in the trump suit. But, with five trumps to the king-ten outstanding that prospect was none too bright. However, a low trump was led through East who innocently followed with the seven spot. Declarer inserted the jack which held the trick when West followed with the four spot.

Entry to dummy was regained with a diamond, and this was the problem that confronted declarer. The missing trumps were king, ten, and six. The king was marked with East and apparently the six was marked with West. Therefore East's holding could only be king alone or king-ten. If it was the latter East had a sure trick. If it was the former, a low lead would pick up the king and dummy's queen would then pick up West's ten. Declarer led low and when East produced the hidden six spot the defense had a sure trump trick.

Notice that had not East false-carded on the first lead of trumps declarer would have had an even chance to pick up the trumps without loss. On the second lead of trumps he could lead the queen through East picking up the king and ten in one fell swoop.

It has been said that the toughest defenders rarely false-card. But a false card may be effective if it can't possibly fool partner but might fool declarer. In today's hand East seized the opportunity to make a seemingly innocuous false - card which posed a problem that declarer couldn't solve.

The bidding, which followed routine lines, caused no comment except that North might have tried three notrump over South's three spades in an effort to explore the best contract. There is little doubt, however, that the final contract would have been the same.

West chose the unbid suit as his opening shot, which was properly ducked in dummy and East won with the queen. Declarer stepped up on the heart return and attempted to sneak through his singleton club. West rose with the ace and returned a diamond, East winning and exiting with a second heart.

Since the defenders had book in, declarer couldn't afford any loss in the trump suit. But, with five trumps to the king-ten outstanding that prospect was none too bright. However, a low trump was led through East who innocently followed with the seven spot. Declarer inserted the jack which held the trick when West followed with the four spot.

Entry to dummy was regained with a diamond, and this was the problem that confronted declarer. The missing trumps were king, ten, and six. The king was marked with East and apparently the six was marked with West. Therefore East's holding could only be king alone or king-ten. If it was the latter East had a sure trick. If it was the former, a low lead would pick up the king and dummy's queen would then pick up West's ten. Declarer led low and when East produced the hidden six spot the defense had a sure trump trick.

Notice that had not East false-carded on the first lead of trumps delcarer would have had an even chance to pick up the trumps without loss. On the second lead of trumps he could lead the queen through East picking up the king and ten in one fell swoop.

Teens Require Good Breakfast High in Protein

Attention always seems to be focused on teenagers. Although these young people may not enjoy being named as an individual group in our society, in one particular area, it's quite important to study them as one. That's concerning the food they eat.

Nutritionists agree that teenagers, including the girls, need more of the essential nutrients than their parents. Unfortunately many of today's youth have poor diets, and one of the most common food faults is eating a poor breakfast or none at all. Breakfast skimpers frequently end the day with a deficiency in nutrients.

It's particularly important for every teenager to consume a balanced high-protein morning meal, not only because food needs are high, but because food habits for life are usually formed during these years.

But what is Mom to do if her family refuses breakfast? Presenting facts is not enough. Teenagers need stronger motivation.

Girls, usually worse offenders than boys, must realize that sparkling eyes, lustrous hair, pep and energy come from wise choice of foods, not from the cosmetic counter. The vivacious, popular girl is usually eating right. Skipping breakfast does not keep weight down, either. It generally leads to a high-calorie snack later.

Boys have the desire for strong active bodies, and this is achieved through adequate protein, vitamins and minerals. Another teen wish is for good grades. If breakfast is poor, you are likely to be tired and unable to concentrate in class.

Mom, set a good example by eating breakfast yourself and by preparing tempting foods. There must be a source of high-quality protein to satisfy appetites and hold you until lunch.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Need You Ask?

DEAR ABBY: I am 49 and have been going with a 51-year-old man for the past two years. He has been wonderful to me. He takes me to nice places and buys me lovely things. He asked to marry me, so I took him over to meet my son and daughter-in-law one evening. Well, it seems my daughter-in-law became interested in him (she is 28) and I was told that she called him up and invited him over when her husband wasn't home. My son travels three days a week, so she has a clear field. I notice when my son is out of town, his wife is never home and I can't find my friend, either. He takes me out only when she can't go. They have three little children, Abby, and now I feel guilty for taking him over there. Although she ran after him, if my son finds out he will half-kill my friend. I need this man because we had plans of marriage. What should I do? —HAS TROUBLES

DEAR HAS: Drop your friend, and tell him why. He'll undoubtedly pass the word on to your daughter-in-law and it might scare some sense into them. A woman with a two-timing friend doesn't know what trouble is until she has a two-timing husband.

DEAR ABBY: This is being written by FOUR women who are all in agreement on a neighborhood problem. There is a young, widowed woman in our neighborhood who is very well proportioned. She strings a clothesline across her "front" porch. It is very embarrassing to see her flimsy nightgowns and all the underthings that women wear flapping in the breeze. What do you suppose she is advertising? —FOUR DISGUSTED NEIGHBORS

DEAR DISGUSTED: She is "advertising" the fact that she has no clothes dryer. Neither has she a man to set up a clothesline in her back yard.

DEAR ABBY: I can understand how one of those store - bought ACCEPT MY SMPATHY" cards would be acknowledged with an equally impersonal printed one stating, "The family of —— wishes to thank you." But, Abby, when a person goes to the trouble to write an expression of sympathy in his own hand, don't you think he is deserving a personal "thank you" note? —JUST WONDERING

DEAR JUST: Yes. But I am in the minority. I am amazed at the number of supposedly well-bred people who do not know that one original handwritten sentence is more meaningful (and in better taste) than the most elaborately printed or engraved message.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "'Relieved'": The letter to which you refer could not have concerned your husband. It did not come from any of the cities you mentioned.

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Here is how I freeze chopped onions for spaghetti, salads, etc.

First, peel, chop and prepare the onions, then spread them out on a cookie sheet and place cookie sheet, onions and all in a plastic bag. Put this in your freezer.

When thoroughly frozen, the onions may be removed from the cookie sheet, broken into bits and put in a plastic bag to conserve space.

This way one can remove the exact amount desired and they are not frozen together.

I do hamburger this way, also. I always keep several patties in my freezer.

The point is, when spreading them out thin on the cookie sheet, they freeze quicker and any amount can be removed and used immediately without a long thawing period involved.

Any type of food can be done this way . . . thus saving us cooks lots of time. —C. J.

Dear Heloise:

When you put on a sweater or tight-sleeved coat over a three quarter - length sleeve dress or blouse . . . if you put a rubber band around the lower part of the sleeve cuff, the sleeve will not creep up on your arm while putting on the coat or sweater.

After you have dressed in the coat or sweater, remove the rubber band from your arm and your three-quarter sleeve underneath the jacket stays in place. —H. I. Q.

Letter Of Truth

Dear Heloise:

My late husband's mother taught me not to throw something out the back door into the garbage pail, and then take my pocketbook and go out the front door to buy something to replace it . . . —Frances Hurd

Dear Heloise:

When the time comes for wild bird feeding, we always have the regular wild bird seed in our feeders . . . but had quite a time about our suet . . .

So instead of buying a suet feeder, I now save the mesh bags when I buy onions, etc. at the grocery store. I put the suet in them and hang them on the trees in our yard.

This serves just fine for this purpose because the birds pick right through the mesh and eat the suet without dropping the entire piece . . . —Mrs. Harry Julien

Mrs. Julien:

You are a precious doll to write this hint in. I have had complaints for two years by bird lovers who build baths, feeders, etc. Their main complaint was that it dirties the yard.

After testing your method in my uncle's home (who, incidentally, is a bird lover and also has some pets!) we found that you could put pieces of bread or any other thing in a mesh bag. Either hang it from a tree (and he likes this idea best) or lay it in the bottom of your bird feeder. At least the bits of bread, etc., do not get on your lawn. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here is a little tip for cleaning window screens. Use a regular brush-curler (this is the type of hair roller which has the brush inside and roll it up and down the screen! Works like a charm . . . and once over does it for me.—Barbara Young

Mrs. Julien:

You are a precious doll to write this hint in. I have had complaints for two years by bird lovers who build baths, feeders, etc. Their main complaint was that it dirties the yard.

After testing your method in my uncle's home (who, incidentally, is a bird lover and also has some pets!) we found that you could put pieces of bread or any other thing in a mesh bag. Either hang it from a tree (and he likes this idea best) or lay it in the bottom of your bird feeder. At least the bits of bread, etc., do not get on your lawn. —Heloise

About Freeze-Dried Foods

Q — What are freeze - dried foods?

A—According to the Farm Index, published by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, freeze-drying is the process that removes up to 90 per cent of the moisture in frozen foods, leaving them almost weightless.

Because they're light and do not need refrigeration, freeze-dried foods are easier and cheaper to store and ship than fresh or frozen foods. Shelf life is as long as two years. Just add water or other liquid and they're ready to cook or eat as is.

But their greatest potential use is as partial ingredients for food to be further processed, that is, as meat cubes and mushrooms in dried soup mixes, as strawberries boxed with breakfast cereals, as shrimp in creole or chow mein.

Best bets for freeze - drying are higher quality meats—especially poultry and turkey, shrimp and other shell fish—almost all berries, the more expensive vegetables such as asparagus and mushrooms and such specialized items as spices, instant coffee and instant tea.

Q—What does "egg solids" mean? They are listed as ingredients in some of the cake mixes I use.

A Ham for Easter

A lordly baked ham is traditionally one of the favorite Easter meats. When glazed with a spiced orange and honey glaze, it becomes particularly festive in both taste and appearance. We think you will really be delighted with this recipe.

Glazed Baked Ham
Yield: 10 to 12 Servings

6 to 8 pound precooked ham (ready-to-eat type)
Whole cloves
1 cup fresh orange juice
1 stick whole cinnamon
1 ginger root
½ teaspoon whole allspice
½ teaspoon whole cloves
½ cup strained honey (approximately)

Wipe ham with damp cloth. Trim off excess fat, leaving a layer about ½-inch thick. Score fat. Insert a whole clove in the center of each square. Place ham in a baking pan. Combine orange juice with spices and boil for 5 minutes in a covered saucepan. Bake ham in a preheated slow oven (325 degrees) 15 to 18 minutes per pound, basting with spiced orange juice at 15 minute intervals until 40 minutes before cooking time is up. Drizzle ½ of the honey over ham. Bake 20 minutes longer and then drizzle remaining honey over ham. Bake 20 minutes longer or until ham is brown. Arrange on a serving platter and garnish with cooked whole tiny fresh carrots rolled in melted butter and chopped fresh parsley.

Rye Dressing Zestily Escorts A Ham Slice

A thick and savory smoked ham slice given an escort of rye bread dressing balls makes a memorable meal with little fuss.

Pork and dressing are old teammates, but this time the meat is ham and the dressing made with rye bread with zestily different seasonings: prepared mustard, caraway seeds and onion. The dressing is shaped into balls to bake with the ham.

With a glance at the recipe you'll recognize the ease of preparation, and there's no last minute rush to complete this main entree. Reba Staggs, home economics authority in the meat field, advises baking the ham in an open roasting pan, using a rack to hold the meat up out of the drippings.

Ham Slice —
Rye Bread Dressing Balls

1 smoked center-cut ham slice, cut 1 inch thick
1 egg, beaten
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
2 tablespoons water
½ teaspoon caraway seeds
1 3 cup chopped onion
3 cups soft rye bread crumbs

Mix together egg, mustard and water. Add caraway seeds, onion and crumbs. Mix and shape into 8 balls, using about ¼ cup of mixture per ball. Place ham slice and dressing balls on a rack in an open roasting pan. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees Fahrenheit) 1 hour. 4 to 6 servings.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Serve your family a surprise corn meal biscuit with their dinner. Mix up a recipe of your favorite corn meal biscuits, then roll the dough to ¼-inch thickness. Cut out the biscuits.

Place a teaspoon of preserves on half the rounds; top with remaining rounds; pinch edges together to seal. Bake on an ungreased cooky sheet in preheated very hot oven (450 degrees F) 10 to 12 minutes.

Beef-Onion Pie In Flaky Crust Pleases Taste

Hearty appetites readily cheer a Beef Onion Pie as you carry this culinary triumph to the table, all steaming with come-and-get-it goodness.

Meat pies are favorites for this season, but this one is different, comments meat expert Reba Staggs. It's crusted with the tenderest, flakiest pastry, and a unique and savory filling stars ground beef, sliced onion, green pepper and sour cream.

BEEF ONION PIE

Pastry

2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ to ¾ cup lard
4 to 6 tablespoons ice water

Mix flour and salt. Cut lard into flour until crumbs are about the size of small peas. Add ice water, a little at a time, mixing quickly and evenly thru flour with a fork until dough just holds in a ball. Use as little water as possible. Roll out onehalf of the dough to ⅛ inchthickness. Line a 9-inch pie pan, allowing ½ inch crust to extend over edge.

Beef Filling

1 pound ground beef
1 cup thinly sliced onions
1 3 cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon paprika
1 cup dairy sour cream
2 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Cook ground beef, onions and green pepper in lard or drippings until ground beef is lightly browned. Pour off drippings. Stir in salt, pepper, flour and paprika and cook 2 minutes. Combine sour cream, eggs and parsley and add to meat mixture. Mix well. Pour into pastry-lined pie pan. Roll out remaining pastry, making several gashes to allow for escape of steam. Place over filling. Crimp edges. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degree Fahrenheit) 45 minutes or until pastry is browned. 6 servings.

Pimiento and Tart Topping On Lunch Meat

When everyone is home for lunch on Saturday, or when you are trying to dream up something quick, yet out-of-the ordinary for Sunday night supper, take a can of luncheon meat from your shelf and let your imagination go to work.

Slice the luncheon meat and give it a tart, tasty spread. Then over the top of each, place two strips of red pimiento to yield a pretty touch.

Pimiento comes canned for handy use and will give a nice color and flavor note to many meat dishes. Try it with creamed meats and casseroles, suggests home economist Reba Staggs.

Luncheon Meat — Tart Topping

1 can (12 ounces) luncheon meat
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
2 tablespoons salad dressing
1 tablespoon pickle relish
1 tablespoon pickle relish
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 egg white
16 small strips of pimiento

Cut luncheon meat into 8 slices. Combine lemon juice, salt, pepper, salad dressing, pickle relish and parsley. Beat egg white and fold into mixture. Set regulator for broiling. Place luncheon meat on broiler rack. Insert broiler pan and rack so the top surface of the meat is 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Broil 5 minutes or until lightly browned. Turn, spread egg white mixture on meat slices. Place 2 strips of pimiento on each slice. Broil until topping is lightly browned, about 1½ minutes. 4 servings.

1 3 cup chopped onion
3 cups soft rye bread crumbs

Mix together egg, mustard and water. Add caraway seeds, onion and crumbs. Mix and shape into 8 balls, using about ¼ cup of mixture per ball. Place ham slice and dressing balls on a rack in an open roasting pan. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees Fahrenheit) 1 hour. 4 to 6 servings.

Beef-Onion Pie In Flaky Crust Pleases Taste

Hearty appetites readily cheer a Beef Onion Pie as you carry this culinary triumph to the table, all steaming with come-and-get-it goodness.

Meat pies are favorites for this season, but this one is different, comments meat expert Reba Staggs. It's crusted with the tenderest, flakiest pastry, and a unique and savory filling stars ground beef, sliced onion, green pepper and sour cream.

BEEF ONION PIE

Pastry

2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ to ¾ cup lard
4 to 6 tablespoons ice water

Mix flour and salt. Cut lard into flour until crumbs are about the size of small peas. Add ice water, a little at a time, mixing quickly and evenly thru flour with a fork until dough just holds in a ball. Use as little water as possible. Roll out onehalf of the dough to ⅛ inchthickness. Line a 9-inch pie pan, allowing ½ inch crust to extend over edge.

Beef Filling

1 pound ground beef
1 cup thinly sliced onions
1 3 cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon paprika
1 cup dairy sour cream
2 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Cook ground beef, onions and green pepper in lard or drippings until ground beef is lightly browned. Pour off drippings. Stir in salt, pepper, flour and paprika and cook 2 minutes. Combine sour cream, eggs and parsley and add to meat mixture. Mix well. Pour into pastry-lined pie pan. Roll out remaining pastry, making several gashes to allow for escape of steam. Place over filling. Crimp edges. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degree Fahrenheit) 45 minutes or until pastry is browned. 6 servings.

Pimiento and Tart Topping On Lunch Meat

When everyone is home for lunch on Saturday, or when you are trying to dream up something quick, yet out-of-the ordinary for Sunday night supper, take a can of luncheon meat from your shelf and let your imagination go to work.

Slice the luncheon meat and give it a tart, tasty spread. Then over the top of each, place two strips of red pimiento to yield a pretty touch.

Pimiento comes canned for handy use and will give a nice color and flavor note to many meat dishes. Try it with creamed meats and casseroles, suggests home economist Reba Staggs.

Luncheon Meat — Tart Topping

1 can (12 ounces) luncheon meat
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
2 tablespoons salad dressing
1 tablespoon pickle relish
1 tablespoon pickle relish
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 egg white
16 small strips of pimiento

Cut luncheon meat into 8 slices. Combine lemon juice, salt, pepper, salad dressing, pickle relish and parsley. Beat egg white and fold into mixture. Set regulator for broiling. Place luncheon meat on broiler rack. Insert broiler pan and rack so the top surface of the meat is 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Broil 5 minutes or until lightly browned. Turn, spread egg white mixture on meat slices. Place 2 strips of pimiento on each slice. Broil until topping is lightly browned, about 1½ minutes. 4 servings.

2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
1¼ cups sugar

Sift the first 3 ingredients together and set aside. Cream shortening with sugar and pure vanilla extract until well blended and fluffy. Beat in egg whites, one at a time. Add the flour mixture alternately with the milk. Beat batter ½ minute. Turn into 2 well-greased, lightly floured, round 8-inch layer cake pans. SHELLEY WINTERS TO DO TWO FILMS FOR LEVINE

By HEDDA HOPPER

HOLLYWOOD — Shelley Winters has found a real admirer in Producer Joe Levine. Now doing "A House Is Not a Home" (the life of Polly Adler) for him, Shelley's agreed to star in "The Minister and the Choir Singer," the Hall-Mills murder case. Shelley plays the choir singer, naturally. She has to look 23 in the film, so got Gene Hibbs for make-up. "Every girl gets to the age where she needs Gene." She told me about going to the commissary for a bite of lunch with Mr. Levine. "There were 97 newspaper men and photographers waiting for me. Luckily I'd thrown a mink coat over my old clothes. I told the fellows Levine gave me the mink to wear as a bathrobe in the picture."

MEREDITH WILLSON'S next musical will be about his wife, Rini, and he'd like Harve Presnell to play him in the story. He said: "At the moment I'm sidetracked on a song, but if I can get my wife down on paper that's what I'll do. She has so many facets—was born in Russia, trained as a dancer, singer, actress. Her life has such drama. I've had many things thrown at me, but I'm one-track-minded about this project." His working title is "My Darling," but he'll have to get another. "Frank Loesser wrote an immortal song with that title," he explained.

YUL BRYNER and Frank Sinatra met in Tokyo then went on to Palm Springs where Yul is soaking up the sun while his wife Doris skiis in Switzerland. That's one sport Yul doesn't indulge in. He decided to try some golf. "The only other ball game I ever played was jai lai, and I suspect that little golf ball of moving before I hit it." He's waiting to see a script on "Return of the Seven," a sequel to "Magnificent Seven" which made him nearly a million dollars. Yul doesn't want to work until October. Looks as tho he wouldn't have to.

ROZ RUSSELL made some funny cracks at Harvard's Hasty Pudding club the other day when she said: "I can't understand why you picked me for woman of the year unless you all miss your mothers. . . .

Talent is about the last thing you need for success. Self-discipline and consideration come first and you have to learn to fail. Don't be afraid of it and you'll never be in trouble." It's reported here that she'll do "Who's afraid of Virginia Woolf?" on the screen, which proves she's not afraid of anything.

RUTH AND PAUL HENNING and Mrs. Curt Massey went to school together in Kansas City. Before coming here, Paul worked with Curt on the CBS station there. Or don't the people who vote TV awards watch their competition:. . . .Our trade papers tried desperately to write something nice about the Audrey Hepburn-Bill Holden picture, "Paris When It Sizzles," but only succeeded in being very funny. Your Freedom Newspaper

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Ultimate Automation? Don't Worry

The two hundred-year-old terror of machines seems to be gripping the minds of quite a few people these days. The dread cry today is "automation."

And the fear, so often expressed, is that the machines are putting men out of work so rapidly that in a very few years there won't be very many people with jobs. Machines will be doing everything.

Economists and other scientists and scholars have often considered this remote possibility. As a matter of fact, the possibility seemed so imminent in the 1930's that the New Deal administration assumed a completely "mature" economy beyond which no further progress would be made.

This same "maturity" is presumed from time to time by others who look at automation and consider it a great evil that men must overcome.

Of course, since the 1930's we have several new complete industries, including television, electronics, space research and travel, and so on. So the "maturity" imagined for the 1930's proved to be kindergarten stuff.

And we hazard a guess that the same general result will ensue as we go forward.

The reason scholars can't quite imagine new industries is because, as yet, they haven't been developed. So it is easy to be a gloom chaser and presume that all progress is over; we have now reached a "mature" economic situation, and the job will be to distribute the wealth, letting the machines produce it.

Let's understand this much about automation, whether we are talking in terms of IBM calculators, or machines that repair machines that do the work. Machines can only perform repetitive jobs. Even a calculator cannot contrive something that has not already been built into the machine by some human brain.

Now, you can't manufacture a machine to perform a repetitive job until enough is known about the job to make its performance repetitive. Indeed, it would be utter folly to try to assign machines to do the work of people until such time, in a given case, that variation had been pretty well eliminated and one could be certain that in the foreseeable future the demand for the unit to be produced would be very high and the pressures for change would be very low.

Complete automation in any productive field fairly well contains this assumption.

But this is the whole point. Human beings have desires which are variable and never satisfied. From the standpoint of standardization, Henry Ford was way ahead of his time. In the assembly line techniques his engineers adopted, he had provided for mass production of Ford motor cars on such a basis that the price of a new Ford back in the 20's fell as low as $375 F.O.B. Detroit. Within a few years of this ultimate standardization the Ford motor company was losing so much money that it had to completely re-organize. Why?

Market demand for the same old ungainly, top-heavy, black, foot-operated Ford car was on the decline. Yet those early Model T's contained one of the finest gasoline engines ever built, and the car was a good car; certainly, it was cheap.

Here was automation ahead of its time. But the process had to be junked. People no longer wanted what automation could produce, even at the low price. The same factors must be taken into account in all the scare talk about automation. Human beings demand variation and creativity. Further, they are creative themselves and will forever be devising newer and better ways to do old things, and newer and better things to do.

Defined Terms

When a difference of opinion manifests, make certain first that you and your opponent have a difference in the same area of concern. There is no possible way to resolve a difference when discussion proceeds on ground that has not been leveled by satisfactory definitions.

Ultimate Authoritarianism? You Can Worry

In considering the possibility of ultimate automation, there is one area where real concern can be and should be expressed. That is in the area of government intervention in the economy.

There are so many partially informed "experts" who are prophets of gloom over the future of our economy, that they are quite capable of convincing men in government that the whole future of the human race should be turned over to machines and that men should be paid for not working.

As a matter of fact, this procedure has already gotten off to a good start so that right now we are in the third generation of persons who have never worked. Living on relief, for certain families, is so normal, that children today being born have parents and grandparents who have never worked a day in their lives, and who will themselves subsist entirely on the efforts of others or on the efforts of machines owned by others.

So it is quite possible that government bureaucrats, intent on finding reasons for expanding their functions, will listen to the siren call of the political mendicant and will try to expand this area of perennial uselessness on the theory that more and more people must be classed as the gainfully unemployed.

In this vein, automation is to be feared. For government has such great power that it could standardize virtually all production, seize the tools of production, and then sentence the entire nation to accept the same styles, the same patterns, the same products forever and ever.

Innovation would be a crime. And we would all descend to the status of robots, functioning in what Huxley called "The Brave New World."

What Huxley didn't reveal is that this "brave new" world concept has been tried before at least twice in historical times.

Ancient Sparta, under Lycurgus, provided this type of economy. The men of Sparta presumed, too, that their economy was "mature." They had no "want of any good thing" but each was supplied by the state with sufficient in the way of food, clothing and shelter. Period. End of economic growth. End, finally, of Sparta, which never produced either progress or ideas, leaving these upsetting things in the hands of Athenians and other city-states of the Attic peninsula.

Again, the Incan civilization in South America had precisely the same kind of highly automated society. Improvements and innovations were not only frowned upon, they were considered anti-social actions. An inventor could be put to death for upsetting the economic well-being of society.

The entire social order was brittle and stagnant. For 400 years, however, it "flourished" without change. Then, with the people reduced to peonage, political reliance reached such a height that the people could make up their own minds about nothing at all. All decisions were made by bureaucrats. And when internecine political conflict engulfed them, they were easily conquered by a tiny force emerging from a more productive economic structure.

The trouble with many of our bureaucrats and many of the men who feed ideas to the bureaucrats, is that they have been nourished too long on science fiction and are emphasizing the fictional parts excessively.

What we need to fear is the ascendancy of the state, not the ascendancy of automation. For it is possible for the state to seize total control.

If it does, men will begin to resemble ants in their obedience to the central political figure, and human experience which has raised us from most appalling primitive times will be stultified and stagnated.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

The Image

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

For ten years or a little more, I worked hard at building up a nice image of Mr. and Mrs. Average American in my own mind. Of course, I had a little help from those who propagandized for conservatism; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. were freedom loving, independent, self-responsible people who wanted no part of socialism, communism, fascism, new and fair dealism, handouts, doles and big government. It was a lovely image which didn't even faintly resemble the real thing. Now let's look at the facts.

The average so-called Democrat conservative supports the socialist school system, the U.S. highway system, controls on big business, a few controls on small business, aid for "friendly" governments, social security, the Peace Corps, FHA and VA loans, the Post Office monopoly, the Food and Drug Administration, the Department of Health, Welfare and Education, government control of the currency and committees to study non-essential government expenditures, not to mention small business loans, government-subsidized defense plants, government control of the stock market, banks, savings and loan associations, transportation, TV, radio, and on and on. Majority rule, of course, is part and parcel of the Democrat way of life.

Oddly enough, the conservative Republican favors more or less of the same, in varying degrees, and the third party conservatives pronounce their addiction to the same ideas and agencies, with a little less of this and a little more of that.

For more than four years, I have urged people to write and let me know how much government they want and the occasional replies to the question surprised the people who wrote them, because they wanted a great deal of government for everybody else.

During the past 20 years or so, psychologists and politicians have promoted a Casper Milquetoast approach to anything smacking of controversy and it begins with a statement to the effect that you can catch more flies with some sickly sweet substance than with vinegar, and I suppose that's good policy if you want to catch flies for some reason. Naturally polictic ians want to sell the suckers on the idea that they, the politicians, are reasonable people who respond to kind urgings, but history indicates that anybody who believes a politician is reasonable should check a few facts and figures. My own experiences lead me to feel that politicians of all types respond most quickly, if not happily, to conversation which puts the politician in his place and keeps him there.

But there's another aspect of the psychological approach which has been too frequently neglected. The evangelist who tells an audience they are all wonderful and that there probably isn't a real sinner in the house admits his preachments are unnecessary and that reminds me of the time I listened to Billy Sunday when I was very young. Of course, Mr. Sunday was sympathetic with the sinners but in several thousand carefully selected words, he told them they were a useless, worthless, sinful bunch of slobs and they'd better get busy and do something about it. He smashed all the phony images of sweetness and light into millions of sinful pieces and when the sinners bent to pick up the pieces, he kicked them again and again for good measure.

As usual, I am trying to make a point. What's the use of kicking and hollering and complaining about incumbent politicians and government, generally, when a little examination will disclose the fact that you're getting exactly what you deserve? Maybe you just want a change in rulers because you hope you will get a better deal for yourself with the change. More than likely you don't even know what you do want, if any. How much government do you want for yourself, anyway?

On the other hand, if you actually do believe you have the right to stand on your own two feet in freedom, do something about it besides beller-aching, and there's plenty to do and make no mistake about that.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Question Box

Question No. 467: "An advertiser recently endorsed President Johnson's idea of spending the increased take-home pay that results from the tax cut. The advertiser did so on the premise that the government had decided that this is the quickest way to strike at unemployment and to strengthen the economic structure of the country. Isn't this 'spend your way to prosperity' idea a fallacious one?"

Answer: It most certainly is a fallacy. If people had continued to spend everything they had and had no savings to invest in tools we would still have only about as many people as the Indians had when America was discovered. There were about 500,000 people then and they merely existed.

All our progress comes from having more tools per worker and having more people to more minutely divide labor. Prosperity does not come from wastefulness and temporarily indulging whims.

Before the industrial revolution there was practically nothing the rich could spend their income on other than big dinners, extra clothes and jewelry. The rich used to have large dining rooms so that they could have big assemblies for meals. At that time there was no way to travel. There was little in material goods to buy such as we have now, like airplanes, television sets, washing machines, cars, sewing machines, air conditioners, and modern heating systems. All they could do was to indulge their whims in transitory enjoyment. There was no industrial revolution.

Later, Von Mises said that the luxuries of the rich are the roadways to progress. He meant that those people who bought the new un-improved inventions furnished the capital and tested the new inventions to improve them so that they could become more practical and lower priced.

When the automobile first came into existence only the well-to-do bought them. They pointed out the "bugs" in them and furnished the capital for expansion and now practically everyone has one or two automobiles.

It is absurd for a business institution to be making such false statements and going along with the bureaucrats in the theory that the way to create employment and prosperity is to spend all you get. That is, to spend all the supposed income tax savings. But there will be no reduction in taxation, just a shift in taxation. The taxes more largely will be imposed on the gullible people who cannot see that if they have their savings in dollars or credits, these dollars will be worth less and less and that maybe they had better spend them before they buy less and less.

However, if the government did not interfere with a free market by trying to create jobs, there would be plenty of jobs for everyone and everyone could work as many hours as he wanted to supply the wants of man.

Man's wants constantly increase faster than our abilities to supply them. The wants are only supplied by labor applied to land and tools. It is more tools that we need and better knowledge as to how to use the land and the tools. Knowledge and understanding are a form of capital. The most important form of capital is ideas.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

A Philosophy of Poverty

From Wall Street Journal

An underlying theme in much of the discussion of poverty is that society, particularly in its economic organization, is the real villain: In other words, all of us who are trying to make a living are jointly responsible for the plight of the poor.

Certainly the theme is central to President Johnson's proposed war on poverty; government action, it is reasoned, must make up for private failure. Whatever may be thought of the President's specific recommendations, this notion of collective guilt must be rated as bad history and worse sociology.

It is bad history because almost all of us are up from poverty and almost none of our forebears considered it anybody's responsibility but his own to get up. The pioneer was poor; so was the Irish or Jewish immigrant, the freed slave. Sometimes a more fortunate person helped a less fortunate one; sometimes not. For a long time America as a nation was poor, underdeveloped as they say today.

What transformed general poverty into general prosperity was neither a collective guilt complex nor government. It was a lot of individual hard work and a great deal of freedom to move and act and think. Freedom to move not only over the land but also upward as far as ability would carry; freedom to tinker, to invent or refine the innovations of others. Out of it all came the economic organization that has spelled the emancipation from drudgery, the material abundance, the drastic reduction of poverty.

It has been a constantly continuing development. Yale's famed political scientist, William Graham Sumner, could see the heart of the process 80 years ago:

"Let anyone learn," he wrote, "what hardship was involved, even for a wealthy person, a century ago, in crossing the Atlantic, and then let him compare that hardship even with a steerage passage at the present time, considering time and money cost. This improvement in transportation by which 'the poor and weak' can be carried from the crowded centers of population to the new land is worth more to them than all the schemes of all the social reformers. An improvement in surgical instruments or in anaesthetics really does more for those who are not well off than all the declamations of the orators. . ."

In more recent history the point hardly needs laboring. For just one example, the work of a Henry Ford, with all the ramifications in industrial processes and relations, did more to bring abundance to the majority than any amount of dole or vote-getting programs. The point is that a free economy and society expands the opportunities for all its members but leaves it largely to them to decide what they will do about it.

This is the antithesis of the present sociological approach, which regards the poor as a segregated class; either they must be dragged out of their poverty by mechanical government programs or else maintained in their poverty by the rest of society. Lost in the rigidity are all distinctions as to causes, individuality, ability to advance or personal motivation. Essentially individual problems get a collective treatment.

Particularly under such a policy is it difficult or impossible to distinguish between the genuinely unfortunate who for some reason beyond their control cannot make a go of life and those who are totally disinterested in making any contribution to society.

Indeed the logic of the policy demands that the shiftless as well as the deserving have equal right to the fruits of the productive. Since there are always those only too willing to live at the expense of others, that approach may only swell the ranks of the shiftless and help perpetuate poverty.

The policy is not even humanitarian, tho it parades under that label. For it is not a question here of aiding the destitute or feeding the hungry; in a variety of ways, public and private, that is done and we trust always will be. Today as yesterday many a poor man is helped toward well-being by private generosity and many others at least comforted by the community. Nor would anyone object to limited government action if there were reason to believe it could be effective.

But history, psychology and sound sociology combine to argue that treating the poor as a class, a sort of subspecies, instead of as individuals of widely varying potential is a course of regression. It is a degradation of the dignity of the deserving, a block to incentive, a move away from the long trend toward a middle-class — that is, classless — society in this country.

History also suggests that many of today's poor would leave that state if the economy were permitted to operate in greater freedom, the freedom which has already brought prosperity to the multitudes. Just as Sumner wrote of the benefits of transportation, so today the government might do more for the poor by relaxing its controls on the economy than by the spending of still more billions.

Whatever the government does, it should have no truck with a false creed which denies any individual responsibility on the part of the poor and shifts all blame to the shoulders of those who have made their way up from poverty. That is not only an affront to the hard-working majority; it is also a philosophy of restriction and retreat.

Good News for Down Town

By RUFUS L. PORTER

Into the midst of the big controversy over downtown parking comes the encouraging news that a new privately operated parking lot will soon be available in a strategic location. This may not be good news for those businesses which have been given notice to vacate and we sincerely hope they may find better locations elsewhere. But for the rest of the immediate business area, a new parking lot will certainly be beneficial.

If the new owners of the property involved believe it will pay better as a parking lot than it has been paying in building rentals, they certainly have the right to find out. There are no substantial buildings in the area and a parking lot is sorely needed there. It is only a hop, skip and a short jump away from Tejon Street, where several large stores are located, and it should be able to accommodate quite a number of cars.

This newly proposed parking facility points up a difference in the way men think. One sees a need for something and begins talking it up, but he wants somebody else, preferably some branch of the government, to take the action and spend the money to fulfil that need.

Another man sees the need and risks his own money, or his company's, having convinced his partners it's a good idea, and goes ahead and soon has the facility available — and all without adding a further burden on the already overburdened taxpayers. The privately owned business will PAY taxes. A government-owned one would naturally run a deficit.

These Days

A Lenin Farm Letter

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The Soviets are manipulating in their press, a supposedly "newly found" letter of Lenin which adds up to a "permanent" endorsement of the new economic policy of the nineteen twenties that permitted free peasant agriculture. To make the publication of this interesting document more pointed, it is hinted that the letter was found by no less a person than Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law, Alexie I. Adzhubei, the editor of Izvestia, which would tend to give it some special sanction as representing the present-day opinion of Khrushchev himself.

The publication of the letter in both Izvestia and Pravda more or less coincided with Khrushchev's recent remarks on the need for new individual efficiency on the Soviet farms. It could portend an adaptation of Lenin's old NEP - period individualism to the end of getting more crops out of Russia's reluctant acres. At the very least it would seem to indicate that the NEP, as conceived by Lenin, was hardly intended as a transient thing. Its publication in 1964 could mean that Khrushchev is preparing to accuse Stalin of having corrupted Lenin's ideas on farming and so brought Russia to its knees.

FIRST PRINTING

Actually, the Lenin letter is not a "new" discovery. According to Nikolai Gradoboyev, who specializes in problems of Stalinism for Radio Liberty in New York, it was first printed in Russky Golos (or "Russian Voice") in New York City on January 10, 1923. The letter was written in late 1922, just before permanent paralysis of Lenin's right arm and right leg set in, and is therefore one of the last testaments we have from the founder of Russian Communism. It took the form of an address to "The Russian Colony in North America," and it "corrected" the idea that the new economic policy in agriculture had "radically changed" the social organization of the Soviet Union. Lenin professed himself as unworried about individual peasont farmers as "long as power is in the hands of the workers." (This is essentially what Tito is saving in "revisionist" Yugoslavia today.) "The state capitalism of our country," so Lenin wrote, "differs essentially from that of bourgeois countries because in our country the state is not represented by the bourgeoisie but by the proletariat, which has succeeded in winning the full trust of the peasantry."

Mr. Gradoboyev, who has compared the original publication of the letter with the version that has just been advertised in Russia as a new discovery of an old stenographic record, notes that there have been some unproclaimed deletions from Lenin's own text. Khrushchev or Adzhubei, or somebody, cut out a paragraph in which Lenin said, "The speedy restoration of our economy is unthinkable without the participation of foreign capital in its development." Apparently Lenin was reconciled just before his final decline and death to the idea of inviting foreign capitalists to operate concessions inside the Russian economy.

NUMBERED

Stalin could have "rediscovered" the letter at any time, for it bore an official number and could have been found in a sequence of Lenin's communications. But republication in Stalin's time would have served to refute the Stalinist claim that Lenin had intended the new economic policy in agriculture as a mere tactical diversion, to be followed by full farm collectivization when the time was ripe.

Just how Khrushchev intends to put individual incentive back into Russian agriculture is still an enigma. In Poland the peasants have kept their horses and can farm their small plots. But in Russia the horses have been killed off and the tractors and combines are only fit for large-scale operations. It would be a tremendous problem to restore an NEP in Russia. But the collectives aren't feeding the country, and something has got to give.

To the Editor:

I see a little note in your paper of March 12. It states on page 2 that the Social Security Act was enacted August 14, 1945, during the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It is all right except the 1945. Franklin was not President then. I have a social security card which my foreman told me to go and get and it is marked 2-12-1937, the date it was issued to me.

Do not fool the young people it was enacted on August 14, 1945.

KIRK ON COMPULSION

To the Editor:

A categorical statement, if true, is a statement of principle. "A principle is an unvarying rule of action which has always been true and which permits of no exception."

STATEMENT (Russell Kirk, Question Box, October 11, 1963): "No, I am against compulsory schooling — because it is impossible to learn anything worth learning under compulsion."

The following are my questions and Russell Kirk's answers (Question Box, February 3, 1964):

Question No. 1: "How can something (i.e., compulsion) which, by its very nature, acts to prevent the gaining of the objective (ie., worth-while learning) be, at the same time, necessary?"

Answer No. 1: "Compulsion is necessary until an age of reason in the individual is arrived at. Thus compulsion ordinarily is necessary to teach kindergartners not to kick one another in the shins: sweet reason rarely suffices at that age."

Question No. 2: "Is it likely that children will learn to make prudent decisions under compulsion?"

Answer No. 2: "Children will make prudent decisions under compulsion, just as adults do—in situations where some degree of compulsion is necessary. A kindergartner will find it prudent not to repeat the kicking - process, after being compulsorily treated in some fashion. Hence, we apply compulsion as we necessarily do in Society generally — for instance, we lock up robbers when we catch them. Some of them

Ultimate Automation? Don't Worry

The two hundred-year-old terror of machines seems to be gripping the minds of quite a few people these days. The dread cry today is "automation."

And the fear, so often expressed, is that the machines are putting men out of work so rapidly that in a very few years there won't be very many people with jobs. Machines will be doing everything.

Economists and other scientists and scholars have often considered this remote possibility. As a matter of fact, the possibility seemed so imminent in the 1930's that the New Deal administration assumed a completely "mature" economy beyond which no further progress would be made.

This same "maturity" is presumed from time to time by others who look at automation and consider it a great evil that men must overcome.

Of course, since the 1930's we have several new complete industries, including television, electronics, space research and travel, and so on. So the "maturity" imagined for the 1930's proved to be kindergarten stuff.

And we hazard a guess that the same general result will ensue as we go forward.

The reason scholars can't quite imagine new industries is because, as yet, they haven't been developed. So it is easy to be a gloom chaser and presume that all progress is over; we have now reached a "mature" economic situation, and the job will be to distribute the wealth, letting the machines produce it.

Let's understand this much about automation, whether we are talking in terms of IBM calculators, or machines that repair machines that do the work. Machines can only perform repetitive jobs. Even a calculator cannot contrive something that has not already been built into the machine by some human brain.

Now, you can't manufacture a machine to perform a repetitive job until enough is known about the job to make its performance repetitive. Indeed, it would be utter folly to try to assign machines to do the work of people until such time, in a given case, that variation had been pretty well eliminated and one could be certain that in the foreseeable future the demand for the unit to be produced would be very high and the pressures for change would be very low.

Complete automation in any productive field fairly well contains this assumption.

But this is the whole point. Human beings have desires which are variable and never satisfied. From the standpoint of standardization, Henry Ford was way ahead of his time. In the assembly line techniques his engineers adopted, he had provided for mass production of Ford motor cars on such a basis that the price of a new Ford back in the 20's fell as low as $375 F.O.B. Detroit. Within a few years of this ultimate standardization the Ford motor company was losing so much money that it had to completely re-organize. Why?

Market demand for the same old ungainly, top-heavy, black, foot-operated Ford car was on the decline. Yet those early Model T's contained one of the finest gasoline engines ever built, and the car was a good car; certainly, it was cheap.

Here was automation ahead of its time. But the process had to be junked. People no longer wanted what automation could produce, even at the low price. The same factors must be taken into account in all the scare talk about automation. Human beings demand variation and creativity. Further, they are creative themselves and will forever be devising newer and better ways to do old things, and newer and better things to do.

Defined Terms

When a difference of opinion manifests, make certain first that you and your opponent have a difference in the same area of concern. There is no possible way to resolve a difference when discussion proceeds on ground that has not been leveled by satisfactory definitions.

Ultimate Authoritarianism? You Can Worry

In considering the possibility of ultimate automation, there is one area where real concern can be and should be expressed. That is in the area of government intervention in the economy.

There are so many partially informed "experts" who are prophets of gloom over the future of our economy, that they are quite capable of convincing men in government that the whole future of the human race should be turned over to machines and that men should be paid for not working.

As a matter of fact, this procedure has already gotten off to a good start so that right now we are in the third generation of persons who have never worked. Living on relief, for certain families, is so normal, that children today being born have parents and grandparents who have never worked a day in their lives, and who will themselves subsist entirely on the efforts of others or on the efforts of machines owned by others.

So it is quite possible that government bureaucrats, intent on finding reasons for expanding their functions, will listen to the siren call of the political prostitutes and will try to expand this area of perennial useselessness on the theory that more and more people must be classed as the gainfully unemployed.

In this vein, automation is the perfect tool for government has much power that it virtually all production, using the tools of automation, and then reinforce its every action to accept the responsibility, the same problems [illegible] would be a crime.

And we would all descend to the status of robots, functioning in what Huxley called "The Brave New World."

What Huxley didn't reveal is that this "brave new" world concept has been tried before at least twice in historical times.

Ancient Sparta, under Lycurgus, provided this type of economy. The men of Sparta presumed, too, that their economy was "mature." They had no "want of any good thing" but each was supplied by the state with sufficient in the way of food, clothing and shelter. Period. End of economic growth. End, finally, of Sparta, which never produced either progress or ideas, leaving these upsetting things in the hands of Athenians and other city-states of the Attic peninsula.

Again, the Incan civilization in South America had precisely the same kind of highly automated society. Improvements and innovations were not only frowned upon, they were considered anti-social actions. An inventor could be put to death for upsetting the economic well-being of society.

The entire social order was brittle and stagnant. For 900 years, however, it "flourished" without change. Then, with the people reduced to peonage, political reliance reached such a height that the people could make up their own minds about nothing at all. All decisions were made by bureaucrats. And when internecine political conflict engulfed them, they were easily conquered by a tiny force emerging from a more productive economic structure.

The trouble with many of our bureaucrats, and many of the men who lead ideas to the bureaucracy, is that they have been nourished too long on science fiction and are emphasizing the fictional parts excessively.

What we need to fear is the ascendancy of the state, not the ascendancy of automation. For it is possible for the state to seize total control.

If it does, men will begin to resemble ants in their obedience to the central political figure, and human experience which has raised us from most appalling primitive times will be stultified and stagnated.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

The Image

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

For ten years or a little more, I worked hard at building up a nice image of Mr. and Mrs. Average American in my own mind. Of course, I had a little help from those who propagandized for conservatism: Mr. and Mrs. A. A. were freedom loving, independent, self-responsible people who wanted no part of socialism, communism, fascism, new and fair dealism, handouts, doles and big government. It was a lovely image which didn't even faintly resemble the real thing. Now let's look at the facts.

The average so-called Democrat conservative supports the socialist school system, the U.S. highway system, controls on big business, a few controls on small business, aid for "friendly" governments, social security, the Peace Corps, FHA and VA loans, the Post Office monopoly, the Food and Drug Administration, the Department of Health, Welfare and Education, government control of the currency and committees to study non-essential government expenditures, not to mention small business loans, government-subsidized defense plants, government control of the stock market, banks, savings and loan associations, transportation, TV, radio, and on and on. Majority rule, of course, is part and parcel of the Democrat way of life.

Oddly enough, the conservative Republican favors more or less of the same, in varying degrees, and the third party conservatives pronounce their addiction to the same ideas and agencies, with a little less of this and a little more of that.

For more than four years, I have urged people to write and let me know how much government they want and the occasional replies to the question surprised the people who wrote them, because they wanted a great deal of government for everybody else.

During the past 20 years or so, psychologists and politicians have promoted a Casper Milquetoast approach to anything smacking of controversy and it begins with a statement to the effect that you can catch more flies with some sickly sweet substance than with vinegar, and I suppose that's good policy if you want to catch flies for some reason. Naturally politicians want to sell the suckers on the idea that they, the politicians, are reasonable people who respond to kind urgings, but history indicates that anybody who believes a politician is reasonable should check a few facts and figures. My own experiences lead me to feel that politicians of all types respond most quickly, if not happily, to conversation which puts the politician in his place and keeps him there.

But there's another aspect of the psychological approach which has been too frequently neglected. The evangelist who tells an audience they are all wonderful and that there probably isn't a real sinner in the house admits his preachments are unnecessary and that reminds me of the time I listened to Billy Sunday when I was very young. Of course, Mr. Sunday was sympathetic with the sinners but in several thousand carefully selected words, he told them they were a useless, worthless, sinful bunch of slobs and they'd better get busy and do something about it. He smashed all the phony images of sweetness and light into millions of sinful pieces and when the sinners bent to pick up the pieces, he kicked them again and again for good measure.

As usual, I am trying to make a point. What's the use of kicking and hollering and complaining about incumbent politicians and government, generally, when a little examination will disclose the fact that you're getting exactly what you deserve? Maybe you just want a change in rulers because you hope you will get a better deal for yourself with the change. More than likely you don't even know what you do want, if any. How much government do you want for yourself, anyway?

On the other hand, if you actually do believe you have the right to stand on your own two feet in freedom, do something about it besides beller-aching, and there's plenty to do and make no mistake about that.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Question Box

Question No. 467: "An advertiser recently endorsed President Johnson's idea of spending the increased take-home pay that results from the tax cut. The advertiser did so on the premise that the government had decided that this is the quickest way to strike at unemployment and to strengthen the economic structure of the country. Isn't this 'spend your way to prosperity' idea a fallacious one?"

Answer: It most certainly is a fallacy. If people had continued to spend everything they had and had no savings to invest in tools we would still have only about as many people as the Indians had when America was discovered. There were about 500,000 people then and they merely existed.

All our progress comes from having more tools per worker and having more people to more minutely divide labor. Prosperity does not come from wastefulness and temporarily indulging whims.

Before the industrial revolution there was practically nothing the rich could spend their income on other than big dinners, extra clothes and jewelry. The rich used to have large dining rooms so that they could have big assemblies for meals. At that time there was no way to travel. There was little in material goods to buy such as we have now, like airplanes, television sets, washing machines, cars, sewing machines, air conditioners, and modern heating systems. All they could do was to indulge their whims in transitory enjoyment. There was no industrial revolution.

Later, Von Mises said that the luxuries of the rich are the roadways to progress. He meant that those people who bought the new un-improved inventions furnished the capital and tested the new inventions to improve them so that they could become more practical and lower priced.

When the automobile first came into existence only the well-to-do bought them. They pointed out the "bugs" in them and furnished the capital for expansion and now practically everyone has one or two automobiles.

It is absurd for a business institution to be making such false statements and going along with the bureaucrats in the theory that the way to create employment and prosperity is to spend all you get. That is, to spend all the supposed income tax savings. But there will be no reduction in taxation, just a shift in taxation. The taxes more largely will be imposed on the gullible people who cannot see that if they have their savings in dollars or credits, these dollars will be worth less and less and that maybe they had better spend them before they buy less and less.

However, if the government did not interfere with a free market by trying to create jobs, there would be plenty of jobs for everyone and everyone could work as many hours as he wanted to supply the wants of man.

Man's wants constantly increase faster than our abilities to supply them. The wants are only supplied by labor applied to land and tools. It is more tools that we need and better knowledge as to how to use the land and the tools. Knowledge and understanding are a form of capital. The most important form of capital is ideas.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

From Wall Street Journal

An underlying theme in much of the discussion of poverty is that society, particularly in its economic organization, is the real villain: In other words, all of us who are trying to make a living are jointly responsible for the plight of the poor.

Certainly the theme is central to President Johnson's proposed war on poverty; government action, it is reasoned, must make up for private failure. Whatever may be thought of the President's specific recommendations, this notion of collective guilt must be rated as bad history and worse sociology.

It is bad history because almost all of us are up from poverty and almost none of our forebears considered it anybody's responsibility but his own to get up. The pioneer was poor; so was the Irish or Jewish immigrant, the freed slave. Sometimes a more fortunate person helped a less fortunate one; sometimes not. For a long time America as a nation was poor, underdeveloped as they say today.

What transformed general poverty into general prosperity was neither a collective guilt complex nor government. It was a lot of individual hard work and a great deal of freedom to move and act and think. Freedom to move not only over the land but also upward as far as ability would carry; freedom to tinker, to invent or refine the innovations of others. Out of it all came the economic organization that has spelled the emancipation from drudgery, the material abundance, the drastic reduction of poverty.

It has been a constantly continuing development. Yale's famed political scientist, William Graham Sumner, could see the heart of the process 80 years ago:

"Let anyone learn," he wrote, "what hardship was involved, even for a wealthy person, a century ago, in crossing the Atlantic, and then let him compare that hardship even with a steerage passage at the present time, considering time and money cost. This improvement in transportation by which 'the poor and weak' can be carried from the crowded centers of population to the new land is worth more to them than all the schemes of all the social reformers. An improvement in surgical instruments or in anaesthetics really does more for those who are not well off than all the declamations of the orators. . ."

In more recent history the point hardly needs laboring. For just one example, the work of a Henry Ford, with all the ramifications in industrial processes and relations, did more to bring abundance to the majority than any amount of dole or vote-getting programs. The point is that a free economy and society expands the opportunities for all its members but leaves it largely to them to decide what they will do about it.

This is the antithesis of the present sociological approach, which regards the poor as a segregated class; either they must be dragged out of their poverty by mechanical government programs or else maintained in their poverty by the rest of society. Lost in the rigidity are all distinctions as to causes, individuality, ability to advance or personal motivation. Essentially individual problems get a collective treatment.

Particularly under such a policy is it difficult or impossible to distinguish between the genuinely unfortunate who for some reason beyond their control cannot make a go of life and those who are totally disinterested in making any contribution to society.

Indeed the logic of the policy demands that the shiftless as well as the deserving have equal right to the fruits of the productive. Since there are always those only too willing to live at the expense of others, that approach may only swell the ranks of the shiftless and help perpetuate poverty.

The policy is not even humanitarian, tho it parades under that label. For it is not a question here of aiding the destitute or feeding the hungry; in a variety of ways, public and private, that is done and we trust always will be. Today as yesterday many a poor man is helped toward well-being by private generosity and many others at least comforted by the community. Nor would anyone object to limited government action if there were reason to believe it could be effective.

But history, psychology and sound sociology combine to argue that treating the poor as a class, a sort of subspecies, instead of as individuals of widely varying potential is a course of regression. It is a degradation of the dignity of the deserving, a block to incentive, a move away from the long trend toward a middle-class — that is, classless — society in this country.

History also suggests that many of today's poor would leave that state if the economy were permitted to operate in greater freedom, the freedom which has already brought prosperity to the multitudes. Just as Sumner wrote of the benefits of transportation, so today the government might do more for the poor by relaxing its controls on the economy than by the spending of still more billions.

Whatever the government does, it should have no truck with a false creed which denies any individual responsibility on the part of the poor and shifts all blame to the shoulders of those who have made their way up from poverty. That is not only an affront to the hard-working majority; it is also a philosophy of restriction and retreat.

Good News for Down Town

By RUFUS L. PORTER

Into the midst of the big controversy over downtown parking comes the encouraging news that a new privately operated parking lot will soon be available in a strategic location. This may not be good news for those businesses which have been given notice to vacate and we sincerely hope they may find better locations elsewhere. But for the rest of the immediate business area, a new parking lot will certainly be beneficial.

If the new owners of the property involved believe it will pay better as a parking lot than it has been paying in building rentals, they certainly have the right to find out. There are no substantial buildings in the area and a parking lot is sorely needed there. It is only a hop, skip and a short jump away from Tejon Street, where several large stores are located, and it should be able to accommodate quite a number of cars.

This newly proposed parking facility points up a difference in the way men think. One sees a need for something and begins talking it up, but he wants somebody else, preferably some branch of the government, to take the action and spend the money to fulfil that need.

Another man sees the need and risks his own money, or his company's, having convinced his partners it's a good idea, and goes ahead and soon has the facility available — and all without adding a further burden on the already overburdened taxpayers. The privately owned business will PAY taxes. A government-owned one would naturally run a deficit.

SALVE AND ARNICA

(Note: I had hoped to keep Adam out of this column, but you know him. I can't keep him out of nothin' — R.L.P.)

Adam has long aspired to be the conductor of an "agony column" — one where he can solve people's problems. Never having been able to solve his own troubles, and he's had plenty, he thinks he's an expert on yours. We run below a sample of his solutions to various human problems. If you have any you'd like him to solve, please send them to this column.

Question: My mother-in-law visits us often and stays long. And she always parks her beat-up old suitcase in my closet, which is already jampacked full. What should I do? Worried Hubby

Answer: Next time she shows up throw the old bag out — and present your mother-in-law with a nice new one. Then she will be proud to park it in the front hall.

Question: I'm crazy about Rudolph, but the more I snuggle up to him the cooler he gets. How can I warm him up to pop the question? Halley Tosis

Answer: No matter how much you love the guy, play a little hard to get. Remember, Confucius say: What comes easy no man desires.

Question: Junior is 16 and has a driver's license and a beat-up old jalopy that he drives like crazy. How can I get him to slow down? Ima Wreck

Answer: Relax. Time is on your side, he will slow down as he grows older. Remember how you drove at his age? It always scares us silly to see our kids drive the way we used to.

These Days

A Lenin Farm Letter

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The Soviets are manipulating in their press, a supposedly "newly found" letter of Lenin which adds up to a "permanent" endorsement of the new economic policy of the nineteen twenties that permitted free peasant agriculture. To make the publication of this interesting document more pointed, it is hinted that the letter was found by no less a person than Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law, Alexsie I. Adzhubei, the editor of Izvestia, which would tend to give it some special sanction as representing the present-day opinion of Khrushchev himself.

The publication of the letter in both Izvestia and Pravda more or less coincided with Khrushchev's recent remarks on the need for new individual efficiency on the Soviet farms. It could portend an adaptation of Lenin's old NEP - period individualism to the end of getting more crops out of Russia's reluctant acres. At the very least it would seem to indicate that the NEP, as conceived by Lenin, was hardly intended as a transient thing. Its publication in 1964 could mean that Khrushchev is preparing to accuse Stalin of having corrupted Lenin's ideas on farming and so brought Russia to its knees.

FIRST PRINTING

Actually, the Lenin letter is not a "new" discovery. According to Nikolai Gradoboyev, who specializes in problems of Stalinism for Radio Liberty in New York, it was first printed in Russky Golos (or "Russian Voice") in New York City on January 10, 1923. The letter was written in late 1922, just before permanent paralysis of Lenin's right arm and right leg set in, and is therefore one of the last testaments we have from the founder of Russian Communism. It took the form of an address to "The Russian Colony in North America," and it "corrected" the idea that the new economic policy in agriculture had "radically changed" the social organization of the Soviet Union. Lenin professed himself as unworried about individual peasont farmers as "long as power is in the hands of the workers." (This is essentially what Tito is saving in "revisionist" Yugoslavia today.) sionist" Yugoslavia today.) "The state capitalism of our country," so Lenin wrote, "differs essentially from that of bourgeois countries because in our country the state is not represented by the bourgeoisie but by the proletariat, which has succeeded in winning the full trust of the peasantry."

Mr. Gradoboyev, who has compared the original publication of the letter with the version that has just been advertised in Russia as a new discovery of an old stenographic record, notes that there have been some unproclaimed deletions from Lenin's own text. Khrushchev or Adzhubei, or somebody, cut out a paragraph in which Lenin said, "The speedy restoration of our economy is unthinkable without the participation of foreign capital in its development." Apparently Lenin was reconciled just before his final decline and death to the idea of inviting foreign capitalists to operate concessions inside the Russian economy.

NUMBERED

Stalin could have "rediscovered" the letter at any time, for it bore an official number and could have been found in a sequence of Lenin's communications. But republication in Stalin's time would have served to refute the Stalinist claim that Lenin had intended the new economic policy in agriculture as a mere tactical diversion, to be followed by full farm collectivization when the time was ripe.

Just how Khrushchev intends to put individual incentive back into Russian agriculture is still an enigma. In Poland the peasants have kept their horses and can farm their small plots. But in Russia the horses have been killed off and the tractors and combines are only fit for large-scale operations. It would be a tremendous problem to restore an NEP in Russia. But the collectives aren't feeding the country, and something has got to give.

IN ERROR

To the Editor:

I see a little note in your paper of March 12. It states on page 2 that the Social Security Act was enacted August 14, 1945, during the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It is all right except the 1945. Franklin was not President then. I have a social security card which my foreman told me to go and get and it is marked 2-12-1937, the date it was issued to me.

Do not fool the young people it was enacted on August 14, 1945.

Editor's Note: The alert Mr. Skidmore is correct. The item should have listed 1935, not 1945, as the date the Social Security legislation was enacted.

KIRK ON COMPULSION

To the Editor:

A categorical statement, if true, is a statement of principle. "A principle is an unvarying rule of action which has always been true and which permits of no exception."

STATEMENT (Russell Kirk, Question Box, October 11, 1963): "No, I am against compulsory schooling — because it is impossible to learn anything worth learning under compulsion."

The following are my questions and Russell Kirk's answers (Question Box, February 3, 1964):

Question No. 1: "How can something (i.e., compulsion) which, by its very nature, acts to prevent the gaining of the objective (ie., worth-while learning) be, at the same time, necessary?"

Answer No. 1: "Compulsion is necessary until an age of reason in the individual is arrived at. Thus compulsion ordinarily is necessary to teach kindergartners not to kick one another in the shins: sweet reason rarely suffices at that age."

Question No. 2: "Is it likely that children will learn to make prudent decisions under compulsion?"

Answer No. 2: "Children will make prudent decisions under compulsion, just as adults do—in situations where some degree of compulsion is necessary. A kindergartner will find it prudent not to repeat the kicking - process, after being compulsorily treated in some fashion. Hence, we apply compulsion as we necessarily do in Society generally — for instance, we lock up robbers when we catch them. Some of them acquire prudence in consequence."

Question No. 3: "Upon what basic principle is it reasoned that compulsion is necessary and beneficial, thus moral, at the elementary levels, but unnecessary and wrong at high school and college level?"

Answer No. 3: "College and secondary students presumably have acquired habits of behavior and study — taken as a group — which should render compulsion ordinarily unnecessary. The inculcation of good habits is particularly important in childhood — and some degree of compulsion almost invariably is essential for that end."

Once again I am indebted to Mr. Kirk for a gracious, cool and measured reply. His answers to the questions asked contain much truth; however, it is his statement of principle which I believe to be profound.

NORAD PICKETING

To the Editor:

I note with a great deal of disgust that the union NO-WORK boys are up to their old tricks of trying to find some excuse to go on strike at NORAD (Cheyenne Mountain).

Almost from the beginning, there have been numerous instances of this kind of stupid, childish, asinine work stoppages because someone used the wrong pencil — or someone drove a nail with the wrong hammer — or someone leaned over toward the east instead of to the west — or some other completely foolish reason.

This last picket attempt, we are told, is because someone (probably attempting to actually do a little work) drove some steel studs for drywall surfacing and, to quote "this was not his work." Great heavens! Is this the kind of thing that the labor (man, is that word a cause for laughter) unions have brought to us?

This NORAD boondoggle is being done with tax money — wrested from every one of us. It is a bad enough waste of our substance without having strike after strike, and disturbance after disturbance, over such completely silly incidents as this. The answer should be very plain. Quite evidently these workmen would rather spend their time bickering and striking than getting the job done. Well, why not give them a lot of free time — so they will not have to work at all, but can just go to their union meetings, tell each other how badly abused they are, and see if they can get the government to give them a little more cash for their strike kitty so they can go on and on — without working?

In plain English, why not just fire the whole bunch, and replace them with men who honestly are interested in working and earning — and not just griping?

There is considerable unemployment in the Springs area and while not all of the unemployed are "skilled" workmen, at least many of them would be willing to learn — and to work — and this could get the job done.

Why pamper the malcontents, just because they wear the badge of "union labor"?

Yes, I have had experience with "unions." I have belonged to three different ones in my lifetime — have been shop steward in two of them — and spent five years on a grievance committee in a third one. So I am pretty familiar with these so called "causes" for complaint—and the type of men who do the complaining.

So they don't like to work? Well, then, FIRE them! And hire men that are willing to work. Tax money or no, it should not be wasted in this fashion!

WATER DATA

To the Editor:

Again I say that if part of a newspaper's purpose is to keep the public informed, it would be appreciated if the reporters that cover the stories or write the articles could give more thought to how their articles might be received by the reading public, what questions the article may present in the reader's mind, and then attempt to include some dissertation in the article relative to such questions.

I refer specifically to an article in the Gazette Telegraph of March 11 entitled, "City Agrees to Water System Sale to Town." I regret that I failed to mark the page number on my clipping, so you see, I, too, am far from perfect. However, the article referred to City Council's Tuesday approval of "...a resolution indicating the city's willingness to sell water distribution facilities to Green Mountain Falls..." I might interject here that more correct wording might have been, "City Council's willingness..." However, I, and I'm sure others, would appreciate a little dissertation on just what is meant by "water distribution facilities." In my mind, "water distribution facilities" as compared to "water" are two different things. Can this be clarified for the public's interests?

If the City Council is, in effect, going to sell water to Green Mountain Falls, can the logic of such be explained in view of the water shortage which exists, and which will probably continue to exist for sometime yet, within Colorado?

I've never seen a member of the local government provide any answers to your editorial page yet, but maybe somebody can provide the answers in a true public service interest. As I say, a little more information or dissertation by reporters or writers on many such articles would be appreciated by your readers.

Thank you, again.

Editor's note: The City of Colorado Springs has been supplying water to Green Mountain Falls for some time. It currently holds a contract to supply the water. The city also owns the water distribution facilities, pipes, mains, etc. Under the proposal, the city will sell the facilities to the community, thus removing them from the responsibility of Colorado Springs and the Utility Department, but, as the story referred to above said in the sixth paragraph, Colorado Springs will "continue" to supply the water to Green Mountain Falls. The city has been supplying up to 600 acre feet of water per year to the community at $60 per acre foot. This practice will continue if the residents of Green Mountain Falls vote to purchase the distribution facilities from Colorado Springs.

Local Teams Scheduled To Start Action Friday

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Wasson's South Central League baseball champions and Palmer's defending conference track kingpins raise the curtain on the spring sports season Friday afternoon, both in contests away from home.

Gib Funk's graduation-depleted Thunderbirds, who have finished second in the state baseball wars each of the past two seasons, start their 1964 swinging in a 3:30 p.m. contest at South Denver.

Meanwhile Bill Westbay, also attempting a hasty reconstruction job after graduation drained away much of his championship squad, will send his Terror runners against Longmont at 4 p.m. at the latter's track.

Activity will pick up Saturday with both the Palmer and Wasson baseball teams in action. The two local schools will battle Englewood at Memorial Park, with Wasson leading off at 11 a.m. and Palmer then opening its campaign against the same Pirates at 1:30 p.m.

Funk said Wednesday that his team was far from ready for an opening game. The Wasson coach annually pessimistic, said the club had shortcomings everywhere and that the early part of the season would primarily involve the shifting of personnel in a search for a regular lineup.

"We have favored hitters over fielders in the past few seasons," Funk said, "because we have had the type of pitching that could carry our teams defensively. However our pitching does not look good at all so far this spring and it leaves us in an awkward position. We have some kids who are pretty good fielders but they can't hit at all. We've got some others who hit well but we'd have to hide them on defense. And with our pitching we can't hide very many!"

Funk said the early season search defensively was concentrated at two key positions, shortstop and first base. The Thunderbirds lost all-state shortstop Darrell Greene and Vic Shelton, an outstanding first-sacker, thru graduation last spring.

The Wasson coach said he would have no set lineup for either of the weekend games but did indicate that veterans Hal Meller and Mike Teague would probably go at catcher and third base respectively. Other starters back include Jim Smith and Clay Chambers, both of whom play almost anywhere and will probably be shifted around.

Chambers is one of four front-line pitchers who is slated to see duty. Others include veteran Bob Kochis, one of last year's top three, and transfer students Bob Torre and Al Maynard.

The Palmer track team will also be experimenting. Westbay has a few standouts back in key events but will be looking for replacements in a number of areas.

Veterans who are expected to lead the squad in the early going include pole-vaulter, Bob McCoy; quarter-miler Alan Snyder; high-jumper Dennis Rice; and hurdler Bobby Joe Williams.

The Tribe also has a pair of promising distance runners in transfer students Gene and Jim Sietz. Other lettermen include Dennis Bair in the high jump and hurdles, hurdler Curly Brown, and distance men Jesse Martinez, Ken Nelson, and Tom Risbry.

Following Friday's meet the Terrors will be idle until a triangular with the same Longmont team and Wasson which is scheduled for the Palmer track next Wednesday.

Grand National Steeplechase Set Saturday

LONDON (AP)—The bookies were all smiles today as they anticipated Saturdays' 123rd running of the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree.

The reason for the glee was the victory Wednesday of a 33-1 shot, Jighty Ghurka, in the Lincolnshire — annual preliminary to the Grand National.

The Lincolnshire result left few big spring doubles—ones in which bettors try to link winners for the two races—alive for Saturday's 4½-mile over 30 towering obstacles.

It also means that the National odds are unlikely to shift at today's call-over by Britain's top bookies. A field of 37, which could be pared to 25 before post time, remains entered with Time, at 14-1, the favorite.

The National is worth $61,600 to the winning owner and carries the first Irish Sweepstakes of the season, a multimillion dollar lottery with five million ticket holders in 100 countries.

UCLA Rules Favorite For Basketball Title

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP)—UCLA ruled a slight favorite, Duke was conceded the experience, Michigan the manpower and Kansas State the darkhorse role today as four teams arrived in Kansas City for the NCAA basketball semifinals.

All four scheduled late afternoon loosening up drills in Municipal Auditorium as their last workouts before Friday night's semifinals. The title game will be played Saturday before a sell out crowd of about 10,500 and a national television audience.

The semifinal pairings have Michigan vs. Duke in the first game and UCLA vs. Kansas State in the second.

Duke Coach Vic Bubas said he would close his workout to the press and public for about 20 minutes, while the others scheduled open sessions.

"There's not much else you can do now," Kansas State Coach Tex Winter said Wednesday. "If you aren't prepared now, forget it."

"We're as ready as we'll ever be," said John Wooden, coach of UCLA's top-ranked and unbeaten Bruins.

Only Michigan reported any physical ailments. Wolverine Coach Dave Strack said Sophomore backcourt ace Cazzie Russell still has some tenderness around an ankle injured against Purdue.

"But he's been resting it and should be able to go full speed Friday," Strack said. "It's not that serious."

None of the four teams ever has won the title and only Kansas State has been in a championship game—in 1951 when it lost to Kentucky.

Duke was third last year. All its starters played on that team.

"The experience should be helpful," Bubas said. "They've been through this before and know what it's like. It should help us."

UCLA, which built its 28-0 record and No. 1 national rating on speed and passing, comes in with the smallest team. No. Bruin starter is over 6-feet-5.

"We've learned to live with our lack of height," Wooden said. "We make up for it by quickness."

Michigan, No. 2 in the nation and the Big Ten co - champion with a 22-4 over-all record, makes the most of its physical strength in a powerful rebounding game.

"Rebounding is our forte," Strack said. "We believe that rebounding wins most ball games, and that's what we do best."

Duke, the nation's No. 3 team and the Atlantic Coast Conference champion, has a 25-4 mark and one of the country's top performers in backcourt man Jeff Mullins, who has a 24.4 scoring average.

"We're primarily a running team," Bubas said.

Kansas State, the Big Eight champ, is the only unranked team in the field but has a 22-5 record, including 13 straight. The Wildcats offer a good zone defense, built around 7-foot Roger Suttner.

Rensselaer Meets D.U. In Tourney

Associated Press Sports Writer

DENVER (AP) — Rensselaer of Troy, N.Y., last Eastern team to win the national collegiate hockey title, will challenge Denver in the opening of 17th annual tournament tonight.

Faceoff in the Denver University arena is at 8 p.m., MST.

Michigan will play Providence Friday night in the other semifinal. The championship game between the two winners will be played Saturday night, while the losers will play a consolation contest Saturday afternoon.

The Wolverines have won six NCAA hockey titles, beginning with the first tournament in 1948, and take the best over-all record into the event. They have won 22 this season, lost four and tied one.

Denver, winner of three national championships, has a 19-6-4 mark, Providence 19-5 and Rensselaer 17-7.

RPI won its only national hockey championship 10 years ago. This is the first trip to the nationals for Providence, champion this season of the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

Michigan finished on top in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association's regular season, but lost to Denver 6-2 last Saturday in the league playoffs.

Sine Named Boston State Baseball Coach

BOSTON (UPI) — Ray Sine, a former defensive halfback with the old New York Titans in the American Football League, will coach Boston State College's baseball team this season.

Sine, 27, succeeds Jim Sullivan, who resigned to devote full time as the school's athletic director.

ALL-LEAGUE WINGER—Senior Johnny Simus has been named to the first team of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association All-Stars in a vote taken by the coaches, publicists and newsmen from thruout the league. Simus' selection was the first time a Colorado College player has made the elite squad since 1958 when Red Hay, Bob McCusker and Ike Scott formed the front line, all from CC. Simus was the only U.S. native on the first team this season.

Tiger Winger Johnny Simus Named to All-League Team

Johnny Simus, 20-year-old senior from Minneapolis, Minn., is the first Colorado College player to be selected to the official Western Collegiate Hockey Association All-Star team since the Tigers' great national championship squad that featured Bill (Red)Hay, an All-American.

Simus was among the seven selected by coaches, publicists and newsmen from thruout the league. Seven were chosen because of a tie in the vote.

Others included on the first team were goalie Gary Bauman of Michigan Tech, an All-America last season; defensemen Tom Polonic of Michigan University and Norm Wimmer of Michigan tech; center Gordon Wilkie of Michigan U.; and wingers Simus, Billy Staub of Denver University, and Gary Butler of Michigan U.

On the second team, released today, were goalie Buddy Blom of Denver; defensemen Carl Lackey of Michigan State and Wayne Smith of Denver and Jim Kenning also of Denver in another tie; center George Hill of Michigan Tech, another All-America of a year ago; and wingers Craig Falkman of Minnesota and Scott Watson of Michigan Tech.

During the regular season, Michigan finished atop the league standings with Denver taking the runnerup spot. Minnesota finished third and Michigan Tech fourth, with North Dakota, Colorado College and Michigan State bringing up the rear.

Despite CC's winning only four games in league play this season, Simus made the elite first team selections mainly due to his consistent hustle and desire, along with a fine ability to put the puck in the net. As the only American to break thru the Canadians' dominance on the team, Simus was the WCHA's second best goal producer with 22 points in league games. He lost a chance to beat out Michigan's Butler in goals scored when the Tigers' ace was sidelined in the final game with a case of measles.

Over the entire season, Simus was tied with winger Warren Fordyce for total points.

The voting also named the Coach of the Year as Al Renfrew of Michigan with Minnesota's John Mariucci coming in a weak second. The Sophomore of the Year was selected as Polonic of Michigan, a 6-3, Denver goalie Blom coming in a close second. Steve Ebert of CC was mentioned in this Sophomore vote.

Other Colorado College players on the honorable mention list were goalie Ar Warwick and wingers Fordyce, Jeff Sauer and Wayne McAlpine. Fordyce and Sauer will both be back with the Tigers next season and the others are graduating seniors.

A triple play that went from Norm Cash to Dick McAuliffe to Don Wert on Sept. 15, 1963, was the first by the Detroit Tigers since 1951.

NIT Has Semi-Finals Set Tonight

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It will be "Happy" vs. "The Big I" tonight in the semifinals of the National Invitation college basketball tournament as the NYU Violets tangle with the New Mexico Lobos. Army's upset-minded Cadets meet the Bradley Braves in the other semi-final game.

"Happy" is Harold Hairston, a 6-foot-7 ace rebounder and scorer from Winston - Salem, N.C. who has sparked the Violets to upset victories over Syracuse and DePaul in the NIT after a disappointing regular season.

"The Big I" is 6-8 Ira Harge from Detroit a similar top rebounder and scorer who has been called the key of the club that tied for the championship of the Western Athletic Conference and beat Drake in Tuesday's quarter-finals.

Their meeting in the first game of a doubleheader expected to draw a capacity 18,000-plus at Madison Square Garden overshadows the second game clash between Bradley and surprising Army. Bradley is a heavy favorite while NYU-New Mexico generally is regarded as a tossup.

Tonight's winners will meet for the championship in a nationally televised game at 4 p.m., EST Saturday afternoon after the losers play for third place.

Harge and his teammates, Claude Williams, Dick Ellis and Mike Lucero who starred in the victory over Drake likely will get an acid test against NYU.

Lou Rossini, the Violet coach, said he would like to see how the Lobos would fare if they fell behind, which they never did against Drake. He hopes his boys, Hairston, Barry Kramer and Stan McKenzie get an early lead to put the pressure on the visitors from Albuquerque.

Army is the sentimental favorite off its upset triumphs over St. Bonaventure and Duquesne, but Tates Locke, the Cadet coach, thinks Bradley is "the best team in the tournament."

Locke added, however, his boys "have matured and we have a chance" especially if sophomore Mike Silliman and Joe Kosciusko play an inspired game like they did in the second half against Duquesne.

Barbara Amateur Favorite In Western Open Tourney

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—According to favorite Kathy Whitworth, anyone of 15 can win the Women's Western Open starting today with a talented field of 100 lady golfers.

Mickey Wright of Dallas, two-time winner and defending champion, fractured her ankle and could not participate. This leaves the title up for grabs by such veterans as Miss Whitworth, Patty Berg, Louise Suggs, and a score of the country's top amateurs.

"It's a good golf course," said Miss Whitworth after touring the hilly 6,543 yard par-75 course for the first time. "It's got some awful holes. You've got to be straight, but above all, you've got to be long.

"My chances?" said the tall blonde. "It's really much too early to tell . . . Anyone of 15 could win it."

Hockey Cure-All?

This afternoon in Denver, coaches from across the country gathered in what could — and should — be their most eventful meeting in the history of hockey south of the Canadian border.

In conjunction with National Collegiate Athletics Association tournament, the American Hockey Coaches Association will be pooling their thoughts on the future of the sport. Much of the meeting will be undoubtedly taken with routine reports as in the case of any convention, but there could also be a few key decisions made — probably coming from the sessions that are not on the regular agenda.

The one question everyone concerned with hockey is asking is what are the coaches going to do to promote more equity among teams? And they'll have a prime example right in front of their noses as East meets West in the NCAA playoffs.

There is an obvious reason teams like St. Lawrence this year and Harvard in the past couple seasons have turned down the bid to play in the national championships. Just like the sacrificial lambs from the East that will be going to the slaughter tonight and Friday in the semi-finals, these teams were expecting a lop-sided score of 10 goals or so, depending on the whim of the Westerns.

It's nonsense to think that that kind of eye-opener is going to do any school's program any good. For instance, Providence College takes on the University of Michigan in Friday's game and if they survive with their lives they will be lucky.

It takes no fancy calculator to figure their odds. As a quick comparison, early in the season Colorado College handed Providence one of its five defeats this winter, 8-5. But CC finished next-to-last in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association and was bumped twice by league champion Michigan with bulging 7-0 and 12-4 scores. So noting that Michigan was about seven better than the Tigers, that makes Providence (the No. 1 team from the East) a 10-goal underdog in the championships.

Comparative scores are often proven ridiculous in actual competition, but nonetheless this gives a vivid picture of the difference in caliber. And how do you think the fans back in Providence feel after sending their area's best to the tournament, only to see them wiped out when paired against the West.

This, of course, is being felt here in Colorado Springs where CC has fielded teams the equal of anything in other parts of the country and yet struggling to stay out of the WCHA cellar.

Fans grew used to seeing a winner thru the 1950's and anything less than that keeps them away in droves — except for maybe an "on the house" night as the one staged this year with all members of the region's service clubs invited free of charge.

Incidentally, the coach of the last national championship team at CC, Tom Bedecki, was back on campus this week. Bedecki, now a professor and hockey coach at Ohio State University, is in Colorado to attend the coaches meeting in Denver as one of the Board of Governors in the AHCA.

But Bedecki then had a free rein on recruiting, just as many other schools have now, and the embarrassment was shown on the red face of opponents. Since that Tiger title in 1957 and Bedecki's last season at CC the following year when he had such stars as Bill (Red) Hay, Ike Scott and Bob McCusker, the Bengals slipped completely out of national contention . . thanks to the recently departed administration that felt athletes de-eracted from scholastics.

TOM BEDECKI
Back on CC Campus

The Tigers' playmates of yesteryear have delighted in the revenge since that time, but there are those who are questioning the reasoning for this inequity.

Whether it is a cure-all is open to debate, but at least the proposal of an age limit makes some sense in the majority's quest for balance among teams.

The main problem lies in the Western area where teams like NCAA finalists Denver and Michigan have and will continue to dominate. That's the reason any ruling along this line probably will be restricted to this league. However, it would be worth discussion by all the nation's coaches during the meeting in Denver this weekend.

Because the Big Ten Conference is represented by three in the WCHA and with CC stringing along, this forms a majority in votes among the seven members. And they are pushing for a 19-year-old limit for incoming players — or forfeit of a year's eligibility for each additional year in age. The Big Ten already has this rule for all other sports except hockey.

There are those who construe the whole argument among schools as Canadians vs. Americans. But this is actually not true for all the coaches welcome Canadians as long as they are truly amateurs. That is why they favor the new age rule (two years younger than the present statute) for it would eliminate those who have played in the semi-pro leagues of the northland between high school and college or the professional teams.

Perhaps there are rare instances where because of an interruption for military service or something like that makes it impossible to graduate until the student is 24 or 25. But that is certainly the exception, and this type is hardly the normal student.

The "athletic bum" may never be totally eliminated from collegiate teams, but the try is worth it.

Tigers Set One Home Track Meet

The Colorado College track team winds up its indoor season Saturday among elite competition — in the Colorado University Invitational at Boulder.

The Saturday meet will conclude the Tigers' activity until the otudoor season is launched with a quadrangular meet at the CC track, April 11. Three Rocky Mountain Conference schools, Mines, Western State, and Adams State, are scheduled to compete with the local squad that day.

That early April competition is the only home meet on the Tigers' schedule to date, altho Coach Frank Flood said he hoped to add a couple of mid-week duals later on. The Tigers will also take part in three other quadrangluars on the road in addition to the Rocky Mountain Conference Relays and the conference outdoor.

Flood has a total of 13 lettermen on this spring's team. Among the top performers are distance man Tony McGinnis and hurdler Ed Loosli. McGinnis won both the mile and two mile in the conference outdoor a year ago and was the victor in the mile at the conference indoor last Saturday. He was also leading in the two mile, before being forced to drop out.

Loosli, who missed last season due to scholastic ineligibility, is one of the top hurdlers in the area. He easily won the highs at the indoor meet and was third in the lows. He also competes in the high jump.

Other veterans include Abriodum Afonja from Nigeria, who has led the Tigers in the broad jump and hop-step-and-jump for the past two seasons.

In the 880 Flood has three lettermen returning, Mike Durphee, Bob Schuyler, and Jay Schidler, plus some outstanding freshmen prospects. In the 440 CC returns lettermen Bob Grant and Lyle Hayes, plus Norm Lidin, who also competes in the 220.

Returnees in the field events include Mike Norris in the javelin and high jump; Steve Sabol in the shot put; Craig Welch in the shot and discus; and Farrell Howell in the javelin, high jump, broad jump, and hop-step-and-jump. Howell is a letterman from the team two years ago. He was not in school last spring.

Broncos Deny Franchise Move To Chicago

DENVER (AP) — A Chicago newspaper report that the Denver Broncos would be moved to that city was denied today by Cal Kunz, president of the American Football League team.

"This team is not for sale," Kunz said. "There is no truth or basis in any story speculating on its sale.

"Sure, we've taken our losses along with everybody else for the past four years. But with the new TV contract everybody in the league should make money."

An article by Dick Hackenberg, sports editor of the Chicago Sun-Times, said that owner Arthur C. Allyn of the Chicago White Sox plans to buy the Broncos and shift the team to Chicago this year.

Local Teams Scheduled To Start Action Friday

Wasson's South Central League baseball champions and Palmer's defending conference track kingpins raise the curtain on the spring sports season Friday afternoon, both in contests away from home.

Gib Funk's graduation-depleted Thunderbirds, who have finished second in the state baseball wars each of the past two seasons, start their 1964 swinging in a 3:30 p.m. contest at South Denver.

Tiger Winger Johnny Simus Named to All-League Team

Johnny Simus, 20-year-old senior from Minneapolis, Minn., is the first Colorado College player to be selected to the official Western Collegiate Hockey Association All-Star team since the Tigers' great national championship squad that featured Bill (Red)Hay, an All-American.

Simus was among the seven selected by coaches, publicists and newsmen from thruout the league. Seven were chosen because of a tie in the vote.

Others included on the first team were goalie Gary Bauman of Michigan Tech, an All-America last season; defensemen Tom Polonic of Michigan University and Norm Wimmer of Michigan tech; center Gordon Wilkie of Michigan U.; and wingers Simus, Billy Staub of Denver University, and Gary Butler of Michigan U.

On the second team, released today, were goalie Buddy Blom of Denver; defensemen Carl Lackey of Michigan State and Wayne Smith of Denver and Jim Kenning also of Denver in another tie; center George Hill of Michigan Tech, another All-America of a year ago; and wingers Craig Falkman of Minnesota and Scott Watson of Michigan Tech.

During the regular season, Michigan finished atop the league standings with Denver taking the runnerup spot. Minnesota finished third and Michigan Tech fourth, with North Dakota, Colorado College and Michigan State bringing up the rear.

Despite CC's winning only four games in league play this season, Simus made the elite first team selections mainly due to his consistent hustle and desire, along with a fine ability to put the puck in the net. As the only American to break thru the Canadians' dominance on the team, Simus was the WCHA's second best goal producer with 22 points in league games. He lost a chance to beat out Michigan's Butler in goals scored when the Tigers' ace was sidelined in the final game with a case of measles.

Over the entire season, Simus was tied with winger Warren Fordyce for total points.

The voting also named the Coach of the Year as Al Renfrew of Michigan with Minnesota's John Mariucci coming in a weak second. The Sophomore of the Year was selected as Polonic of Michigan, a 6-3, Denver goalie Blom coming in a close second. Steve Ebert of CC was mentioned in this Sophomore vote.

Other Colorado College players on the honorable mention list were goalie Ar Warwick and wingers Fordyce, Jeff Sauer and Wayne McAlpine. Fordyce and Sauer will both be back with the Tigers next season and the others are graduating seniors.

A triple play that went from Norm Cash to Dick McAuliffe to Don Wert on Sept. 15, 1963, was the first by the Detroit Tigers since 1951.

NIT Has Semi-Finals Set Tonight

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It will be "Happy" vs. "The Big I" tonight in the semifinals of the National Invitation college basketball tournament as the NYU Violets tangle with the New Mexico Lobos. Army's upset-minded Cadets meet the Bradley Braves in the other semifinal game.

"Happy" is Harold Hairston, a 6-foot-7 ace rebounder and scorer from Winston - Salem, N.C. who has sparked the Violets to upset victories over Syracuse and DePaul in the NIT after a disappointing regular season.

"The Big I" is 6-8 Ira Harge from Detroit a similar top rebounder and scorer who has been called the key of the club that tied for the championship of the Western Athletic Conference and beat Drake in Tuesday's quarter-finals.

Their meeting in the first game of a doubleheader expected to draw a capacity 18,000-plus at Madison Square Garden overshadows the second game clash between Bradley and surprising Army. Bradley is a heavy favorite while NYU-New Mexico generally is regarded as a tossup.

Tonight's winners will meet for the championship in a nationally televised game at 4 p.m., EST Saturday afternoon after the losers play for third place.

Harge and his teammates, Claude Williams, Dick Ellis and Mike Lucero who starred in the victory over Drake likely will get an acid test against NYU.

Lou Rossini, the Violet coach, said he would like to see how the Lobos would fare if they fell behind, which they never did against Drake. He hopes his boys, Hairston, Barry Kramer and Stan McKenzie get an early lead to put the pressure on the visitors from Albuquerque.

Army is the sentimental favorite off its upset triumphs over St. Bonaventure and Duquesne, but Tates Locke, the Cadet coach, thinks Bradley is "the best team in the tournament."

Locke added, however, his boys "have matured and we have a chance" especially if sophomore Mike Silliman and Joe Kosciusko play an inspired game like they did in the second half against Duquesne.

Barbara Amateur Favorite In Western Open Tourney

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—According to favorite Kathy Whitworth, anyone of 15 can win the Women's Western Open starting today with a talented field of 100 lady golfers.

Mickey Wright of Dallas, two-time winner and defending champion, fractured her ankle and could not participate. This leaves the title up for grabs by such veterans as Miss Whitworth, Patty Berg, Louise Suggs, and a score of the country's top amateurs.

"It's a good golf course," said Miss Whitworth after touring the hilly 6,543 yard par-75 course for the first time. "It's got some awful holes. You've got to be straight, but above all, you've got to be long.

"My chances?" said the tall blonde. "It's really much too early to tell . . . Anyone of 15 could win it."

Hockey Cure-All?

This afternoon in Denver, coaches from across the country gathered in what could — and should — be their most eventful meeting in the history of hockey south of the Canadian border.

In conjunction with National Collegiate Athletics Association tournament, the American Hockey Coaches Association will be pooling their thoughts on the future of the sport. Much of the meeting will be undoubtedly taken with routine reports as in the case of any convention, but there could also be a few key decisions made — probably coming from the sessions that are not on the regular agenda.

The one question everyone concerned with hockey is asking is what are the coaches going to do to promote more equity among teams? And they'll have a prime example right in front of their noses as East meets West in the NCAA playoffs.

There is an obvious reason teams like St. Lawrence this year and Harvard in the past couple seasons have turned down the bid to play in the national championships. Just like the sacrificial lambs from the East that will be going to the slaughter tonight and Friday in the semi-finals, these teams were expecting a lop-sided score of 10 goals or so, depending on the whim of the Westerns.

It's nonsense to think that that kind of eye-opener is going to do any school's program any good. For instance, Providence College takes on the University of Michigan in Friday's game and if they survive with their lives they will be lucky.

It takes no fancy calculator to figure their odds. As a quick comparison, early in the season Colorado College handed Providence one of its five defeats this winter, 8-5. But CC finished next-to-last in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association and was bumped twice by league champion Michigan with bulging 7-0 and 12-4 scores. So noting that Michigan was about seven better than the Tigers, that makes Providence (the No. 1 team from the East) a 10-goal underdog in the championships.

Comparative scores are often proven ridiculous in actual competition, but nonetheless this gives a vivid picture of the difference in caliber. And how do you think the fans back in Providence feel after sending their area's best to the tournament, only to see them wiped out when paired against the West.

This, of course, is being felt here in Colorado Springs where CC has fielded teams the equal of anything in other parts of the country and yet struggling to stay out of the WCHA cellar.

Fans grew used to seeing a winner thru the 1950's and anything less than that keeps them away in droves — except for maybe an "on the house" night as the one staged this year with all members of the region's service clubs invited free of charge.

Incidentally, the coach of the last national championship team at CC, Tom Bedecki, was back on campus this week. Bedecki, now a professor and hockey coach at Ohio State University, is in Colorado to attend the coaches meeting in Denver as one of the Board of Governors in the AHCA.

But Bedecki then had a free rein on recruiting, just as many other schools have now, and the embarrassment was shown on the red face of opponents. Since that Tiger title in 1957 and Bedecki's last season at CC the following year when he had such stars as Bill (Red) Hay, Ike Scott and Bob McCusker, the Bengals slipped completely out of national contention . . .thanks to the recently departed administration that felt athletes deeracted from scholastics.

TOM BEDECKI
Back on CC Campus

The Tigers' playmates of yesteryear have delighted in the revenge since that time, but there are those who are questioning the reasoning for this inequity.

Whether it is a cure-all is open to debate, but at least the proposal of an age limit makes some sense in the majority's quest for balance among teams.

The main problem lies in the Western area where teams like NCAA finalists Denver and Michigan have and will continue to dominate. That's the reason any ruling along this line probably will be restricted to this league. However, it would be worth discussion by all the nation's coaches during the meeting in Denver this weekend.

Because the Big Ten Conference is represented by three in the WCHA and with CC stringing along, this forms a majority in votes among the seven members. And they are pushing for a 19-year-old limit for incoming players — or forfeit of a year's eligibility for each additional year in age. The Big Ten already has this rule for all other sports except hockey.

There are those who construe the whole argument among schools as Canadians vs. Americans. But this is actually not true for all the coaches welcome Canadians as long as they are truly amateurs. That is why they favor the new age rule (two years younger than the present statute) for it would eliminate those who have played in the semi-pro leagues of the northland between high school and college or the professional teams.

Perhaps there are rare instances where because of an interruption for military service or something like that makes it impossible to graduate until the student is 24 or 25. But that is certainly the exception, and this type is hardly the normal student.

The "athletic bum" may never be totally eliminated from collegiate teams, but the try is worth it.

Tigers Set One Home Track Meet

The Colorado College track team winds up its indoor season Saturday among elite competition — in the Colorado University Invitational at Boulder.

The Saturday meet will conclude the Tigers' activity until the otudoor season is launched with a quadrangular meet at the CC track, April 11. Three Rocky Mountain Conference schools, Mines, Western State, and Adams State, are scheduled to compete with the local squad that day.

That early April competition is the only home meet on the Tigers' schedule to date, altho Coach Frank Flood said he hoped to add a couple of mid-week duals later on. The Tigers will also take part in three other quadrangluars on the road in addition to the Rocky Mountain Conference Relays and the conference outdoor.

Flood has a total of 13 lettermen on this spring's team. Among the top performers are distance man Tony McGinnis and hurdler Ed Loosli. McGinnis won both the mile and two mile in the conference outdoor a year ago and was the victor in the mile at the conference indoor last Saturday. He was also leading in the two mile, before being forced to drop out.

Loosli, who missed last season due to scholastic ineligibility, is one of the top hurdlers in the area. He easily won the highs at the indoor meet and was third in the lows. He also competes in the high jump.

Other veterans include Abriodum Afonja from Nigeria, who has led the Tigers in the broad jump and hop-step-and-jump for the past two seasons.

In the 880 Flood has three lettermen returning. Mike Durphee, Bob Schuyler, and Jay Schidler, plus some outstanding freshmen prospects. In the 440 CC returns lettermen Bob Grant and Lyle Hayes, plus Norm Lidin, who also competes in the 220.

Returnees in the field events include Mike Norris in the javelin and high jump; Steve Sabol in the shot put; Craig Welch in the shot and discus; and Farrell Howell in the javelin, high jump, broad jump, and hop-step-and-jump. Howell is a letterman from the team two years ago. He was not in school last spring.

Broncos Deny Franchise Move To Chicago

DENVER (AP) — A Chicago newspaper report that the Denver Broncos would be moved to that city was denied today by Cal Kunz, president of the American Football League team.

"This team is not for sale," Kunz said. "There is no truth or basis in any story speculating on its sale.

"Sure, we've taken our losses along with everybody else for the past four years. But with the new TV contract everybody in the league should make money."

An article by Dick Hackenberg, sports editor of the Chicago Sun-Times, said that owner Arthur C. Allyn of the Chicago White Sox plans to buy the Broncos and shift the team to Chicago this year.

Cassius Not 'Tuned in' On Status With Army

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay claims he is "tuned in on the future," but he admittedly draws a blank when it comes to forecasting his status with the Army.

Amid reports he had again failed to pass the mental part of his draft examinations, the world heavyweight champion said Wednesday that he "had not been told, one way or the other."

"The results have not been disclosed."

The 22-year-old champion failed to pass his first mental exam two months ago in Coral Gables, Fla., and was given a rematch last Friday in Louisville. The Washington Post reported he also flunked the second test, bringing negative responses from Clay, the Pentagon and the draft board.

With Army talk disposed of, Clay turned to other pressing matters: His next fight, business a new home, and his "religion" —the Black Muslims.

"If the commissions would let me I'd like to fight two out of three — Floyd Patterson, Doug Jones and Eddie Machen — on the same night," the youthful champion said.

"And maybe they'll et me. I'd have a better chance of losing my title and a lot of people want me to lose.

"They're against me because of my religion."

The Black Muslims claim superiority of the Negro and advocate separation of the races. Clay is not as militant on the subject as leaders of the movement, but he has adopted a new name—Muhammad Ali — and he is increasingly metaphysical in his conversation.

"I'm the first one to predict. I'm tuned in on the future," he said. "I can see in a person's mind, what he's thinking. That's because I walk with God and talk with God."

On more mundane matters, Clay talked of moving from Louisville to either New York or Chicago—"I need a big city;" of opening an office for "a national youth fan club;" of business with a large talent agency; and taxes.

Nine Teams Entered in CU Track Meet

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI)— A field of nine teams and several individual entries were signed up Wednesday for the Colorado University Indoor Invitational Track and Field meet Saturday.

Former collegiate champions planning to enter the Boulder meet as unattached participants were Don Meyers, Colorado, pole vault; Jerry Lane, Wyoming, high jump; Gerry Glyde, Colorado State University, 2-mile run, and Del Hessel, Colorado State University, 880-yard dash.

Colorado, Colorado Mines, Kansas State, Wyoming, Colorado State University, Denver University, Colorado College, Lowry Air Force Base and Ent Air Force Base have entered teams.

Oerter Seeks Third Olympic Gold Medal

Fourth of five articles examining top U.S. Olympic track and field prospects.

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Discus thrower Al Oerter is attempting a feat this year which hasn't been accomplished since 1908—and he's likely to succeed.

The brawny New Yorker is after his third consecutive Olympic gold medal in a single event and he's the most likely to win of all U.S. field event competitors.

American victory hopes are nearly as high in the shot put and hammer throw, but tail off in the javelin.

Oerter is the world record thrower in the discus at 205-5½ but has been closely pursued in recent years by big Jay Silvester, who's thrown far beyond the record in practice.

Olympic veteran Rink Babka is the likely No. 3 American though Bob Humphreys and two-time NCAA champion Dave Weill from Stanford are strong contenders.

Dallas Long stayed out of competition most of 1963 but off his 64-8 indoor mark this year, the former Southern California star is back at the fore of American shot-putting. He should be the Tokyo favorite, but Europeans are rapidly gaining ground on the United States in this event.

A probable four-way fight for the other two U.S. spots should involve three-time Olympian Parry O'Brien, Texas A&M freshman Randy Matson, inconsistent Dave Davis and New York University weight-lifting addict Gary Gubner.

World hammer throw record holder Hal Connolly is one of several Americans trying to atone for dismal performances at the 1960 Games.

After winning the 1956 Olympic title, he slumped to eighth at Rome. He'll return to the United States in May from his Finnish teaching duties and should dominate U.S. hammer throwing.

Though not likely to beat Connolly, veteran Al Hall again should easily make the U.S. team. The third man could be George Frenn, Ed Burke or Bill McWilliams — all veterans who throw in the 200-foot range, far behind Connolly's 231-10 record.

A flock of Americans who'll need 10-to-20 foot improvements to be in javelin medal contention should at least make the struggle for U.S. team berths interesting.

NCAA champ Frank Covelli, formerly of Arizona State, is the most consistent of the group. AAU king Larry Stuart of Southern California, like Covelli, puts his top throw in the mid 260s—but he's erratic. Ex-Oregon Stater Gary Stenlund and Ed Red of Rice are strong threats with Glenn Winningham of Arizona State also a possibility.

Widefield Sports Teams Are Honored at Banquet

The Widefield High School basketball and wrestling teams were honored Wednesday night during the annual Winter Sports Banquet conducted at the Ft. Carson officers club.

Bob Poole, principal of Widefield, officially announced that the school will field golf and ice hockey teams starting with golf this spring. The Widefield principal confirmed that the school will compete in the City Hockey League effective next season.

Poole also announced a preseason basketball tournament to be conducted at the Widefield and Cheyenne gymnasiums. Schools participating in that tournament will be teams from the proposed Will Rogers League including Widefield, Cheyenne, Harrison, Air Academy High, and Cannon City. In addition, two Pueblo teams, Centennial and Central, were also expected to compete in the tournament.

The four above local schools are slated to advance to the higher Class-AAA classification next fall, thus ending their association with the Pikes Peak League. Pueblo Central was in the State Class-AAA tournament finals last weekend losing the title to Denver East.

Feller was presented the Most Improved Wrestler award, and the Most Outstanding Senior award went to Ivy.

Kadets Launch Slate With Palmer Opener

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

A bridesmaid in the last four Pikes Peak League baseball pennant chases, Air Academy High will attempt to snap Cheyenne Mountain's supremacy at PPL champion when the Kadets launch their campaign next Wednesday against Palmer.

Under the guidance of Russ Lyon, who has piloted his teams to second place in the PPL the last four years, the Big Blue tangles with Manitou Springs in their league opener, April 3.

The Kadets have 15 games on their agenda this season including two outings with triple-A schools Palmer and Cherry Creek. In addition, the Academy High aggregation is slated to compete in the Los Animas Invitational tournament, Saturday, April 4. They'll play a doubleheader in that tourney.

Word from the field indicates that Cheyenne and Academy High could be headed for a showdown for the PPL title with Harrison and Manitou the top challengers. Cheyenne, six-time PPL champion, hosts the Kadets in league competition on its home field, May 5.

This season, as usual, the six-team PPL field will play a single round robin to decide the league championship.

With seven returning lettermen on the varsity roster, Lyon will have the stick power but just as Cheyenne his team lacks experience in the bull pen. Carter Dean will carry the majority of the pitching load for the Kadets with third baseman Lance Jensen and center fielder Bill Culver doubling on the mound.

Jensen and Culver should supply the hitting power with the latter expected to better his .351 average. Jensen hit .340 last year in addition to fielding adequately at third base. Culver was the leading center fielder in the PPL last year only committing one error for an outstanding .973 fielding average.

Other veterans returning this season are utility catcher John MacWherter, catcher Roger Karolick, second baseman Nick Weigel, and outfielders Bob Gosline and Rudy Hallenbeck. Ted Hallenbeck, Vance Wilson, and Bob Culver round out the nonlettermen expected to boost the Academy High squad.

Academy High Coach

Lyon lost the league's most successful pitcher and hitter when Wayne Mitchell transferred out last year to Virginia. Mitchell compiled a remarkable 1.96 earned run average for 52 innings last season while the strong right-hander blasted 10 home runs in 13 games; he belted four homers in one contest against Harrison. In addition to his long bombs, Mitchell collected 16 hits for 44 times at the plate for a respectable .363 batting average.

The Kadets also lost the services of their second baseman Marty Martin because of his father's military transfer. He was the son of the former Air Force Academy Athletic Director, Col. Marty Martin.

Lyon, the athletic director for Academy High and School District 20, is in his fifth term as head baseball coach. After graduating from Wheat Ridge, Lyon attended Colorado State University four years for his college degree. He played second base on the CSU varsity team and during his junior year they won the NCAA regional playoff while losing to Oklahoma State in the tourney quarter-finals.

Clippers Near Playoff Berth

By United Press International

The Clippers moved within one point of a Calder Cup playoff berth Wednesday night when they came from behind to defeat the Hershey Bears, 3-2.

Ken Schinkel's clutch goal with only 28 seconds remaining was Baltimore's margin of victory. Dave Creighton, who scored midway through the first period to even the score at 1-all, assisted on Schinkel's game-winner.

The Pittsburgh Hornets, paced by Ted Hampson and Claude Laforge, who scored two goals each, strengthened their hold on the Western Division lead by trouncing the Springfield Indians, 6-1, in the only other action.

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI)— A field of nine teams and several individual entries were signed up Wednesday for the Colorado University Indoor Invitational Track and Field meet Saturday.

Former collegiate champions planning to enter the Boulder meet as unattached participants were Don Meyers, Colorado, pole vault; Jerry Lane, Wyoming, high jump; Gerry Glyde, Colorado State University, 2-mile run, and Del Hessel, Colorado State University, 880-yard dash.

Colorado, Colorado Mines, Kansas State, Wyoming, Colorado State University, Denver University, Colorado College, Lowry Air Force Base and Ent Air Force Base have entered teams.

Oerter Seeks Third Olympic Gold Medal

Fourth of five articles examining top U.S. Olympic track and field prospects.

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Discus thrower Al Oerter is attempting a feat this year which hasn't been accomplished since 1908—and he's likely to succeed.

The brawny New Yorker is after his third consecutive Olympic gold medal in a single event and he's the most likely to win of all U.S. field event competitors.

American victory hopes are nearly as high in the shot put and hammer throw, but tail off in the javelin.

Oerter is the world record thrower in the discus at 205-5½ but has been closely pursued in recent years by big Jay Silvester, who's thrown far beyond the record in practice.

Olympic veteran Rink Babka is the likely No. 3 American though Bob Humphreys and two-time NCAA champion Dave Weill from Stanford are strong contenders.

Dallas Long stayed out of competition most of 1963 but off his 64-8 indoor mark this year, the former Southern California star is back at the fore of American shot-putting. He should be the Tokyo favorite, but Europeans are rapidly gaining ground on the United States in this event.

A probable four-way fight for the other two U.S. spots should involve three-time Olympian Parry O'Brien, Texas A&M freshman Randy Matson, inconsistent Dave Davis and New York University weight-lifting addict Gary Gubner.

World hammer throw record holder Hal Connolly is one of several Americans trying to atone for dismal performances at the 1960 Games.

After winning the 1956 Olympic title, he slumped to eighth at Rome. He'll return to the United States in May from his Finnish teaching duties and should dominate U.S. hammer throwing.

Though not likely to beat Connolly, veteran Al Hall again should easily make the U.S. team. The third man could be George Frenn, Ed Burke or Bill McWilliams — all veterans who throw in the 200-foot range, far behind Connolly's 231-10 record.

A flock of Americans who'll need 10-to-20 foot improvements to be in javelin medal contention should at least make the struggle for U.S. team berths interesting.

NCAA champ Frank Covelli, formerly of Arizona State, is the most consistent of the group. AAU king Larry Stuart of Southern California, like Covelli, puts his top throw in the mid 260s—but he's erratic Ex-Oregon Stater Gary Stenlund and Ed Red of Rice are strong threats with Glenn Winningham of Arizona State also a possibility.

HOPES TO DO BETTER IN OLYMPICS — Hal Connolly (above) of Santa Monica, Calif., world record holder in the hammer throw, is hoping to compete for the U.S. in the Olympics in Tokyo in October. He is one of several Americans who will try to atone for dismal performances in the 1960 Games.

Widefield Sports Teams Are Honored at Banquet

The Widefield High School basketball and wrestling teams were honored Wednesday night during the annual Winter Sports Banquet conducted at the Ft. Carson officers club.

Bob Poole, principal of Widefield, officially announced that the school will field golf and ice hockey teams starting with golf this spring. The Widefield principal confirmed that the school will compete in the City Hockey League effective next season.

Poole also announced a preseason basketball tournament to be conducted at the Widefield and Cheyenne gymnasiums. Schools participating in that tournament will be teams from the proposed Will Rogers League including Widefield, Cheyenne, Harrison, Air Academy High, and Cannon City. In addition, two Pueblo teams, Centennial and Central, were also expected to compete in the tournament.

The four above local schools are slated to advance to the higher Class-AAA classification next fall, thus ending their association with the Pikes Peak League. Pueblo Central was in the State Class-AAA tournament finals last weekend losing the title to Denver East.

Coach Rolly Rounds presented wrestling letters to Rudy Sandoval, Dick Heldenbrand, Pat Richards, Mike Feller, Dave Kindsfater, Chuck Lockhart, Doug McDonald, Larry Ivy, Rick Sutton, Dennis Jurgens, and Bob McGowan.

Feller was presented the Most Improved Wrestler award, and the Most Outstanding Senior award went to Ivy.

Kadets Launch Slate With Palmer Opener

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

A bridesmaid in the last four Pikes Peak League baseball pennant chases, Air Academy High will attempt to snap Cheyenne Mountain's supremacy at PPL champion when the Kadets launch their campaign next Wednesday against Palmer.

Under the guidance of Russ Lyon, who has piloted his teams to second place in the PPL the last four years, the Big Blue tangles with Manitou Springs in their league opener, April 3.

The Kadets have 15 games on their agenda this season including two outings with triple-A schools Palmer and Cherry Creek. In addition, the Academy High aggregation is slated to compete in the Los Animas Invitational tournament, Saturday, April 4. They'll play a doubleheader in that tourney.

Word from the field indicates that Cheyenne and Academy High could be headed for a showdown for the PPL title with Harrison and Manitou the top challengers. Cheyenne, six-time PPL champion, hosts the Kadets in league competition on its home field, May 5.

This season, as usual, the six-team PPL field will play a single round robin to decide the league championship.

With seven returning lettermen on the varsity roster, Lyon will have the stick power but just as Cheyenne his team lacks experience in the bull pen. Carter Dean will carry the majority of the pitching load for the Kadets with third baseman Lance Jensen and center fielder Bill Culver doubling on the mound.

Jensen and Culver should supply the hitting power with the latter expected to better his .351 average. Jensen hit .340 last year in addition to fielding adequately at third base. Culver was the leading center fielder in the PPL last year only committing one error for an outstanding .973 fielding average.

Other veterans returning this season are utility catcher John MacWherter, catcher Roger Karolick, second baseman Nick Weigel, and outfielders Bob Gosline and Rudy Hallenbeck. Ted Hallenbeck, Vance Wilson, and Bob Culver round out the non-lettermen expected to boost the Academy High squad.

Lyon lost the league's most successful pitcher and hitter when Wayne Mitchell transferred out last year to Virginia. Mitchell compiled a remarkable 1.96 earned run average for 52 innings last season while the strong right-hander blasted 10 home runs in 13 games; he belted four homers in one contest against Harrison. In addition to his long bombs, Mitchell collected 16 hits for 44 times at the plate for a respectable .363 batting average.

The Kadets also lost the services of their second baseman Marty Martin because of his father's military transfer. He was the son of the former Air Force Academy Athletic Director, Col. Marty Martin.

Lyon, the athletic director for Academy High and School District 20, is in his fifth term as head baseball coach. After graduating from Wheat Ridge, Lyon attended Colorado State University four years for his college degree. He played second base on the CSU varsity team and during his junior year they won the NCAA regional playoff while losing to Oklahoma State in the tourney quarter-finals.

Clippers Near Playoff Berth

By United Press International

The Clippers moved within one point of a Calder Cup playoff berth Wednesday night when they came from behind to defeat the Hershey Bears, 3-2.

Ken Schinkel's clutch goal with only 28 seconds remaining was Baltimore's margin of victory. Dave Creighton, who scored midway through the first period to even the score at 1-all, assisted on Schinkel's game-winner.

The Pittsburgh Hornets, paced by Ted Hampson and Claude Laforge, who scored two goals each, strengthened their hold on the Western Division lead by trouncing the Springfield Indians, 6-1, in the only other action.

Warriors Nip 76ers; Win Division Crown

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"We had to go into every game as a real physical battle," explained Coach Alex Hannum whose San Francisco Warriors surprisingly are the Western Division champions of the National Basketball Association today.

"We realized very early our No. 1 asset was size and strength. We don't have the skills, experience and outside shooting of some other clubs.

"So we take what we do have and exploit it."

San Francisco edged Philadelphia 89-85 in the season finale Wednesday night. The Warriors learned just before the game that they were the champions. When Detroit beat St. Louis 106-96 in Detroit, it eliminated the Hawks chance to tie for the top spot.

In the only other game, the Baltimore Bullets beat Eastern champion Boston 108-95 on Gus Johnson's last half surge when he scored 23 of his 28 points.

Now come the playoffs with the champions resting the first week with the second and third place teams battling. Los Angeles plays at St. Louis on Saturday in the first Western game to determine which will meet San Francisco in the best four of seven.

On Sunday in Cincinnati, the Royals play host to the Philadelphia 76ers in the start of the series to determine Boston's challenger.

Wilt Chamberlain scored 36 points for San Francisco and needed all of them as the Warriors saw a 20-point lead go glimmering and had to surge back after trailing 76-65 in the final period.

Chamberlain hauled down 33 rebounds in addition to his scoring output and also led the game in assists with eight.

Russians Predict 43 Gold Medals

TOKYO (UPI) — The main handicap to U.S. Olympic hopes is not Russian amateurism but American professionalism, J. Lyman Bingham, executive director of the U.S. Olympic Committee, said today.

Bingham also gave a detailed defense of the conduct of American Olympic athletes. He said reports of off-hours high jinks were "magnified beyond recognition."

Bingham and Charles L. Ornstein, chairman of the committee's food and housing committee, are in Tokyo to inspect facilities for the 1964 Olympic Games, to be held here Oct. 10-24.

They told a press conference that they have "no complaints" and that the Tokyo Olympics should be "the best set of games we've ever had."

Bingham was told the Russians have predicted they will win 43 gold medals at Tokyo. He declined to make apredic-tion for the American team.

"We know pretty well what we can do," he said, "but we don't konw what the others can do. We had our best team ever at the Innsbruck Winter Olympics, and made the worst showing — because the others were improving faster than we were.

"And I hate to compare ourselves with the Russians. They don't have professional sports the way we do."

"Three of the boys on our team at Innsbruck went to a farewell party for the Polish team, with whom they had trained," he said. "It was after midnight, but they had finished competition.

"According to the reports, they got drunk and stole a car. In fact, what they did was to drive the car the wrong way up a one-way street. But the car belonged to a friend of theirs, and a blood test showed no alcohol in their systems.

PREDICTING EIGHT — Steve (Sudden Death) Sabol of Villanova, Pa. and Possom Trot, Miss., holds up eight fingers before Colorado College football coach and athletic director Jerry Carle. The Tigers will play eight games next season—but Sabol didn't make it too clear whether he was predicting eight victories . . . or defeats. Sabol was named the CC team captain on Wednesday.

Controversial Dick Stuart Starts Campaign in Form

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dick Stuart, the American League's comeback player of 1963, never will win any comeback awards for controversy. He is always on top in that department.

Boston's big first baseman got off to a fast start in his title defense Wednesday with his performance in the Red Sox' "B" exhibition game against San Francisco.

Stuart, miffed at being relegated to a secondary game, jogged to first base twice on ground balls and later failed to score from second on a two-out ground single to right field even though he was waved around.

"What do you expect?" Stuart said angrily after the game when someone remarked about his performance. "That's as good as I'm going to be in that kind of a game. I thought I was through with those games 10 years ago."

Red Sox Manager Johnny Pesky, who reportedly has had differences of opinion with Stuart before, called the slugger selfish for the "awful exhibition" he put on in Boston's 3-1 defeat.

Pesky, who used his regulars in the morning "B" contest and rookies against the Chicago Cubs in the regular game in the afternoon, said he hadn't talked with Stuart about the performance.

"I did it deliberately," the manager said. I wanted to wait until tomorrow (Thursday) after sleeping on it. I do intend to talk with him about his behavior. And if he and I don't see things the right way, then (general manager) Mike Higgins will talk to him.

"I thought the regulars would like this afternoon to themselves and their families, and I feel that most of them appreciated it. But not Stuart. Apparently he thinks playing in a "B" game is below his dignity or something."

Pesky couldn't understand why it mattered which game Stuart played in.

Stuart, who led the league in RBI last season, said he played as he did "because I don't want to get hurt playing in "B" games."

He later expressed regret, saying:

"I am an employe of the Red Sox, and I am paid by them. I will do anything I'm told to do. I didn't mean to cause any trouble. I'm sorry it happened."

The Boston rookies lost to the Cubs 10-9 on Mack Kuykendall's bases-loaded, two-run single in the ninth.

The New York Yankees drubbed Kansas City 9-4 as Joe Pepitone slugged a grand slam home run. Hoyt Wilhelm hurled three perfect innings as the Chicago White Sox nipped Washington 3-2.

Milwaukee scored seven unearned runs off Camilo Pascual and defeated Minnesota 7-4. Houston bombed Cincinnati 9-2 and the New York Mets whipped Philadelphia 4-1 in 10 innings.

Trenton Scores JC Upset

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP)—Teams from Wyoming, Texas, Oklahoma and North Carolina play tonight to determine which will join Dodge City, Kan., and Trenton, N.J., in the semifinals of the National Junior College Basketball Tournament.

Dodge City, ranked fourth nationally, nosed out Eastern Arizona 89-94 and Trenton scored the major upset of the tournament by dumping the No. 3 team, Burlington, Iowa, 85-79, Wednesday night.

National Junior Ski Meet

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Junior ski competition returned to the Nordic variety with the 10-kilometer cross country race Thursday after a boy from the East and a girl from the West won downhill honors in the National Junior Skiing Championships.

Rebel Ryan, 18, of Rutland, Vt., raced the 1¾-mile course in 82.1 seconds to capture the boys' title Wednesday as 62 competed on a Ward Peak at nearby Alpine Meadows.

Racing a slightly shorter course but with 24 of the 26 gates used on the men's run, blonde Vicki Jones, 15, of Tahoe City, Calif., became the girls' champion with a time of 85.4 to just beat Cathy Allen of Mammoth Mountain, Calif., who toured in 86.5.

Third place went to Robin Morning, 16, of Santa Monica, Calif., in the field of 38 gal racers.

Jamie Paul, 18, of Seattle, placed second among the boys with a time of 82.7 seconds followed by George Batchelder of Mammoth Mountain in 83.6.

Canadians Retain Chance After Tie With Toronto

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"It has to be a big point for us," Montreal Canadiens' vice-president Kenny Reardon reasoned in an otherwise silent dressing room Wednesday night after the Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs had skated to a 2-2 standoff.

There was grudging agreement from the weary Montreal players but no one was celebrating. The Canadiens had blown a two-goal lead and with it a chance to overtake Chicago in the fast-dwindling National Hockey League stretch race.

"Of the three games we had left prior to the playoffs," Reardon continued, "this one against Toronto figured to be the toughest. We ended up with one point. I say that isn't too bad."

The point gained could prove decisive. It left Montreal one behind the Black Hawks, who have never won a regular season championship. The Hawks have one game left, against Boston Sunday, while the Canadiens have a pair remaining, against the last-place Bruins Saturday and fifth-place New York Rangers Sunday.

But a victory over the Leafs would have put the Canadiens squarely in the driver's seat. And, after Bill Hicke and Claude Provost shot Montreal into a 2-0 first period lead, the Canadiens appeared to be on their way.

But Don McKenney's 18th goal and Toronto captain George Armstrong's 19th lifted the Leafs into a tie after two periods. Montreal goalie Charlie Hodge barely kept it even stanza.

Bears Lead NFL in Pass Interceptions

NEW YORK (AP)—Chicago's National Football League champions had some pretty good pass catchers in 1963 but Papa Bear George Halas hid them away on his defensive unit.

NFL statistics on interceptions released Wednesday, showed Coach Halas' formula worked out pretty well. The Bears had the co-leader in interceptions, placed three more in the top 12 individuals and led the league as a team in that department.

Roosevelt Taylor of Chicago and Dick Lynch of the New York Giants tied for individual honors with nine interceptions apiece. Lynch made the greatest distance on his returns, covering 251 yards and scoring three touchdowns.

Richie Petitbon grabbed eight passes, and Bennie McRae and Dave Whitsell six each for the Bears. Chicago's 36 interceptions were two better than runner-up New York's 34.

Leroy Caffey of Philadelphia achieved the longest return of the season, 87 yards with his only interception. It came against the Giants.

NAIA Mat Tournament

SPEARFISH, S.D. (AP)—Six individual champions will defend their titles in the NAIA Wrestling Tournament to be run off today through Saturday at Black Hills State College.

Lock Haven won the 1963 meet with Bloomsburg second and St. Cloud third. Some 300 wrestlers representing 50 schools are entered here.

Olympic Team Set To Defend Alpine Title

By ROBERT E. COX
United Press International

WINTER PARK, Colo. (UPI) —The U.S. Olympic Ski Team was back "home" on carefully-groomed Colorado snow today, preparing to defend its title against more than 70 challengers in the 1964 National Senior Alpine Championships.

The team which brought back four Olympic medals from Innsbruck, Austria, however, was not expected to outrun the opposition by much, if any, in downhill, giant slalom and slalom races Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Seedings for Friday's downhill put the Olympians back in the pack, behind Roger Buchika, Haverhill, Mass., and woman's starter Pia Riva, an Italian Olympian from Miln.

Friday's action will be held on two courses one and three-eighths miles long, which drop 1,700 feet over terrain groomed by Winter Park crews for several weeks and freshened by snows during the week. Myke Baar of the NCAA champion Denver University team and Nancy Sise of Aspen, Colo., were to be the second persons to trip the timing mechanisms, followed by Chris Rounds, another Denver University speedster and Margo Walters, an Olympian from Salt Lake City, Utah.

Jean Saubert, of Lakeview, Ore., who won two of the four U.S. Olympic medals at Innsbruck, was seeded fourth among the women. Bronze medal winner Jim Heuga, Lake Tahoe, Calif., was seeded 15th among 16 top men's placements, and silver medal winner Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., was seeded eighth.

Olympic veteran Buddy Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., was 16th.

The Olympic team, which trained some in Colorado, is coached by Bob Beattie of Colorado University.

About 5,000 persons were expected to attend the event, billed as the biggest and most important ski meet in the United States this year. About 90 entrants were signed up for the three events.

Officials at the area, 67 miles west of Denver, said the snow conditions were excellent, and skiers agreed after making several practice runs Wednesday. More practice was scheduled Thursday. Chief of Courses Steve Bradley said the course for both men and women had been changed extensively to provide additional challenge for experts and more interest for spectators. "A winner will have to ski every inch of it and ski it well," Bradley said.

The downhill course for men has 27 control and directional gates, and the women's course has 33.

Bill Marolt of Aspen is the defending champion in the National Alpine downhill held last year at Mt. Alyeska, Alaska. Werner won the giant slalom and combined titles last year, and Olympian Chuck Ferries, Houghton, Mich., won the slalom event.

Miss Saubert is defending champion in the giant slalom and downhill. Sandra Shellworth of Boulder, Colo., won last year's slalom, and Starr Walton, Sacramento, Calif., another Olympian, won the combined title.

Sunday's slalom competition will be televised by ABC's Wide World of Sports for broadcast March 28.

Saturday's giant slalom for men has been set on a 1-mile, 1,300-foot vertical drop course with 55 gates. The women's course has 45 gates, and also drops 1,300 feet in one mile.

The slalom courses each drop 600 feet in a 200-foot distance interspersed with 60 gates.

Ft. Carson Five Defeats All-Star Team

Ft. Carson's 5th Army basketball champions, playing without the services of ace Preston Rowser, donewd the Armed Forces team Wednesday night, 88-81, at the Mountain post.

The Armed Forces managed to grab the lead twice but couldn't build up enough margin to break away from the high-scoring Mountaineers.

Calvin Fowler was high point man for the night with 33 points on nine field goals and 15 free throws. James May, Jr., one of the mainstays in Carson's 5th Army Tourney win, hit for 25 points to finish second to teammate Fowler.

Leading scorer for the Armed Forces team was Don Lotzs with 16 points with Herschel Witherspoon adding 15.

The Armed Forces team is comprised of players from the All-Army, Navy, Marine, and Air Force teams and will represent the Armed Forces in the AAU Tournament which begins in Denver Monday night.

The two teams meet again tonight in Denver.

National Junior Ski Meet

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Junior ski competition returned to the Nordic variety with the 10-kilometer cross country race Thursday after a boy from the East and a girl from the West won downhill honors in the National Junior Skiing Championships.

Rebel Ryan, 18, of Rutland, Vt., raced the 1¼-mile course in 82.1 seconds to capture the boys' title Wednesday as 62 competed on a Ward Peak at nearby Alpine Meadows.

Racing a slightly shorter course but with 24 of the 26 gates used on the men's run, blonde Vicki Jones, 15, of Tahoe City, Calif., became the girls' champion with a time of 85.4 to just beat Cathy Allen of Mammoth Mountain, Calif., who toured in 86.5.

Third place went to Robin Morning, 16, of Santa Monica, Calif., in the field of 38 gal racers.

Jamie Paul, 18, of Seattle, placed second among the boys with a time of 82.7 secoods followed by George Batchelder of Mammoth Mountain in 83.6.

Bears Lead NFL in Pass Interceptions

NFL statistics on interceptions released Wednesday, showed Coach Halas' formula worked out pretty well. The Bears had the co-leader in interceptions, placed three more in the top 12 individuals and led the league as a team in that department.

Roosevelt Taylor of Chicago and Dick Lynch of the New York Giants tied for individual honors with nine interceptions apiece. Lynch made the greatest distance on his returns, covering 251 yards and scoring three touchdowns.

Richie Petitbon grabbed eight passes, and Bennie McRae and Dave Whitsell six each for the Bears. Chicago's 36 interceptions were two better than runner-up New York's 34.

Leroy Caffey of Philadelphia achieved the longest return of the season, 87 yards with his only interception. It came against the Giants.

Warriors Nip 76ers; Win Division Crown

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"We had to go into every game as a real physical battle," explained Coach Alex Hannum whose San Francisco Warriors surprisingly are the Western Division champions of the National Basketball Association today.

"We realized very early our No. 1 asset was size and strength. We don't have the skills, experience and outside shooting of some other clubs.

"So we take what we do have and exploit it."

San Francisco edged Philadelphia 89-85 in the season finale Wednesday night. The Warriors learned just before the game that they were the champions. When Detroit beat St. Louis 106-96 in Detroit, it eliminated the Hawks chance to tie for the top spot.

In the only other game, the Baltimore Bullets beat Eastern champion Boston 108-95 on Gus Johnson's last half surge when he scored 23 of his 28 points.

Now come the playoffs with the champions resting the first week with the second and third place teams battling. Los Angeles plays at St. Louis on Saturday in the first Western game to determine which will meet San Francisco in the best four of seven.

On Sunday in Cincinnati, the Royals play host to the Philadelphia 76ers in the start of the series to determine Boston's challenger.

Wilt Chamberlain scored 36 points for San Francisco and needed all of them as the Warriors saw a 20-point lead go glimmering and had to surge back after trailing 76-65 in the final period.

Chamberlain hauled down 33 rebounds in addition to his scoring output and also led the game in assists with eight.

Russians Predict 43 Gold Medals

TOKYO (UPI) — The main handicap to U.S. Olympic hopes is not Russian amateurism but American professionalism, J. Lyman Bingham, executive director of the U.S. Olympic Committee, said today.

Bingham also gave a detailed defense of the conduct of American Olympic athletes. He said reports of off-hours high jinks were "magnified beyond recognition."

Bingham and Charles L. Ornstein, chairman of the committee's food and housing committee, are in Tokyo to inspect facilities for the 1964 Olympic Games, to be held here Oct. 10-24.

They told a press conference that they have "no complaints" and that the Tokyo Olympics should be "the best set of games we've ever had."

Bingham was told the Russians have predicted they will win 43 gold medals at Tokyo. He declined to make aprediction for the American team.

"We know pretty well what we can do," he said, "but we don't konw what the others can do. We had our best team ever at the Innsbruck Winter Olympics, and made the worst showing — because the others were improving faster than we were.

"And I hate to compare ourselves with the Russians. They don't have professional sports the way we do."

"Three of the boys on our team at Innsbruck went to a farewell party for the Polish team, with whom they had trained," he said. "It was after midnight, but they had finished competition.

"According to the reports, they got drunk and stole a car. In fact, what they did was to drive the car the wrong way up a one-way street. But the car belonged to a friend of theirs, and a blood test showed no alcohol in their systems.

PREDICTING EIGHT — Steve (Sudden Death) Sabol of Villanova, Pa. and Possom Trot, Miss., holds up eight fingers before Colorado College football coach and athletic director Jerry Carle. The Tigers will play eight games next season—but Sabol didn't make it too clear whether he was predicting eight victories . . . or defeats. Sabol was named the CC team captain on Wednesday. Controversial Dick Stuart Starts Campaign in Form

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dick Stuart, the American League's comeback player of 1963, never will win any comeback awards for controversy. He is always on top in that department.

Boston's big first baseman got off to a fast start in his title defense Wednesday with his performance in the Red Sox' "B" exhibition game against San Francisco.

Stuart, miffed at being relegated to a secondary game, jogged to first base twice on ground balls and later failed to score from second on a two-out ground single to right field even though he was waved around.

"What do you expect?" Stuart said angrily after the game when someone remarked about his performance. "That's as good as I'm going to be in that kind of a game. I thought I was through with those games 10 years ago."

Red Sox Manager Johnny Pesky, who reportedly has had differences of opinion with Stuart before, called the slugger selfish for the "awful exhibition" he put on in Boston's 3-1 defeat.

Pesky, who used his regulars in the morning "B" contest and rookies against the Chicago Cubs in the regular game in the afternoon, said he hadn't talked with Stuart about the performance.

"I did it deliberately," the manager said. I wanted to wait until tomorrow (Thursday) after sleeping on it. I do intend to talk with him about his behavior. And if he and I don't see things the right way, then (general manager) Mike Higgins will talk to him.

"I thought the regulars would like this afternoon to themselves and their families, and I feel that most of them appreciated it. But not Stuart. Apparently he thinks playing in a "B" game is below his dignity or something."

Pesky couldn't understand why it mattered which game Stuart played in.

Stuart, who led the league in RBI last season, said he played as he did "because I don't want to get hurt playing in "B" games."

He later expressed regret, saying:

"I am an employe of the Red Sox, and I am paid by them. I will do anything I'm told to do. I didn't mean to cause any trouble. I'm sorry it happened."

The Boston rookies lost to the Cubs 10-9 on Mack Kuykendall's bases-loaded, two-run single in the ninth.

The New York Yankees drubbed Kansas City 9-4 as Joe Pepitone slugged a grand slam home run. Hoyt Wilhelm hurled three perfect innings as the Chicago White Sox nipped Washington 3-2.

Milwaukee scored seven unearned runs off Camilo Pascual and defeated Minnesota 7-4. Houston bombed Cincinnati 9-2 and the New York Mets whipped Philadelphia 4-1 in 10 innings.

Canadians Retain Chance After Tie With Toronto

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"It has to be a big point for us," Montreal Canadiens' vice-president Kenny Reardon reasoned in an otherwise silent dressing room Wednesday night after the Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs had skated to a 2-2 standoff.

There was grudging agreement from the weary Montreal players but no one was celebrating. The Canadiens had blown a two-goal lead and with it a chance to overtake Chicago in the fast-dwindling National Hockey League stretch race.

"Of the three games we had left prior to the playoffs," Reardon continued, "this one against Toronto figured to be the toughest. We ended up with one point. I say that isn't too bad."

The point gained could prove decisive. It left Montreal one behind the Black Hawks, who have never won a regular season championship. The Hawks have one game left, against Boston Sunday, while the Canadiens have a pair remaining, against the last-place Bruins Saturday and fifth-place New York Rangers Sunday.

But a victory over the Leafs would have put the Canadiens squarely in the driver's seat. And, after Bill Hicke and Claude Provost shot Montreal into a 2-0 first period lead, the Canadiens appeared to be on their way.

But Don McKenney's 18th goal and Toronto captain George Armstrong's 19th lifted the Leafs into a tie after two periods. Montreal goalie Charlie Hodge barely kept it even stanza.

Olympic Team Set To Defend Alpine Title

By ROBERT E. COX
United Press International

WINTER PARK, Colo. (UPI) —The U.S. Olympic Ski Team was back "home" on carefully-groomed Colorado snow today, preparing to defend its title against more than 70 challengers in the 1964 National Senior Alpine Championships.

The team which brought back four Olympic medals from Innsbruck, Austria, however, was not expected to outrun the opposition by much, if any, in downhill, giant slalom and slalom races Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Seedings for Friday's downhill put the Olympians back in the pack, behind Roger Buchler, Haverhill Mass., and women's starter Pia Riva, an Italian Olympian from Milan.

Friday's action will be held on the Giantree run, and three-eighths mile long, which drops 1,700 feet over terrain groomed by Winter Park crews for several weeks and freshened by snows during the week. Myke Baar of the NCAA champion Denver University team and Nancy Sise of Aspen, Colo., were to be the second persons to trip the timing mechanisms, followed by Chris Rounds, another Denver University speedster and Margo Walters, an Olympian from Salt Lake City, Utah.

Jean Saubert, of Lakeview, Ore., who won two of the four U.S. Olympic medals at Innsbruck, was seeded fourth among the women. Bronze medal winner Jim Heuga, Lake Tahoe, Calif., was seeded 15th among 16 top men's placements, and silver medal winner Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., was seeded eighth.

Olympic veteran Buddy Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., was 16th.

The Olympic team, which trained some in Colorado, is coached by Bob Beattie of Colorado University.

About 5,000 persons were expected to attend the event, billed as the biggest and most important ski meet in the United States this year. About 90 entrants were signed up for the three events.

Officials at the area, 67 miles west of Denver, said the snow conditions were excellent, and skiers agreed after making several practice runs Wednesday. More practice was scheduled Thursday. Chief of Courses Steve Bradley said the course for both men and women had been changed extensively to provide additional challenge for experts and more interest for spectators. "A winner will have to ski every inch of it and ski it well," Bradley said.

The downhill course for men has 27 control and directional gates, and the women's course has 33.

Bill Marolt of Aspen is the defending champion in the National Alpine downhill held last year at Mt. Alyeska, Alaska. Werner won the giant slalom and combined titles last year, and Olympian Chuck Ferries, Houghton, Mich., won the slalom event.

Miss Saubert is defending champion in the giant slalom and downhill. Sandra Shellworth of Boulder, Colo., won last year's slalom, and Starr Walton, Sacramento, Calif., another Olympian, won the combined title.

Sunday's slalom competition will be televised by ABC's Wide World of Sports for broadcast March 28.

Saturday's giant slalom for men has been set on a 1-mile, 1,300-foot vertical drop course with 55 gates. The women's course has 45 gates, and also drops 1,300 feet in one mile.

Negro Suspect Will Not Be Extradited

By BILL MERTENA

WARDEN, Wash. (AP)—For the first time in more than five years, Charles Will Cauthen is a free man today.

Washington Gov. Albert D. Rosellini Monday refused to extradite the 26-year-old Negro to Georgia where he is under death sentence for the murder of a white service station operator, Elijah M. Perkins, at Griffin, Ga.

Cauthen escaped from jail at Zebulon, Ga., on March 26, 1959, three days before he was to be executed and made his way to Warden, a small farming community in eastern Eashington. He took an assumed name and worked for three years as a farm laborer, gaining the respect of his employer and others in Warden.

Last summer he was arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation on a fugitive warrant. He has been fighting extradition ever since, aided by petitions and money from Warden citizens.

"We've kept his quarters waiting," said Clyde DeGraff, a part - time Warden cattleman and school teacher, for whom Cauthen worked.

Cauthen, still known in Warden by his assumed name of Bob Williams, returned here Monday night to take up his life where it was left off last summer.

"I have to live up to this. I have to live a life worthwhile—worthy of all the people who supported me," Cauthen said.

DeGraff said those who supported Cauthen in his fight against extradition hoped to hold a giant celebration. But they were holding off for a while.

"We're trying to consider what Bob's feelings are going to be. Everyone's real eager to do something, but they don't want it to be something that will make him feel uncomfortable in any way," DeGraff said.

"We want him to know he is as welcome as he ever was, but we don't want to be too overwhelming."

"I had a wonderful life here. They've really been wonderful people," Cauthen said. "I know I'll be happy here."

In announcing that he had refused to honor the extradition request of Georgia Gov. Carl Sanders, Rosellini said, "It is my feeling that the best ends of justice are met by denying the application for his extradition and by allowing him to remain in this state." The governor, however, placed Cauthen under supervision of the State Parole board.

The young Negro claimed throughout that he was innocent of the Georgia killing. A battery of attorneys volunteered legal aid. They claimed Cauthen's constitutional rights were violated in his one-day trial in his home state.

The fugitive's fate was left in Rosellini's hands Jan 10, after U.S. Dist. Judge Charles L. Powell denied a motion for a writ of habeas corpus on grounds all legal remedies in Georgia courts had not been exhausted.

Hiss attorneys argued that to return him to Georgia would mean certain death for a crime they were convinced he had not committed.

The words of an old Negro spiritual came back to Cauthen to sum up his feelings when he heard that Rosellini had refused his extradition: "Thank God Almighty, I'm free."

'Dixie Rabbits' Charged by Sen. Humphrey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey accused Southerners today of "pulling Dixie rabbits out of the hat" to divert attention from the key provisions of the civil rights bill.

That was the Minnesota Democrat's way of describing a speech made Monday by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., proposing a $1.5-billion program to try to equalize distribution of Negroes throughout the United States.

Humphrey, floor manager for the House-passed bill, told newsmen he did not blame Russell for trying to "send up this smoke-screen."

Russell said he made his relocation proposal in complete sincerity as a potential amendment to the bill.

His main point was if each state were to achieve a Negro population of about 10.5 per cent, the national average, racial conflicts might be appreciably lessened.

At present, he said the percentage of Negro population runs from 42 per cent in Mississippi to one-tenth of one per cent in Vermont and North Dakota.

New Look for Foreign Aid Bill Shelved

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's plans to give the controversial foreign aid bill a new look were shelved after a quiet little White House dinner about six weeks ago, a high source reports.

The main decision involved whether to split the economic aid program from the military aid program and present them to Congress separately. The idea was to change the image of the program and make it more palatable to congressmen and voters.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara led off the after-dinner discussion by stating the case for making military aid separate, a source who was present said.

He was followed by others who favored this approach, among them Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The case for splitting economic and military aid proceeded smoothly as though the decision were "on the rails," the source said, until the President called on Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

"Mr. President, if you want to lose the foreign aid bill on the floor of the House, then fragment it," Morgan told Johnson.

Morgan then repeated his long-held views that the military assistance portion of the foreign aid bill is the only thing that gets it through Congress each year, and that to separate the two sections would be an open invitation to the program's foes to decimate the economic aid, or "foreign aid giveaway," as they call it.

Other important voices backed Morgan's view, the source said.

"I have to live up to this. I have to live a life worthwhile—worthy of all the people who supported me," Cauthen said.

DeGraff said those who supported Cauthen in his fight against extradition hoped to hold a giant celebration. But they were holding off for a while.

"We're trying to consider what Bob's feelings are going to be. Everyone's real eager to do something, but they don't want it to be something that will make him feel uncomfortable in any way," DeGraff said.

"We want him to know he is as welcome as he ever was, but we don't want to be too overwhelming."

"I had a wonderful life here. They've really been wonderful people," Cauthen said. "I know I'll be happy here."

In announcing that he had refused to honor the extradition request of Georgia Gov. Carl Sanders, Rosellini said, "It is my feeling that the best ends of justice are met by denying the application for his extradition and by allowing him to remain in this state." The governor, however, placed Cauthen under supervision of the State Parole Board.

The young Negro claimed throughout that he was innocent of the Georgia killing. A battery of attorneys volunteered legal aid. They claimed Cauthen's constitutional rights were violated in his one-day trial in his home state.

The fugitive's fate was left in Rosellini's hands Jan 10, after U.S. Dist. Judge Charles L. Powell denied a motion for a writ of habeas corpus on grounds all legal remedies in Georgia courts had not been exhausted.

Hiss attorneys argued that to return him to Georgia would mean certain death for a crime they were convinced he had not committed.

The words of an old Negro spiritual came back to Cauthen to sum up his feelings when he heard that Rosellini had refused his extradition: "Thank God Almighty, I'm free."

'Dixie Rabbits' Charged by Sen. Humphrey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey accused Southerners today of "pulling Dixie rabbits out of the hat" to divert attention from the key provisions of the civil rights bill.

That was the Minnesota Democrat's way of describing a speech made Monday by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., proposing a $1.5-billion program to try to equalize distribution of Negroes' throughout the United States.

Humphrey, floor manager for the House-passed bill, told newsmen he did not blame Russell for trying to "send up this smoke-screen."

Russell said he made his relocation proposal in complete sincerity as a potential amendment to the bill.

His main point was if each state were to achieve a Negro population of about 10.5 per cent, the national average, racial conflicts might be appreciably lessened.

At present, he said the percentage of Negro population runs from 42 per cent in Mississippi to one-tenth of one per cent in Vermont and North Dakota.

Europe's remaining wisents, or bison, all live in zoos or carefully-protected government preserves.

Tito's Doctors Order Him to Take New Rest

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito's doctors have sent him to Brioni, his vacation island off the Yugoslav coast, for "treatment and rest," the official news agency Tanjug announced today.

The announcement gave no details of the 71-year-old president's condition.

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's plans to give the controversial foreign aid bill a new look were shelved after a quiet little White House dinner about six weeks ago, a high source reports.

The main decision involved whether to split the economic aid program from the military aid program and present them to Congress separately. The idea was to change the image of the program and make it more palatable to congressmen and voters.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara led off the after-dinner discussion by stating the case for making military aid separate, a source who was present said.

He was followed by others who favored this approach, among them Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The case for splitting economic and military aid proceeded smoothly as though the decision were "on the rails," the source said, until the President called on Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

"Mr. President, if you want to lose the foreign aid bill on the floor of the House, then fragment it," Morgan told Johnson.

Morgan then repeated his long-held views that the military assistance portion of the foreign aid bill is the only thing that gets it through Congress each year, and that to separate that from economic would be an open invitation to the program's foes to dismember the economic part, or "foreign aid giveaway," as they call it.

Other important voices backed Morgan's view, the source said.

CHILDREN'S CONSTITUTION — Col. Howard H. Cloud Jr., base commander, signs the constitution of the Colorado Springs Children Have a Potential (CHAP) Association as T. Sgt. James I. Taylor, president of the Association, looks on. This is the first official constitution for the Association which draws its membership from all military personnel and their dependents in the Pikes Peak area. In the past five months, CHAP efforts have been revitalized through addition of new members and added support from other base organizations, most notably the NCO Academy Alumni Association. A new program of aid and activities for the handicapped or exceptional child has been planned for the next three months.

Malaysia Does Not Plan Conscription

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Foreign military experts reported today that the Malaysian government apparently does not intend to put conscription into effect in the near future.

The experts said the country's military establishment could not handle a sudden large influx of trainees and that there is no evidence of plans to alter the situation.

Two reasons were suggested for the announcement last week that men between 21 and 29 would be drafted for military training. One was an attempt to convince the Indonesians that Malaysia is preparing for the worst if diplomatic efforts to settle the crisis between the two neighbors fail.

The other was an attempt by the ruling Alliance party to demonstrate toughness and influence the parliamentary elections to be held in six weeks.

Censure of Legion Man Is Proposed

DENVER (AP)—A recommendation that a Boulder member of the American Legion be kicked out of the organization was softened Monday to a request for his censure.

E. Dean Hunter, Peetz, Colo., commander of the Colorado Department of the organization, said he made the request for censure after consulting with the national American Legion headquarters. He earlier had sought dismissal of the member, John Gay of Post 10, for Gay's campaign against the sale and use of Communist - made goods in this country.

Gay specifically opposed the use of Yugoslavian-made electric cable on Titan I missile projects in the Denver area.

Hunter said Gay violated a Colorado Department ruling by making public statements concerning Legion policy.

NASA Has Job To Seek Space Pre-Eminence

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has a charter from Congress calling for establishment of U.S. pre-eminence in space.

To reach this goal, NASA will have the spending of something between $35 and $50 billion in the decade 1960-70.

Whether the space agency is exercising wisdom and foresight in the spending of such vast sums is a matter of considerable debate in and out of Congress.

The experiences to date—plus congressional reaction to them—undoubtedly will influence the scope and direction the space programs take in 1964 and thereafter.

A tendency to give NASA less than it asks has already appeared. Congress cut the agency's budget request for fiscal 1964 by $800 million to $5.1 billion.

Since the space agency was formed in 1958 out of the old National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, its impressive scientific accomplishments and plans have been widely reported.

Relatively little has been told about how NASA spends its money and whether the agency receives a dollar's worth of goods and services for each dollar spent.

The House Committee on Science and Astronautics has assembled figures which show that between July 1, 1961 and March 31, 1963, NASA awarded 68 contracts involving more than $5 million each.

During that period 40 of these contracts were renegotiated and the amount of work to be done for NASA was expanded about $900 million.

In awarding the initial contracts NASA says it fully realized that the work would have to be expanded and the original contracts were just to finance a start.

There were "cost overruns" on 19 of the contracts and they added about $200 million to the bill.

A "cost overrun" involves expenses beyond the initial estimate by the contractors. All NASA's major contracts are on a cost plus fixed fee basis.

A classic example of what can happen when costs exceed estimates and when NASA changes its mind on engineering requirements is the NASA contract with McDonnell Aircraft Corp., of St. Louis for the production of Project Mercury space capsules.

The initial $19.5 million contract called for production of six space capsules of a single design.

Ultimately NASA decided it needed 20 capsules and they should be progressively modified to improve design after each launch and on the basis of new information.

This additional work came to $79 million and cost overruns came to $50 million.

The Western Electric Co., signed a $33-million contract to provide the Project Mercury tracking and ground instrumentation systems.

NASA asked for additional work amounting to $20.7 million. The cost overruns came to $15.2 million.

In discussing contract procedures generally before the Senate Space Committee, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo. said "As everybody knows some of these companies have deliberately quoted tens if not hundreds of millions below cost in order to get contracts, knowing that after they do that, and once they have the contract, there will probably be a minimum of 10,000 engineering changes."

Old Times Corner Box Is Opened

NEW YORK (AP) — They opened the box which had been sealed in the cornerstone of the old Times Tower in Times Square Tuesday, and read all 12 New York newspapers dated Jan. 18, 1904.

The papers reported trouble in the Far East and Panama. Commuters on the Erie Railroad complained of congestion.

Broadway box-office practices were under fire. Brooklyn police were chasing the Mafia.

There were bloody uprisings in Africa, and editorials told of the dangers of cigarettes.

The box was opened because the Times Tower is being reconstructed as the Allied Chemical Corp. Tower.

Of the 12 newspapers only two are still published under the same names — the Times and the Morning Telegraph.

Russians Still Masters Thruout East Germany

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP)—An East German policeman manning a roadblock in an East German town stopped a car bearing the license plates of a Western country and told the Western driver he could not proceed without a special permit.

A Soviet official was a passenger in the car and told the driver not to worry. Here I am the chief," the Russian said. He shouted a few words in Russian.

The policeman snapped to attention, saluted and without inspecting any papers at all waved the car through the roadblock.

"Is that what you mean when you speak of the sovereignty of East Germany?" the Westerner asked.

East Germany, or the German Democratic Republic as the regime calls it, celebrates next Wednesday its 10th anniversy as a sovereign state. On March 25, 1954, the Soviet Union declared the military occupation of the Soviet Zone had ended. It said the German government, installed in 1949, had full sovereignty. This declaration was formalized in a treaty a year later.

There is evidence that the sovereignty is a farce.

The regime led by Lenin-bearded Walter Ulbricht seems more closely controlled by the Kremlin than any other Soviet satellite.

East German party functionaries heatedly deny this. But when Ulbricht built his wall through Berlin in 1961, to stop the escape of refugees, Nikita Khrushchev said: "I authorized the wall to be built and I am proud of it."

Official statements, however, are careful to emphasize sovereignty. When talking about more than 300,000 Soviet troops of the Soviet Union stationed by mutual agreement temporarily in the German Democratic Republic."

These troops live almost entirely off East Germany. Officers and men receive half their pay in East marks which are not freely convertible even within the East bloc.

Ulbricht has no choice. He needs Soviet backing. When the East German people revolted in 1953, the Soviet army put down the uprising.

After 10 years East Germany still is seeking international recognition. Outside the Communist bloc, only the new government of Zanzibar has recognized Ulbricht's regime.

Five years ago, Khrushchev promised to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany if the Western powers were unwilling to sign a single treaty covering both East and West Germany. The signing was postponed several times and now the Soviets hardly mention it. The problem, of course, is West Berlin. A separate treaty, the Soviets have said, would let the East Germans control access to the Communist-surrounded city.

This would create a East-West crisis and Khrushchev has been unwilling to push his luck.

East Germany has become a highly industrialized member of the East bloc and the Soviet Union's most important trade partner. With the Soviet Union supplying raw materials and oil, East Germany exports heavy machines, tools, electronic equipment and textiles.

It takes stern control over 17.2 million people to accomplish this.

Author Is Improving After Auto Disaster

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Author Martin Flavin, who was hit by a car last week, is showing improvement, reports a nurse at St. Francis Hospital in San Francisco.

The nurse said a cast will be put on Flavin's left leg, which was fractured, within two days.

WEDDING CAKE SALE

CANTERBURY, England (UPI)—Greta White, 19, offered her wedding cake for sale Monday when her fiance, Robert Smith, 24, called off their engagement. Miss White placed an ad in the newspaper asking $21 for the two tier, heart-shaped cake. "I know Bob loves me," she added, "but he seems terrified of taking the final step."

NASA Has Job To Seek Space Pre-Eminence

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has a charter from Congress calling for establishment of U.S. pre-eminence in space.

To reach this goal, NASA will have the spending of something between $35 and $50 billion in the decade 1960-70.

Whether the space agency is exercising wisdom and foresight in the spending of such vast sums is a matter of considerable debate in and out of Congress.

The experiences to date—plus congressional reaction to them—undoubtedly will influence the scope and direction the space programs take in 1964 and thereafter.

A tendency to give NASA less than it asks has already appeared. Congress cut the agency's budget request for fiscal 1964 by $600 million to $5.1 billion.

Since the space agency was formed in 1958 out of the old National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, its impressive scientific achievements and plans have been widely reported.

Relatively little has been told about how NASA spends its money and whether the agency receives a dollar's worth of goods and services for each dollar spent.

The House Committee on Science and Astronautics has assembled figures which show that between July 1 1961, and March 31, 1963, NASA awarded 68 contracts involving more than $5 million each.

During that period 40 of these contracts were renegotiated and the amount of work to be done for NASA was expanded about $900 million.

In awarding the initial contracts NASA says it fully realized that the work would have to be expanded and the original contracts were just to finance a start.

There were "cost overruns" on 19 of the contracts and they added about $200 million to the bill.

A "cost overrun" involves expenses beyond the initial estimate by the contractors. All NASA's major contracts are on a cost plus fixed fee basis.

NASA asked for additional work amounting to $30.7 million. The cost overruns came to $15.2 million.

AFTER-EFFECTS OF BREAST-SURGERY

Surgeons recommend operation for cancer if they believe cure is possible. An exception is surgery to relieve obstruction or unbearable pain, even though the malignancy is incurable.

Special instructions may be needed after cancer surgery. When a breast is removed, for example, the surgeon also takes out the fatty and gladular tissues in the armpit. A padded bra will correct the cosmetic defect but other after-effects are not so easily managed.

The chest wall and armpit are tight and numb for some time after surgery. The skin in this area may feel thick for three or four months. Hair usually grows back but prespiration ceases. It may be difficult to raise the arm above the head but function returns within one or two months. None of these manifestations need prevent the woman from playing golf, bowling or driving a car.

The arm on the involved side enlarges because drainage is disturbed by extirpation of the lymph glands in the armpit. Swelling is slight in some but severe in others. Puffiness is aggravated by allowing the arm to hang down, and is reduced by elevating the limb.

The higher the arm is raised, the easier it is for the accumulated fluid to escape. Wiggling the fingers and bending the wrist several times a day will help establish normal drainage.

The swollen extremity loses some of its ability to resist infection so that special care must be given to cuts, abrasions, hangnails, pimples, and other lesions. For the same reason, vaccinations or hypodermic injections on the involved side are inadvisable. It is wise to remain slender, as thin women are less likely to be bothered in this way. Don't wear tight sleeves, bracelets, or rings.

The American Cancer Society 521 W. 57 St., New York City, 19, publishes a booklet, Help Yourself to Recover. It contains valuable suggestions for these patients.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

Antibiotic Reaction

A. M. writes: My 13 year-old son was given antibiotics for mononucleosis six months ago. The medicine affected his bowel function, causing diarrhea. Stool tests show Monilia. How long will it take for restoration of proper bowel function?

Reply

It should have been restored by now. If not, additional tests and X-rays will be needed to rule out the other causes of diarrhea.

Pressure and Heart Attacks

M. L. writes: Would a tense, nervous man with low blood pressure be as likely to have a heart attack as one with high blood pressure?

Reply

The odds are with the hypertensive because an elevated pressure is likely to hasten hardening of the coronary arteries. I assume both men have similar hereditary and environmental backgrounds.

Lung Infection

C.T.S. writes: What is the cause of penumonitis? Does it last a long time?

Reply

This lung condition usually is less serious than penumonia and more severe than bronchitis. There are pathological differences that are meaningless to most readers, but in general enough infection is present to show under X-ray.

Hot or Cold?

H. C. writes: Which is better for the eyes, the application of ice packs or a hot towel?

Reply

Heat for infections and cold for injuries.

Russians Still Masters Thruout East Germany

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP)—An East German policeman manning a roadblock in an East German town stopped a car bearing the license plates of a Western country and told the Western driver he could not proceed without a special permit.

A Soviet official was a passenger in the car and told the driver not to worry. "Here I am the chief," the Russian said. He shouted a few words in Russian.

The policeman snapped to attention, saluted and without inspecting any papers at all waved the car through the roadblock.

"Is that what you mean when you speak of the sovereignty of East Germany?" the Westerner asked

East Germany, or the German Democratic Republic as the regime calls it, celebrates next Wednesday its 10th anniversy as a sovereign state. On March 25, 1954, the Soviet Union declared the military occupation of the Soviet Zone had ended. It said the German government, installed in 1949, had full sovereignty. This declaration was formalized in a treaty a year later.

There is evidence that the sovereignty is a farce.

The regime led by Leninbearded Walter Ulbricht seems more closely controlled by the Kremlin than any other Soviet satellite

East-German party functionaries heatedly deny this. But when Ulbricht built his wall through Berlin in 1961, to stop the escape of refugees, Nikita Khrushchev said: "I authorized the wall to be built and I am proud of it."

Official statements, however, are careful to emphasize sovereignty When talking about more than 300,000 Soviet troops of the Soviet Union stationed by mutual agreement temporarily in the German Democratic Republic."

These troops live almost entirely off East Germany. Officers and men receive half their pay in East marks, which are not freely convertible even within the East bloc.

Ulbricht has no choice. He needs Soviet backing. When the East German people revolted in 1953, the Soviet army put down the uprising

After 10 years East Germany still is seeking international recognition Outside the Communist bloc, only the new government of Zanzibar has recognized Ulbricht's regime.

Five years ago, Khrushchev promised to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany if the Western powers were unwilling to sign a single treaty covering both East and West Germany The signing was postponed several times and now the Soviets hardly mention it The problem, of course, is West Berlin A separate treaty, the Soviets have said, would let the East Germans control access to the Communist-surrounded city

This would create a East-West crisis and Khrushchev has been unwilling to push his luck.

East Germany has become a highly industrialized member of the East bloc and the Soviet Union's most important trade partner With the Soviet Union supplying raw materials and oil, East Germany exports heavy machines, tools, electronic equipment and textiles.

It takes stern control over 17.2 million people to accomplish this.

Author Is Improving After Auto Disaster

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Author Martin Flavin, who was hit by a car last week, is showing improvement, reports a nurse at St. Francis Hospital in San Francisco.

The nurse said a cast will be put on Flavin's left leg, which was fractured, within two days.

WEDDING CAKE SALE

CANTERBURY, England (UPI)—Greta White, 19, offered her wedding cake for sale Monday when her fiance, Robert Smith, 24, called off their engagement. Miss White placed an ad in the newspaper asking $21 for the two tier, heart-shaped cake. "I know Bob loves me," she added, "but he seems terrified of taking the final step."

Court Decision Would Take $50,000

DENVER (AP)—State Revenue Director Hugh Weed Jr. estimated today that a Denver District Court decision, if upheld, would mean a loss of $50,000 a year to the state.

Involved are the ton - mile truck and a Denver District Court decision ordering a refund of $255,465 in ton-mile taxes collected from two of Colorado's largest livestock feeding operations.

They are Monfort Feed Lots, Inc., of Greeley and Sam Weisbart, Inc., of Brush.

The Denver District Court ruled they were not liable for the ton-mile tax under a provision of the state law exempting farmers or ranchers on motor vehicles they own and hauling their own produce.

Immediately after the district court decision, Weed announced plans to carry the case to the Colorado Supreme Court.

Scranton Tells Him He's Not in Campaign

"I am Bill Scranton," replied the governor of Pennsylvania.

"I'll vote for you if you run for president," said Long.

"Don't worry about that," said Scranton, who says he's not a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. "I'm not here for votes."

Scranton paid an unannounced visit to two homes in South Philadelphia Monday to see conditions under which families on relief live.

Cascade News

By CAROLYN McADAMS — MU 7-9065

Frank Sanborn, chief of the Cascade Volunteer Fire Department, reports that 600 persons filled the Community building Saturday night. This was more than a capacity crowd. A total of 135 were at the Friday night showing, of their annual "Fireman's Folly" stage show and dance. This was some 200 more persons than attended last year. The auditorium was decorated in red and black crepe paper streamers across the ceiling, lowering the effect as in real night club fashion. Chairman of the decorations was Nick Sanborn Jr. The snack bar was a very popular addition with egg salad, ham and turkey sandwiches, coffee and pop. An evaluation of the event will be made with consideration for a repeat show this summer, during the vacation season. Co-producers and directors, Dick Wilson and Gil Nixon expressed appreciation from all members of the department for the support of the one fund raising project. Proceeds go toward buying new equipment and operating expenses of the department. Sunday all thirty members turned out for the "clean-up session" at the Community Buildig, returning borrowed chairs, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dugdale, Swiss Miss Chalet Moritz Shop on Highway 24, returned home Thursday, March 12, from a six weeks vacation and business trip to Switzerland. A similar trip was made by the Dugdale's five years ago. They were in every corner of Switzerland, shopping with 32 different business houses (20 were new contacts) spending weekends with relatives visiting ski resorts and mountain areas. For 26 days they toured the country by rented car. Mrs. Dugdale had the misfortune to suffer a fall, which broke a bone in a foot. She had to be on crutches for 4 weeks, and still is limping from the injury. Among the high spots of their trip were the wood carving center Breinz and Merigan; the Music Box Manufacturing Company at St. Croix; at St. Gallen the embroidery and fabric center; Meuchatel watch makers; at Leistal, The House Of Hanro, Ready to wear, gave them a private showing with four models. Their travels and shopping tour took them from the Austraian border to the French border of Santa Maria. On their return trip, they visited Rev. and Mrs. Pyle in New York, for a few hours, then spent six days with their son and daughter-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. Richard Dugdale Jr. at Oscoda, Mich., on Lake Huron. The Lieutenant is with Security Personnel at the Wurthsmith AFB.

A "Welcome Home" dinner was given Mr. and Mrs. Dick Dugdale, Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Carol Hunt. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Eleanor Pole, Elizabeth and Johnny Pole.

Mrs. David Cowen was hostess to the Women's Community C'ub, March 12, with Mrs. Jean Sanborn co-hostess. Others present were new residents, Phyllis Heslep, Sue Lawhorn, Ruth Milhoan, and members Tina Warner, Doris Doren, Kenny Doren, Donna Shoemaker, Hazel Lisiecki, Emma Parmenter, Wissie Spears, Jean Cowen, Carol Sanborn, Esther Berendt, June Palmer, Mona Hammond, Jerry Tracy, Cassie Stenger, Eleanor Pole, Catherine Sanborn, Ella Knox, Donna Kohl, and Mrs. La Moine Kohl her guest from Hastings, Nebraska.

The "Down One" bridge club met for evening dessert with Mrs. Ella Knox, March 12. Substituting for Carol Hunt and Jane Henrick were Mary Elder and her niece Nancy Roepke. Prizes were won by Kay Treece, Jean Anderson and Nancy Roepke, who also won the traveling prize.

Weekend house guests with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Tesker were Mr. and Mrs. John Pupil from Chicago, who were returning from a visit to California, which began last December 15, when they stopped with the Teskers on their way out to the West coast. They attended the Woodland Park Lions Club meeting Monday evening.

Dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Mills, Thursday evening March 12, at their home in Paint Pony Country Club, were past presidents of the Woodland Park Lions and Lioness Clubs. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Farley Reasonover, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Jackson; Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Busch, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Garde, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Quinn. The men had a consultation meeting after the dinner to nominate new officers for the Lions Club, to be elected at the April meeting.

In observance of the Birthday of Girl Scouting, Brownie Troup 110 gave a party at their meeting Thursday, March 12. Special invitations were given Mrs. Maxine Haynes, neighborhood chairman, and the teachers of Cascade School. One hundred per cent attendance of all the 21 Brownies were at the party, with leaders Phyllis Giles and Shirlie Johnson. The flag ceremony was conducted by Carol Giles, Cindy Wahl, Cindy Henson and Susan Weseman. A skit, "The Magic Wish," an Irish playlet was the featured program. Taking parts were Donna Wasinger and Carol Bausch, as "Leprechauns." Maude McCammon was Pattie the "Ragged Irish Boy." Barnyard animals, making typical noises, were Lee Ann Rossi and Cindy Henson, as "Cows"; Susan Weseman, the "Pig"; Cindy "Ducks"; Dobin Weiman, the Goose"; Carol Giles, a Lamb"; Candy Sumner, a "Chicken." Acting as hostesses were Jan Anderson, Farrel Carson, Kim Pettit and Susan Francis, serving birthday cake, cool aid and coffee. Girl Scout songs and games completed the program. Gifts of perfumed bath salts in decorated bottles, which the Brownies made, were presented the guests.

Mrs. Ruby Lee Thomson, head teacher at Cascade School, was so impressed with the play and its theme "Do Something for for Yourself," that she invited the Brownies to give a repeat performance of the skit, "The Magic Wish," at Cascade School, the next day, Friday, March 13, at 1 p.m., so all the children in the three grades could enjoy the performance.

Mrs. Phyllis Giles and Mrs. Shirlie Johnson attended the neighborhood meeting for Girl Scouting held at the home of Mrs. Ilene Whittenbeck, 43 Via Chula Vista, Garden of the Gods. Ten leaders were at the meeting. Plans for the March 20 "Campward Ho" rally were discussed, and camping activities for the summer. The April 16, neighborhood meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Phyllis Giles in Cascade.

A "Mothers" birthday dinner was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Giles for their parents, Mrs. Lillian Witham and Mrs. Lora Smith, on Friday March 13. With the dads and children eight were present.

Cub Scouts Den 2, Pack 33, welcomed Tom Schnellinger of Chipita Park, who was eight years old in January, as a new member, making their total seven Cubs in the den at the present time. Each den is limited to eight members, for efficient study and work. Mrs. Fay Schumacher, and Mrs. Francine Nelson co-leaders, marked 100 per cent attendance at last Wednesday's meeting. Craft work was the work for the day, each boy painting plaster of Paris heads of lions, bears and wolves, which will be mounted on varnished wood placques. Gene Nelson has cut the plywood squares for each boy.

Mrs. Polly Bartley, with Mrs. Sharon Ernst, leaders of Cub Scout Den 3, have instructed their eight members in making circus scenes and paper face masks, to carry out the March theme "Mardigras." A portfolio of the craftwork is to be kept for exhibit purposes. Caramel popcorn was served by the den mother to all 100 per cent present.

Mrs. Susan Carson, chairman for the special Easter program of the Sunday School, Church in the Wildwood, extends an invitation to everyone to attend the 9:30 a.m. worship service March 29, in the church sanctuary. Following will be the Easter Story from the scriptures by the junior high class; "Easter Is a Happy Time," a choral reading by the kindergarten pupils; "Fairest Lord Jesus" and "Lonesome Valley," by the Junior Choir; the primary class will present an Easter acrostic; following will be an "Easter Message" choral reading by the lo juniors; a playlet, "Ivan's Easter," will be presented by the junior class, closing with a prayer by the Rev. Jeffrey Hoy and hymn, "Christ the Lord Is Risen." The Sunday School body will then move to Lower Fellowship Hall to view a film, "A Light Shines in the Darkness." Ushers will be the God and Country Scouts from the senior high class. Properties are from the Brockhurst Boys Ranch.

Pretty Refugee Says She Wore Disguise

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A pretty refugee said today she fled Cuba by stowing away on a cargo ship dressed as a man.

The petite brunette, Nelida Del Pilar Fernandez, 21, said she was aboard the Lebanese vessel Toula, carrying Greek crewmen, when it left Havana last November.

In British Honduras, she was discovered, the stowaway said, but was permitted to continue after the ship's captain paid a fine for her. She said she left the ship in Jamaica and was there three months.

AFTER-EFFECTS OF BREAST-SURGERY

Surgeons recommend operation for cancer if they believe cure is possible. An exception is surgery to relieve obstruction or unbearable pain, even though the malignancy is incurable.

Special instructions may be needed after cancer surgery. When a breast is removed, for example, the surgeon also takes out the fatty and gladular tissues in the armpit. A padded bra will correct the cosmetic defect but other after-effects are not so easily managed.

The chest wall and armpit are tight and numb for some time after surgery. The skin in this area may feel thick for three or four months. Hair usually grows back but prespiration ceases. It may be difficult to raise the arm above the head but function returns within one or two months. None of these manifestations need prevent the woman from playing golf, bowling or driving a car.

The arm on the involved side enlarges because drainage is disturbed by extirpation of the lymph glands in the armpit. Swelling is slight in some but severe in others. Puffiness is aggravated by allowing the arm to hang down, and is reduced by elevating the limb.

The higher the arm is raised, the easier it is for the accumulated fluid to escape. Wiggling the fingers and bending the wrist several times a day will help establish normal drainage.

The swollen extremity loses some of its ability to resist infection so that special care must be given to cuts, abrasions, hangnails, pimples, and other lesions. For the same reason, vaccinations or hypodermic injections on the involved side are inadvisable. It is wise to remain slender, as thin women are less likely to be bothered in this way. Don't wear tight sleeves, bracelets, or rings.

The American Cancer Society 521 W. 57 St., New York City, 19, publishes a booklet, Help Yourself to Recover. It contains valuable suggestions for these patients.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

Antibiotic Reaction

A. M. writes: My 13 year-old son was given antibiotics for mononucleosis six months ago. The medicine affected his bowel function, causing diarrhea. Stool tests show Monilia. How long will it take for restoration of proper bowel function?

Reply

It should have been restored by now. If not, additional tests and X-rays will be needed to rule out the other causes of diarrhea.

Pressure and Heart Attacks

M. L. writes: Would a tense, nervous man with low blood pressure be as likely to have a heart attack as one with high blood pressure?

Reply

The odds are with the hypertensive because an elevated pressure is likely to hasten hardening of the coronary arteries. I assume both men have similar heredifary and environmental backgrounds.

Lung Infection

C.T.S. writes: What is the cause of penumonitis? Does it last a long time?

Reply

This lung condition usually is less serious than penumonia and more severe than bronchitis. There are pathological differences that are meaningless to most readers, but in general enough infection is present to show under X-ray.

Hot or Cold?

H. C. writes: Which is better for the eyes, the application of ice packs or a hot towel?

Reply

Heat for infections and cold for injuries.

Court Decision Would Take $50,000

DENVER (AP)—State Revenue Director Hugh Weed Jr. estimated today that a Denver District Court decision, if upheld, would mean a loss of $50,000 a year to the state.

Involved are the ton - mile truck and a Denver District Court decision ordering a refund of $255,465 in ton-mile taxes collected from two of Colorado's largest livestock feeding operations.

They are Monfort Feed Lots, Inc., of Greeley and Sam Weisbart, Inc., of Brush.

The Denver District Court ruled they were not liable for the ton-mile tax under a provision of the state law exempting farmers or ranchers on motor vehicles they own and hauling their own produce.

Immediately after the district court decision, Weed announced plans to carry the case to the Colorado Supreme Court.

Scranton Tells Him He's Not in Campaign

"I am Bill Scranton," replied the governor of Pennsylvania.

"I'll vote for you if you run for president," said Long.

"Don't worry about that," said Scranton, who says he's not a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. "I'm not here for votes."

Scranton paid an unannounced visit to two homes in South Philadelphia Monday to see conditions under which families on relief live.

By CAROLYN McADAMS — MU 7-9065

Frank Sanborn, chief of the Cascade Volunteer Fire Department, reports that 600 persons filled the Community building Saturday night. This was more than a capacity crowd. A total of 135 were at the Friday night showing, of their annual "Fireman's Folly" stage show and dance. This was some 200 more persons than attended last year. The auditorium was decorated in red and black crepe paper streamers across the ceiling, lowering the effect as in real night club fashion. Chairman of the decorations was Nick Sanborn Jr. The snack bar was a very popular addition with egg salad, ham and turkey sandwiches, coffee and pop. An evaluation of the event will be made with consideration for a repeat show this summer, during the vacation season. Co-producers and directors, Dick Wilson and Gil Nixon expressed appreciation from all members of the department for the support of the one fund raising project. Proceeds go toward buying new equipment and operating expenses of the department. Sunday all thirty members turned out for the "clean-up session" at the Community Buildig, returning borrowed chairs, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dugdale, Swiss Miss Chalet Moritz Shop on Highway 24, returned home Thursday, March 12, from a six weeks vacation and business trip to Switzerland. A similar trip was made by the Dugdale's five years ago. They were in every corner of Switzerland, shopping with 32 different business houses (20 were new contacts) spending weekends with relatives visiting ski resorts and mountain areas. For 26 days they toured the country by rented car. Mrs. Dugdale had the misfortune to suffer a fall, which broke a bone in a foot. She had to be on crutches for 4 weeks, and still is limping from the injury. Among the high spots of their trip were the wood carving center Breinz and Merigan; the Music Box Manufacturing Company at St. Croix; at St. Gallen the embroidery and fabric center; Meuchatel watch makers; at Leistal, The House Of Hanro, Ready to wear, gave them a private showing with four models. Their travels and shopping tour took them from the Austraian border to the French border of Santa Maria. On their return trip, they visited Rev. and Mrs. Pyle in New York, for a few hours, then spent six days with their son and daughter-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. Richard Dugdale Jr. at Oscoda, Mich., on Lake Huron. The Lieutenant is with Security Personnel at the Wurthsmith AFB.

A "Welcome Home" dinner was given Mr. and Mrs. Dick Dugdale, Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Carol Hunt. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs Eleanor Pole, Elizabeth and Johnny Pole.

The "Down One" bridge club met for evening dessert with Mrs. Ella Knox, March 12. Substituting for Carol Hunt and Jane Henrick were Mary Elder and her niece Nancy Roepke. Prizes were won by Kay Treece, Jean Anderson and Nancy Roepke, who also won the traveling prize.

Weekend house guests with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Tesker were Mr. and Mrs. John Pupil from Chicago, who were returning from a visit to California, which began last December 15, when they stopped with the Teskers on their way out to the West coast. They attended the Woodland Park Lions Club meeting Monday evening.

Dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Mills, Thursday evening March 12, at their home in Paint Pony Country Club, were past presidents of the Woodland Park Lions and Lioness Clubs. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Farley Reasonover, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Jackson; Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Busch, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Garde, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Quinn. The men had a consultation meeting after the dinner to nominate new officers for the Lions Club, to be elected at the April meeting.

In observance of the Birthday of Girl Scouting, Brownie Troup 130 gave a party at their meeting Thursday, March 12. Special invitations were given Mrs. Maxine Haynes, neighborhood chairman, and the teachers of Cascade School. One hundred per cent attendance of all the 21 Brownies were at the party, with leaders Phyllis Giles and Shirlie Johnson. The flag ceremony was conducted by Carol Giles, Cindy Wahl, Cindy Henson and Susan Weseman. A skit, "The Magic Wish," an Irish playlet was the featured program. Taking parts were Donna Wasinger and Carol Bausch, as "Leprechauns." Maude McCammon was Pattie the "Ragged Irish Boy." Gifts of perfumed bath salts in decorated bottles, which the Brownies made, were presented the guests.

Mrs Ruby Lee Thomson, head teacher at Cascade School, was so impressed with the play and its theme "Do Something for for Yourself," that she invited the Brownies to give a repeat performance of the skit, "The Magic Wish," at Cascade School, the next day, Friday, March 13, at 1 p.m., so all the children in the three grades could enjoy the performance.

Mrs. Phyllis Giles and Mrs. Shirlie Johnson attended the neighborhood meeting for Girl Scouting held at the home of Mrs. Ilene Whittenbeck, 43 Via Chula Vista, Garden of the Gods. Ten leaders were at the meeting. Plans for the March 20 "Campward Ho" rally were discussed, and camping activities for the summer The April 16, neighborhood meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Phyllis Giles in Cascade.

A "Mothers" birthday dinner was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Giles for their parents, Mrs. Lillian Witham and Mrs. Lora Smith, on Friday March 13. With the dads and children eight were present.

Pretty Refugee Says She Wore Disguise

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A pretty refugee said today she fled Cuba by stowing away on a cargo ship dressed as a man.

The petite brunette, Nelida Del Pilar Fernandez, 21, said she was aboard the Lebanese vessel Toula, carrying Greek crewmen, when it left Havana last November.

In British Honduras, she was discovered, the stowaway said, but was permitted to continue after the ship's captain paid a fine for her. She said she left the ship in Jamaica and was there three months.

Miss Joette Shipman was honored at a bridal shower last Friday evening. The hostesses were Mrs. Dale Little, Mrs. Don Straud and Miss Beverly Harwea. Others present included Mrs. Frances Shipman, Mrs. Beckey O'Donnell, Mrs. Betty Taskett, Mrs. Marvin Horn, Mrs. Agnes Earley, Mrs. Sid Horabin, Mrs. Helen Hallifield, Mrs. Steffie Rathovich, Mrs. Hanwerthi, Mrs. Shirley Rathovich, Mrs. Anna Mae Hornbine. Some who were unable to attend sent gifts. Games were enjoyed by all before the bride-to-be oepned her many useful gifts. She was presented with a miniature ring pillow.

Decorations included a large white wedding bell on the gift table. The ring pillow centered the other table. Favors were ring boxes made from marshmallows with a tiny pipe cleaner ring inside. Refreshments of cake, coffee and tea, along with candy and nuts, were served.

The Beaver Park Grange met for its regular session last Wednesday evening for an open house. Seventeen members and one guest were in attendance. Instead of the regular business meeting, Hank McCallister, representing the Penrose Volunteer Fire Department, gave a talk on fire prevention. Some of the points he brought out were: (1) To know where the master switch is to turn off electricity. (2) To know the right size of fuse to use, and then use it. (3) If you use bottled gas know where to turn if off at the tank. There was much discussion along these lines and then Perry Earley, also a fireman, remarked that fire drills are conducted at the school by the firemen.

The Beaver Park Grange was awarded a plaque for having the largest net gain in membership in 1963. Plans were discussed for a fund raising dinner to be held in the latter part of April. Sandwiches, coffee and cake were served following the meeting.

The Penrose Home Demonstration Club held its regular meeting at the Grange Hall last Tuesday. The hostesses, Mrs. Florence Treveltich and Mrs. Jean Whittioker, served sandwiches as their meat dish. There were 15 ladies present. Mrs. Edna Johnston being a guest. A lesson on window treatment was given by Mrs. Reba Niehans and Mrs. Elmer Weiner. Some of the things brought out were how to drape problem windows, how to measure for drapes and which type of curtain or drape should be used.

Mr. and Mrs. William Shipman request your presence at the marriage of their daughter Joetta May to Vernon Dean Roberts March 20, 7:30 p.m., at the Penrose Kirkwood Memorial United Presbyterian Church. The reception, in the church basement, will immediately follow the ceremony.

The Youth Night was held at the Giffard home this last Tuesday evening.

The monthly meeting, which was held last Friday evening, decided to rebuild the church on lots belonging to the Beaver Park Co. in town, just south of Mrs. White's. This is contrary to the first report, which stated that they planned to rebuild on the same site. John Oliver, chairman of the building committee, along with Bob Serfors and Max Woods, church treasurer, plan to begin as soon as the exact location of the lots is settled.

The Pollyanna party of the Kirkwood Memorial Presbyterian Church which was to be held Tuesday evening, but has been postponed until the regular meeting night in April.

The communicants' class, which is being held on Wednesday afternoons, is being well attended.

Plans are being made for the Easter morning breakfast, which the men of the church plan to serve.

Rio Grande Road Reports Income Of Year 'Best'

DENVER (AP) — The past year was the best for the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad since 1958, G. B. Aydelott, president, told stockholders in his annual report today.

He added that prospects for 1964 appear favorable but said "modernized legislation is needed to provide stability for the railroad industry."

The road's net income for 1963 was $10,044,677, an increase of 9.8 per cent over the $9,147,697 net for 1962.

Aydelott said, however, the increase appeared insignificant when compared on a percentage basis with industry as whole.

"The railroads have done much during the past few years to improve their own situation by providing specialized equipment, better service and modernized pricing concepts," he said, "but these efforts alone will not enable them to achieve that stability which will carry them through good times and bad."

Aydelott said railroads must be given equality of competitive opportunity and be relieved of the restrictions not borne by other methods of transportation.

He also said the industry would be helped by "elimination of senseless financial drain ... under outmoded work rules."

Western Colorado Industries to Confer

GRAND JUNCTION (AP) — Industries of western Colorado will be represented at a meeting at Mesa College Saturday.

They will include Frontier Air Lines, the Colorado-Ute Electric Association, Climax Molybdenum Co., Colorado Cattlemen's Association, Aspen Skiing Corp. and the Continental Oil Co.

John Waller will be general chairman. He is a director of the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce. The moderator will be Rep. John D. Vanderhoof, R-Glenwood Springs, speaker of the Colorado House of Representatives.

Colorado-Ute is sponsoring the meeting.

New State Law Set for Pay at State Hospital

DENVER (AP)—A new state law will govern charges against relatives for care of patients at Colorado mental institutions, effective May 1.

The bill provides that charges can be made only against the patient, his husband or wife, his parents or his children. It eliminates the possibility of future charges against brothers or sisters, aunts and uncles or cousins.

Moreover, it provides that if the relatives can pay only part of the cost of his care this shall be accepted by the state in full payment for the care. In other words, no longer will the difference between the payment and the total cost of care build up as a debt against anyone except the patient or his estate.

The family of the mental patient and theDepartment of Institutions must agree on a part payment to make this provision of the law effective.

The act, passed by the 1964 legislature, limits the liability of relatives for a mental patient's care to 15 years or his 21st birthday, whichever is later.

Another allows the Game, Fish and Parks Department to spend $5,254,343 during the same period for all of its activities.

Still another of the measures provides $534,687 to be apportioned among the state's five public junior colleges. Shares of each of the schools will be: Mesa at Grand Junction and its Rangely branch $200,392. Northeastern at Sterling $148,235, Trinidad $71,757, Otero at La Junta $64,911 and Lamar $49,392. The money is to replace anticipated revenues which the junior colleges failed to receive because the Colorado Supreme Court declared a tuition law unconstitutional.

Also signed was a bill allowing the state controller to apportion $500,000 among the state colleges and universities if their enrollments fall short of expectations next fall, due to tuition increases. Before a college can receive any of the money, its governing board must increase tuition to the level recommended by the governor and the legislature's Joint Budget Committee. Boards of all of the schools have acted so far to raise tuition except those of the University of Colorado and Colorado School of Mines.

Still another of the bills allows private contractors to build dormitories on state-owned land at Colorado State College and Southern Colorado State College in Pueblo. Room rent paid by students would go to reimburse the builders. However, the colleges would have full control over operation of the facilities. The bill contains a provision forbidding discrimination against any student because of race or religion. Fraternities, sororities and student organizations are specifically forbidden from leasing land.

The other bills signed Monday will pay a $5,000 claim against the Game, Fish and Parks Department, will furnish the controller $25,000 to pay overtime to workers until next June 30 and will allow the Highway Department to sell a small tract of land it owns in Adams County.

Now 63 bills have been approved by the governor this year. He has vetoed none.

Among 40 bills still on his desk were the $138.2 million long appropriations bill, the income tax revision raising rates by an estimated $5.4 million next year and the 3-cent a package tax on cigarettes, to be effective July 1.

Love has until April 1 to act on measures passed by the legislature.

Miss Joette Shipman was honored at a bridal shower last Friday evening. The hostesses were Mrs. Dale Little, Mrs. Don Straud and Miss Beverly Harwea. Others present included Mrs. Frances Shipman, Mrs. Beckey O'Donnell, Mrs. Betty Taskett, Mrs. Marvin Horn, Mrs. Agnes Earley, Mrs. Sid Horbbin, Mrs. Helen Hallifield, Mrs. Steffie Rathovich, Mrs. Hanwerthi, Mrs. Shirley Rathovich, Mrs. Anna Mae Hornbine. Some who were unable to attend sent gifts. Games were enjoyed by all before the bride-to-be oepned her many useful gifts. She was presented with a miniature ring pillow.

Decorations included a large white wedding bell on the gift table. The ring pillow centered the other table. Favors were ring boxes made from marshmallows with a tiny pipe cleaner ring inside. Refreshments of cake, coffee and tea, along with candy and nuts, were served.

The Beaver Park Grange met for its regular session last Wednesday evening for an open house. Seventeen members and one guest were in attendance. Instead of the regular business meeting, Hank McCallister, representing the Penrose Volunteer Fire Department, gave a talk on fire prevention. Some of the points he brought out were: (1) To know where the master switch is to turn off electricity. (2) To know the right size of fuse to use, and then use it. (3) If you use bottled gas know where to turn if off at the tank. There was much discussion along these lines and then Perry Earley, also a fireman, remarked that fire drills are conducted at the school by the firemen.

The Beaver Park Grange was awarded a plaque for having the largest net gain in membership in 1963. Plans were discussed for a fund raising dinner to be held in the latter part of April. Sandwiches, coffee and cake were served following the meeting.

The Penrose Home Demonstration Club held its regular meeting at the Grange Hall last Tuesday. The hostesses, Mrs. Florence Treveltich and Mrs. Jean Whittioker, served sandwiches as their meat dish. There were 15 ladies present. Mrs. Edna Johnston being a guest. A lesson on window treatment was given by Mrs. Reba Niehans and Mrs. Elmer Weiner. Some of the things brought out were how to drape problem windows, how to measure for drapes and which type of curtain or drape should be used.

Mr. and Mrs. William Shipman request your presence at the marriage of their daughter Joetta May to Vernon Dean Roberts March 20, 7:30 p.m., at the Penrose Kirkwood Memorial United Presbyterian Church. The reception, in the church basement, will immediately follow the ceremony.

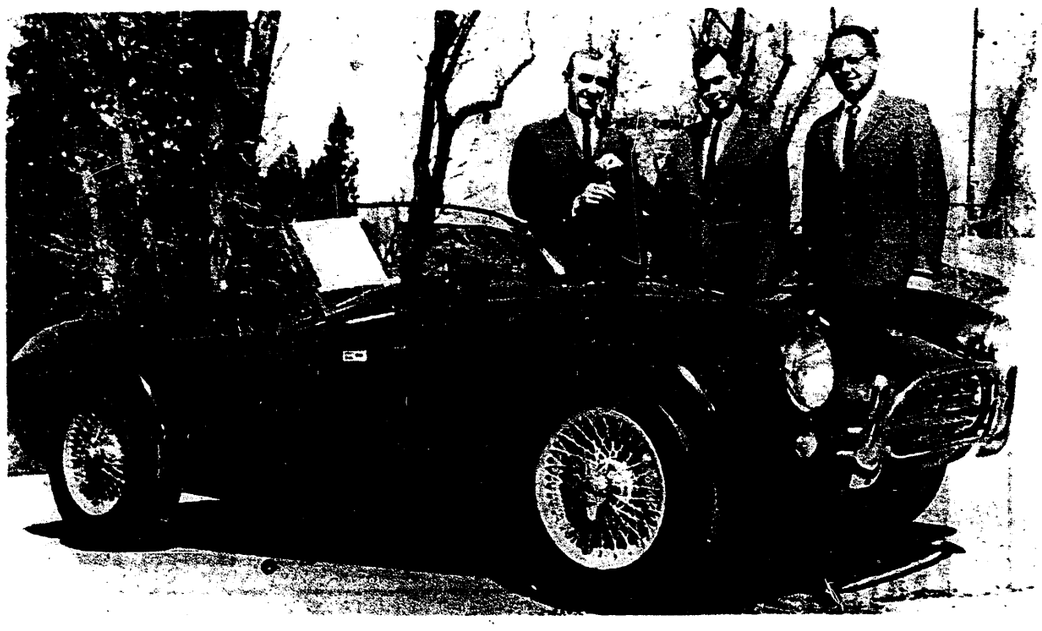
The Youth Night was held at the Giffard home this last Tuesday evening.

The monthly meeting, which was held last Friday evening, decided to rebuild the church on lots belonging to the Beaver Park Co. in town, just south of Mrs. White's. This is contrary to the first report, which stated that they planned to rebuild on the same site. John Oliver, chairman of the building committee, along with Bob Serfors and Max Woods, church treasurer, plan to begin as soon as the exact location of the lots is settled.

The Pollyanna party of the Kirkwood Memorial Presbyterian Church which was to be held Tuesday evening, but has been postponed until the regular meeting night in April.

The communicants' class, which is being held on Wednesday afternoons, is being well attended.

Plans are being made for the Easter morning breakfast, which the men of the church plan to serve.



HILL CLIMB ENTRANT—Rick Janusz (left) receives the keys to this AC Cobra sports roadster which he hopes to race in this year's Pikes Peak Hill Climb. Turning the keys over to him is salesman Ron Theisman of Phil Long Motors, Inc., and with him is Phil Long, president of the Ford agency. Powered by a Ford motor which develops 271 horsepower, the car is capable of speeds in excess of 175 miles per hour and can reach 100 miles per hour from a standing start in fewer than 10 seconds. The roadster weighs 2,020 pounds and has disc brakes. Janusz is manager of the Golden Bee tavern in the International Center.

Rio Grande Road Reports Income Of Year 'Best'

DENVER (AP) — The past year was the best for the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad since 1958, G. B. Aydelott, president, told stockholders in his annual report today.

He added that prospects for 1964 appear favorable but said "modernized legislation is needed to provide stability for the railroad industry."

The road's net income for 1963 was $10,044,677, an increase of 9.8 per cent over the $9,147,697 net for 1962.

Aydelott said, however, the increase appeared insignificant when compared on a percentage basis with industry as whole.

"The railroads have done much during the past few years to improve their own situation by providing specialized equipment, better service and modernized pricing concepts," he said, "but these efforts alone will not enable them to achieve that stability which will carry them through good times and bad."

Aydelott said railroads must be given equality of competitive opportunity and be relieved of the restrictions not borne by other methods of transportation.

He also said the industry would be helped by "elimination of senseless financial drain ... under outmoded work rules."

Sponsors Sought For Soap Box Derby Entrants

Walt Masel, chairman of the derby for the Jaycees, said that sponsors were needed to help defray the costs of entering the race for area boys.

"It will cost the average boy approximately $50 to complete his derby car. Of this amount, $30 goes toward the registration fee, out of which the boy receives his wheels, axles and steering equipment," Masel said.

He said that businessmen can supply the registration fee for the young racers. In return, the name of the sponsor's business would be carried on the individual racer.

Interested businessmen are asked to call Roger Lane, 632-2653 or Fred Reich, 635-3531.

New State Law Set for Pay at State Hospital

DENVER (AP)—A new state law will govern charges against relatives for care of patients at Colorado mental institutions, effective May 1.

The bill provides that charges can be made only against the patient, his husband or wife, his parents or his children. It eliminates the possibility of future charges against brothers or sisters, aunts and uncles or cousins.

Moreover, it provides that if the relatives can pay only part of the cost of his care this shall be accepted by the state in full payment for the care. In other words, no longer will the difference between the payment and the total cost of care build up as a debt against anyone except the patient or his estate.

The family of the mental patient and theDepartment of Institutions must agree on a part payment to make this provision of the law effective.

The act, passed by the 1964 legislature, limits the liability of relatives for a mental patient's care to 15 years or his 21st birthday, whichever is later.

Another allows the Game, Fish and Parks Department to spend $5,254,343 during the same period for all of its activities.

Still another of the measures provides $534,687 to be apportioned among the state's five public junior colleges. Shares of each of the schools will be: Mesa at Grand Junction and its Rangely branch $200,392, Northeastern at Sterling $148,235, Trinidad $71,757, Otero at La Junta $64,911 and Lamar $49,392. The money is to replace anticipated revenues which the junior colleges failed to receive because the Colorado Supreme Court declared a tuition law unconstitutional.

Also signed was a bill allowing the state controller to apportion $500,000 among the state colleges and universities if their enrollments fall short of expectations next fall, due to tuition increases. Before a college can receive any of the money, its governing board must increase tuition to the level recommended by the governor and the legislature's Joint Budget Committee. Boards of all of the schools have acted so far to raise tuition except those of the University of Colorado and Colorado School of Mines.

Still another of the bills allows private contractors to build dormitories on state-owned land at Colorado State College and Southern Colorado State College in Pueblo. Room rent paid by students would go to reimburse the builders. However, the colleges would have full control over operation of the facilities. The bill contains a provision forbidding discrimination against any student because of race or religion. Fraternities, sororities and student organizations are specifically forbidden from leasing land.

The other bills signed Monday will pay a $5,000 claim against the Game, Fish and Parks Department, will furnish the controller $25,000 to pay overtime to workers until next June 30 and will allow the Highway Department to sell a small tract of land it owns in Adams County.

Now 63 bills have been approved by the governor this year. He has vetoed none.

Among 40 bills still on his desk were the $138.2 million long appropriations bill, the income tax revision raising rates by an estimated $5.4 million next year and the 3-cent a package tax on cigarettes, to be effective July 1.

Love has until April 1 to act on measures passed by the legislature.

Glenwood Student Will Attend Science Meeting

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Fredrick (Ricky) Blanco, who attends Glenwood Springs High School, will be the only Colorado student taking part in the National Junior Science and Humanities Symposium.

This will be held April 29-30 at the Industrial College of the Armed Forces, Ft. Lesley J. McNair, Washington, D. C.

Sponsors Sought For Soap Box Derby Entrants

Walt Masel, chairman of the derby for the Jaycees, said that sponsors were needed to help defray the costs of entering the race for area boys.

"It will cost the average boy approximately $50 to complete his derby car. Of this amount, $30 goes toward the registration fee, out of which the boy receives his wheels, axles and steering equipment," Masel said.

He said that businessmen can supply the registration fee for the young racers. In return, the name of the sponsor's business would be carried on the individual racer.

Interested businessmen are asked to call Roger Lane, 632-2933 or Fred Dutch, 635-3511.

New Construction Company Buys Lot for $825,000

Bud Shepard, land developer in Pikes Peak Park, has sold more than 300 lots valued at $825,000 to American Builders, Inc., a new home building company which has been formed in the area.

Gould has, for the past five years, been the contractor furnishing concrete and carpentry labor to Sproul Homes, Inc., of Colorado. During this period Gould has built approximately 1,100 single-family dwellings in the Pikes Peak Region as either a sub-contractor or as a general contractor under the name Gould Construction Co.

Robert K. and Donald E. Willis of the Willis Agency, Inc., have, for the past five years, handled the sales and to a great extent have been responsible for the financing of Sproul Homes, Inc. During this period Willis Agency has handled the sale of approximately 1,500 new single-family dwellings in El Paso County.

When it was determined that Sproul Homes was no longer planning to constuct single-family dwellings in the region, American Builders was formed by the people who have worked with Sproul over the years.

Shepard's sale to the new firm will permit a continuous flow of construction in Pikes Peak Park addition. Carrying on where Sproul Homes leaves off, American Builders will be able to give the buying public the same type of homes area residents have been accustomed to getting from Sproul Homes.

Personnel associated with American Builders includes Lanny Ward, Ervin Ristau and Mrs. Margaret Yeo.

At the present time, American Builders have under construction in Pikes Peak Park and Security 20 new homes. Opening of new models is scheduled for early April.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son, Ray Austin, who passed away twenty years ago today.
God must have loved him very much
And we have loved him, too.
We know how many helpful things
His kind hands found to do;
But till we reach that happy place
where griefs are all consoled,
We'll never know the joy he's found
Beyond the sunset's gold.

Hewlett-Packard Buys Assets Of Mechrolab

Hewlett - Packard Co. today announced it has completed an agreement with Mechrolab, Inc. to purchase the assets of Mechrolab for an undisclosed amount of cash. The agreement was announced by David Packard, Hewlett-Packard president.

Mechrolab, a manufacturer of medical and scientific instrumentation, is located in Mountain View, Calif. Founded in 1959, the company has grown steadily and in 1963 had sales of approximately $1 million. The firm has 55 employes and is headed by Dr. Harry C. Ehrmantraut, president.

Hewlett - Packard, headquartered in Palo Alto, and with a facility in Colorado Springs, is a major manufacturer of electronic measuring instruments. Its operations are world-wide and during its last fiscal year the company had sales of $116 million.

Under terms of the agreement, Mechrolab will become a subsidiary of Hewlett-Packard, retaining its present management and its 32,000-square foot plant in Mountain View. The company's scientific products include precision instruments for chemical and physical analysis, such as osmometers and automated manometers. Its principal product in the medical field is a blood clot timer, widely used in treating heart patients.

Packard described the acquisition of Mechrolab as "A significant step in Hewlett-Packard's planned expansion into new and promising fields of electronic instrumentation."

"Altho Mechrolab is a relatively new company," he said, "it enjoys an excellent reputation in its field. Its products are widely known and accepted, and represent a natural and important completment of our own product line.

"The acquisition will enable us to broaden the application of electronic techniques in the measurement of medical and scientific phenomena."

Standard Oil Co. 1963 Earnings Up 13 Per Cent

CHICAGO — Stockholders of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) were informed in the annual report, issued today, that net earnings increased $20.7 million or 13 per cent in 1963 to $183,092,000.

Total revenues increased $90 million over 1962 to $2,745,892,000. Earnings were $5.16 a share in 1963, compared with $4.58 in the previous year. Total revenues, net earnings, North American production, refinery runs, and sales in 1963 were the highest on record.

Cash income — the sum of net earnings and charges against earnings for depreciation, depletion, amortization, retirements, and abandonments — was $11.83 a share. Cash income was $10.79 a share in 1962. Indiana Standard's total assets, which passed the $3-billion mark in 1961, were $3,206,648,000 at the end of 1963.

The record 1963 net earnings represent a 55 per cent increase in earnings since 1958, with five successive years of increases, President John E. Swearingen told the stockholders, in a five-year review incorporated in the report.

Dividends paid have been increased for five successive years, for an increase of 50 per cent in the five-year period, he added. Dividends paid increased from $1.687 per share in 1958 to $2.298 in 1962 and $2.532 in 1963.

Only once before in its recent history — in the 1930's — has Indiana Standard had five successive years of increases in net earnings, Swearingen observed.

"Net earnings are 55 per cent higher than they were five years ago," he said, "despite the fact that refined product prices have declined 6.5 per cent, and average wage and benefit costs per employee have increased 20 per cent. Furthermore," he added, "during this period there were other cost increases, increasingly stringent proration of production, and substantial improvements in the quality of our products."

Since 1958, Indiana Standard's net worth has grown from $2.058 million to $2.522 million, an increase of 23 per cent, according to the report. Total debt has been reduced to $375 million, 12 per cent of total assets. This is a reduction of $15 million from 1962, and a decrease of $92 million from 1958.

For the fifth consecutive year, Swearingen told the stockholders, the company's rate of return on invested and borrowed capital increased slightly to 6.7 per cent.

"This rate of return is still too low," he said, "and management will not be satisfied until it is improved substantially."

Prospects Better Than Average for Business

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The last day of winter finds business with less to complain about than usual. The three months have dealt more kindly than in some previous years with most businesses. And the prospects are better than average, too.

True, the weather has been more ornery this winter in many sections. Business will be only too glad to see its official end today.

But ingeneral, the economy has risen above this and put on more muscle. Manufacturing output has gained. Retail sales are nicely above a year ago.

Often in February commodity prices ease. But last month and this have seen many rise, particularly for materials used in industry. And price increases in some consumer commodities, if painful to the housewife, at least are giving producer nations, for the first time in several years, more money with which to buy the goods that American producers can turn out. They might even need less foreign aid, too.

Winter's winds haven't chilled the confidence of the American consumer in his assessment of good times ahead. Pollsters say their buying intentions are high and their expectation of prosperous times near peak levels.

The final days of winter have seen the federal income tax cut blossom in larger take - home pay. This helped boost confidence in better days ahead. What happens when many taxpayers find they have to make larger settlement payments to the Internal Revenue Service because the new withholding rates didn't take out enough is something else again.

The winter also put a number of foreign problems in the deep chill, however temporarily. Sparring for a new round of tariff negotiations, especially with an increasingly protection-minded Europe, is just getting under way.

The new competition may startle some Americans who because U.S. exports have managed to stay nicely ahead of imports, and because an international banking pool has kept the price of gold stable and its flow to other nations at a minimum.

But the last days of winter saw the Soviets resuming their sale of gold in European money market, for the first time this year. This supply helps the West stabilize its own gold reserves. The Soviet Union is believed to be selling to get the money it needs to meet Canadian wheat shipments as soon as winter's grip on the St. Lawrence River is relaxed.

The cold and blustery months also did less than usual damage to construction plans. Total construction contract awards in January were 20 per cent higher than a year ago. Housing starts were at a high level that month. They slipped slightly in February but were still19 per cent above a year ago.

Business capital spending plans perked up smartly in the waning weeks of winter. This is one of the things that makes the steel industry expect its current high level of activity will continue at least until summer.

Market Moves Irregularly in Moderate Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved irregularly early this afternoon in moderately active trading.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were mainly fractional, some going to a point or so.

Meanwhile, the business news continued encouraging. Cash dividends rose in February. Retail sales were booming and greater gains were forecast because of the tax cut. Shipments of copper were reported the best in nearly two years.

The General Motors plan for $2 billion in spending for new plant and equipment also was bullish.

The Dow Jones industrial average also had a slight gain at noon, rising .35 to 820.60.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were mixed.

Fringe Benefits To Be Sought by Auto Workers

By A. F. MAHAN

ATLANTIC CITY, N.Y. (AP)—Bonus pay while on vacation and a coffee break for production workers are among contract improvements which Walter P. Reuther says his AFL-CIO United Auto Workers will demand this year.

Higher pay while on vacation, "to cover the extra costs of travel and spending time away from home," was described by Reuther UAW president Wednesday. As a new concept to be raised in negotiations with automakers.

This and the coffee break proposal were disclosed by Reuther at a news conference as delegates from across the country gathered here for Friday's opening of the union's convention.

The union also will demand a wage increase.

Three-year contracts between the auto workers and the automakers expire Aug. 31. Negotiations begin 60 days earlier.

Reuther said it might not be possible because of the nature of the work to force all auto manufacturers to require all employes to take vacations.

Contracts of assemblers and parts-makers call for pay in lieu of vacation. If a production worker puts in 52 weeks a year, he gets 54 weeks pay. The practice of some is to take vacation pay early in the year and then collect unemployment compensation when laid off in the fall for model changeovers.

Work requirements are such, however, that many workers do not take any time off and collect straight-time pay for 54 weeks a year.

Reuther said he thought union sentiment favored required vacations for all. He said enforced vacations and abolition of "excessive overtime" were among means to accomplish the union's "major thrust in the direction of creating job opportunities for those now unemployed."

Reuther said working conditions must be improved to include rest periods in addition to the two 12-minute relief breaks per shift now prevailing.

Reuther said his union will seek a minimum of 4.9 per cent as "a total package gain." He estimated 4.9 per cent was the annual productivity increase per auto worker.

He added, however, that he was not demanding specifically that 4.9 be substituted for the annual improvement factor which gives workers an automatic yearly wage boost of 2.5 per cent. Some of the 4.9 per cent might go into such things as vacation bonuses and earlier retirement, he said.

The average hourly wage of auto production workers is $3, including a 13-cent cost-of-living allowance which could fall or rise on the Bureau of Labor statistics' index. Within the industry it is estimated the fringe benefits, such as pensions and supplemental unemployment payments, add another 75 to 80 cents in hourly wage costs.

The victory raised A-State season record to 7-2, while CSU is 0-5.

Houston Slated For New Stadium

HOUSTON (AP)—The University of Houston will play its home football games in the $24 million, all-weather Harris County domed stadium beginning in 1965.

University officials made the announcement Wednesday night and said the home opener in September 1965 will be the first collegiate football game played indoors.

The announcement followed by 48 hours a statement by university regents that efforts would be renewed to gain membership in the Southwest Conference.

LBJ's Foreign Aid Message

The most important ingredient in the development of a nation is neither the amount nor the nature of foreign assistance. It is the will and commitment of the government and people directly involved.

To those nations which do commit themselves to progress under freedom, help from us and from others can provide the margin of difference between failures and success.

The proposals contained in interest at the same time that they proclaim our national ideals.

We will be laying up a harvest of woe for us and our children if we shrink from the task of grappling in the world community with poverty and ignorance.

These are the grim recruiting sergeants of communism.

They flourish wherever we falter. If we default on our obligations, communism will expand its ambitions.

That is the stern equation which dominates our age, and from which there can be no escape in logic or in honor.

NO WASTE, NO RETREAT

It is against our national interest to tolerate waste or inefficiency or extravagance in any of these programs. But it is equally repugnant to our national interest to retreat from our obligations and commitments while freedom remains under siege.

We recognize that the United States cannot and should not sustain the burden of these programs alone.

Other nations are needed in this enterprise of mutual help. Encouraging signs exist that the process of sharing the burden is steadily growing.

The best way for the United States to stimulate this growth and to broaden this partnership in freedom is to make our own example an incentive to our friends and allies.

We need the assurance and stability and progress in a world restless with many dangers and anxieties.

PRUDENT AND RESPONSIBLE PROGRAMS

In this program we do not seek to cover the whole world. Aid on a world-wide scale is no part of our purpose.

We seek instead, through prudent and responsible programs, to help carefully selected countries whose survival in freedom is essential—and whose collapse would bring new opportunities for Communist expansion.

There are no easy victories in this campaign. But there can be sudden disasters. We cannot ask for a reprieve from responsibility while freedom is in danger. The vital interests of the United States require us to stay in the battle. We dare not desert.

Economic and military assistance, used at the right time and in the right way, can provide indispensable help to our foreign policy in enabling the United States to influence events instead of merely reacting to them. By committing a small part of our resoures before crises actually occur, we reduce the danger and frequency of those crises.

Our foresight becomes a shield against misfortune.

The recommendations contained in this program for fiscal year 1965 are designed to move the aid program in that direction.

They reflect views and experience of the Congress, of the Executive Branch and of informed private citizens.

FIVE FUNDAMENTAL CONCEPTS FOR A SUCCESSFUL PROGRAM

FIRST: The request for funds must be realistic.

For economic assistance, new authorizations of $917 million for fiscal 1965 are recommended. Specifically, I recommend $335 million for supporting assistance, $225 million for technical cooperation, $134 million for contributions to international organizations, $150 million for the President's Contingency Fund, and $73 million for administrative and miscellaneous expenses.

For military assistance, I recommend that the Congress provide a continuing authorization, subject to an annual review of each year's proposals by the authorizing committee in both houses.

For fiscal 1965, I recommend no additional authorizations for the Alliance for Progress or for development lending assistance in Asia or Africa. Existing authorizations for these programs are adequate.

The appropriations recommended for fiscal 1965 total $1 billion for military assistance and $2.4 billion for economic assistance.

In fiscal 1964, the initial request was $4.9 billion, later reduced to $4.5 billion.

This fiscal year, the request of $3.4 billion is $1.1 billion less than last year's request, although about the same as was available last year, taking into consideration the unexpended balance from the year before.

Moreover, more than 80 per cent of aid funds will be spent in the U.S. The impact of the program on our balance of payments will be less than ever before.

INSURANCE TO AVOID COMMITTING AMERICAN MEN TO WAR

These requests reflect a determination to continue to improve the aid program both in concept and administration. The over-all request represents a great deal of money—but it is an amount which we should, in all prudence, provide to serve essential United States interests and commitments throughout the world.

More than one million American men in uniform are now stationed outside the United States. As insurance to avoid involving them and the nation in a major conflict, we propose to spend through aid programs less than four cents out of every tax dollar.

If there is any alternative insurance against war, it might be found in an increase in the defense budget. But that would require not only many times more than $3.4 billion, for a military budget which already takes more than 50 cents out of every tax dollar, but also a several-fold increase in our own military manpower.

The foreign assistance requested will provide:

—The crucial assistance we have promised the people of Latin America who are committed to programs of economic and social progress;

— Continued economic development in India, Pakistan and Turkey under the major international aid consortia to which we are a party;

—The United States share of voluntary contributions to the United Nations technical cooperation programs and to such special international programs as the work of the United Nations Children's Fund, and the development of the Indus Basin;

—Funds to meet our commitments to the freedom of the people of South Viet Nam, Korea, and for the other obligations we have undertaken in Asia and Africa.

SECOND: The funds I am requesting will be concentrated where they will produce the best results, and speed the transition from United States assistance to self-support wherever possible.

Two-thirds of the proposed military assistance will go to 11 nations along the periphery of the Sino-Soviet bloc, from Greece and Turkey through Thailand and Viet Nam to the Republic of China and Korea. These funds are a key to the maintenance of over 3.5 million men under arms, raised and supported in large measure by the countries receiving the assistance.

The need for supporting assistance—funds used primarily in countries facing defense or security emergencies—will continue to be reduced. Fourteen countries which received supporting assistance three years ago will receive none in fiscal year 1965.

Four-fifths of the present request will go to four countries: Korea, Viet Nam, Laos and Jordan.

Two-thirds of the development lending proposed for fiscal 1965 (including Alliance for Progress lending) will be concentrated in six countries: Chile, Colombia, Nigeria, Turkey, Pakistan and India.

Funds for educational and technical cooperation — to help start schools, health centers, agricultural experiment stations, credit services and dozens of other institutions—are not concentrated in a few countries. But they will be used for selected projects to raise the ability of less fortunate peoples to meet their own needs. To carry out these projects we are seeking the best personnel available in the United States—in private agencies, in universities, in state and local governments, and throughout the federal government.

Wherever possible, we will speed up the transition from reliance on aid to self-support.

In 17 nations, the transition has been completed and economic aid has ended. Fourteen countries are approaching the point where soft economic loans and grants will no longer be needed. New funds for military equipment grants are being requested for seven fewer countries for fiscal 1965 than for the present year.

THIRD: We must do more to utilize private initiative in the United States—and in the developing countries—to promote economic development abroad.

—The first new houses financed by U.S. private funds protected by aid guarantees were completed in Lima, Peru.

—The first rural electrification surveys, conducted by the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association under contract to AID, were completed and the first rural electrification loan—in Nicaragua—was approved.

—The first arrangement linking the public and private resources of one of our states to a developing country was established, between California and Chile.

This effort must be expanded. Accordingly, we are encouraging the establishment of an Executive Service Corps.

During the present year, the committee on Private Enterprise in Foreign Aid established under the Foreign Assistance Act of 1963.

There are indications that further increases are in store. Canada recently announced that it expects to increase its aid expenditures by 50 per cent next year. A 1963 British white paper and a French official report published in January, 1964, point in the same direction. Other nations have reduced interest rates and extended maturities on loans to developing countries.

Of major importance in this effort are the operations of the International Development Association. Under the agreement for replenishing the resources of this association, which is now before the Congress for approval, other countries will put up more than $1.40 for every dollar the U.S. provides to finance on easy terms development projects certified as sound by the World Bank—projects which the developing countries could not afford to pay for on regular commercial terms. This is international sharing in the aid effort at its best. For to the extent we furnish funds to IDA, and they are augmented by the contributions of others, the needs of developing countries are met, thus reducing the amounts required for our own bilateral aid programs.

Under the program before you the U.S. would be authorized to contribute $312 million over a three year period. Against this, other countries have pledged $438 million which will be lost in the absence of the U.S. contribution. Action is needed now so that the association may continue to undertake new projects even though the first appropriation will not be required until fiscal year 1966.

FIFTH: Let us insist on steadily increasing efficiency in assistance operations.

After careful study, I have decided to continue the basic organization of aid operations, established after intensive review in 1961. Economic assistance operations will continue to be centered in the Agency for International Development, military assistance operations in the Department of Defense. Both will be subject to firm foreign policy guidance from the secretary of state.

STEPS TO INCREASE EFFICIENCY OF AID

One officer, Assistant Secretary of State Mann, has been assigned firm policy control over all aspects of our activities in Latin America.

Full support will be given to the newly-created Inter-American Alliance for Progress Committee which is designed to strengthen the aspect of partnership in the alliance.

The AID administrator has instructions to embark on a major program to improve the quality of his staff — and to reduce the total number of AID employees by 1,200 by the end of fiscal year 1965.

The AID administrator has been directed to continue to consolidate AID missions with U.S. embassies and, wherever possible, to eliminate altogether separate AID field missions.

The secretary of defense has been directed to continue to make substantial reductions in the number of personnel assigned to military assistance groups and missions.

In this connection, I recommend two specific legislative steps:

One, legislation to provide the AID administrator with authority to terminate a limited number of supervisory and policy-making employees notwithstanding other provisions of law, and to extend the existing foreign service "selection out" authority to other personnel.

This is essential if the administrator is to carry out my desire — and that of the Congress —that he improve the quality of the AID staff, and at the same time, reduce its total size.

Two, legislation to permit outstanding United States representation on the Inter-American Alliance for Progress Committee under the leadership of Ambassador Teodoro Moscoso.

Finally, I am appointing a general advisory committee, as suggested by Senator Cooper and others, on foreign economic and military assistance problems. It will be composed of distinguished private citizens with varied backgrounds and will serve as a continuing source of counsel to me. In addition to its general responsibility the committee will examine aid programs in individual countries. These reviews will be made by members of the advisory committee, augmented as necessary by additional persons. I would hope that at least four or five country reviews, inlcuding two or three in Latin America, will be completed in the present year.

A PROGRAM TO STRENGTHEN THE FAMILY OF THE FREE

I am convinced this program will enable the United States to live in a turbulent world with a greater measure of safety and of honor.

There is in our heart the larger and nobler hope of strengthening the family of the free, quite apart from our duty to disappoint the evil designs of the enemies of freedom.

We wish to build a world in which the weak can walk without fear and in which even the smallest nation can work out its own destiny without the danger of violence and aggression.

This program, based on the principle of mutual help, can make an essential contribution to these purposes and objectives which have guided our nation across the difficulties of these dangerous years.

I recommend this program to the judgment and the conscience of the Congress in the belief that it will—Enlarge the strength of the free world,

—Aid in frustrating the ambitions of Communist imperialism,

—Reduce hazards of widespread conflict, and

—Support the moral commitment of free men everywhere to work for a just and peaceful world.

Regents Say No Fee Raise For Wildcats

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) —Henry A. Bubb, chairman of the Kansas Board of Regents, said Wednesday Kansas State University will have to find its own way of its football doldrums.

Bubb, of Topeka, said football was not the responsibility of the regents.

The sum of $60,000 has been mentioned as the figure needed to keep Kansas State's football program operating in the black for the 1964 season.

A proposal to raise fees $5 a semester per student was brought up in Manhattan preceeding the Board of Regents meeting Sunday, but the regents took no action on the matter.

Bubb said Wednesday, however, "we're not going to raise fees."

He said if Kansas State wants to raise money for athletics through fees, it must be done without increase in the total.

Bubb said it is up to Kansas State President James McCain to submit a proposal to the regents.

"I am almost certain the board will okay almost anything he submits that doesn't raise fees," he added.

Bubb said the Regents would deal only with McCain and "we are not going to tell them (the students) they have to have a good football team."

New Construction Company Buys Lot for $825,000

Bud Shepard, land developer in Pikes Peak Park, has sold more than 300 lots valued at $825,000 to American Builders, Inc., a new home building company which has been formed in the area.

Gould has, for the past five years, been the contractor furnishing concrete and carpentry labor to Sproul Homes, Inc., of Colorado. During this period Gould has built approximately 1,100 single-family dwellings in the Pikes Peak Region as either a sub-contractor or as a general contractor under the name Gould Construction Co.

Robert K. and Donald E. Willis of the Willis Agency, Inc., have, for the past five years, handled the sales and to a great extent have been responsible for the financing of Sproul Homes, Inc. During this period Willis Agency has handled the sale of approximately 1,500 new single-family dwellings in El Paso County.

When it was determined that Sproul Homes was no longer planning to constuct single-family dwellings in the region, American Builders was formed by the people who have worked with Sproul over the years.

Shepard's sale to the new firm will permit a continuous flow of construction in Pikes Peak Park addition. Carrying on where Sproul Homes leaves off, American Builders will be able to give the buying public the same type of homes area residents have been accustomed to getting from Sproul Homes.

Personnel associated with American Builders includes Lanny Ward, Ervin Ristau and Mrs. Margaret Yeo.

At the present time, American Builders have under construction in Pikes Peak Park and Security 20 new homes. Opening of new models is scheduled for early April.

Hewlett-Packard Buys Assets Of Mechrolab

Hewlett - Packard Co. today announced it has completed an agreement with Mechrolab, Inc. to purchase the assets of Mechrolab for an undisclosed amount of cash. The agreement was announced by David Packard, Hewlett-Packard president.

Mechrolab, a manufacturer of medical and scientific instrumentation, is located in Mountain View, Calif. Founded in 1959, the company has grown steadily and in 1963 had sales of approximately $1 million. The firm has 55 employes and is headed by Dr. Harry C. Ehrmantraut, president.

Hewlett - Packard, headquartered in Palo Alto, and with a facility in Colorado Springs, is a major manufacturer of electronic measuring instruments. Its operations are world-wide and during its last fiscal year the company had sales of $116 million.

Under terms of the agreement, Mechrolab will become a subsidiary of Hewlett-Packard, retaining its present management and its 32,000-square foot plant in Mountain View. The company's scientific products include precision instruments for chemical and physical analysis, such as osmometers and automated manometers. Its principal product in the medical field is a blood clot timer, widely used in treating heart patients.

Packard described the acquisition of Mechrolab as "A significant step in Hewlett-Packard's planned expansion into new and promising fields of electronic instrumentation."

"Altho Mechrolab is a relatively new company," he said, "it enjoys an excellent reputation in its field. Its products are widely known and accepted, and represent a natural and important complement of our own product line.

"The acquisition will enable us to broaden the application of electronic techniques in the measurement of medical and scientific phenomena."

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son, Ray Austin, who passed away twenty years ago today.
God must have loved him very much
And we have loved him, too.
We know how many helpful things
His kind hands found to do.
But till we reach that happy place
Where griefs are all consoled
We'll never know the joy he's found
Beyond the sunset's gold.
Sadly missed by Mom, Dad
Brother and Family

Standard Oil Co. 1963 Earnings Up 13 Per Cent

CHICAGO — Stockholders of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) were informed in the annual report, issued today, that net earnings increased $20.7 million or 13 per cent in 1963 to $183,092,000.

Total revenues increased $90 million over 1962 to $2,745,892,000. Earnings were $5.16 a share in 1963, compared with $4.58 in the previous year. Total revenues, net earnings, North American production, refinery runs, and sales in 1963 were the highest on record.

Cash income — the sum of net earnings and charges against earnings for depreciation, depletion, amortization, retirements, and abandonments — was $11.83 a share. Cash income was $10.79 a share in 1962. Indiana Standard's total assets, which passed the $3-billion mark in 1961, were $3,206,648,000 at the end of 1963.

The record 1963 net earnings represent a 55 per cent increase in earnings since 1958, with five successive years of increases, President John E. Swearingen told the stockholders, in a five-year review incorporated in the report.

Dividends paid have been increased for five successive years, for an increase of 50 per cent in the five-year period, he added. Dividends paid increased from $1.687 per share in 1958 to $2.298 in 1962 and $2.532 in 1963.

Only once before in its recent history — in the 1930's — has Indiana Standard had five successive years of increases in net earnings, Swearingen observed.

"Net earnings are 55 per cent higher than they were five years ago," he said, "despite the fact that refined product prices have declined 6.5 per cent, and average wage and benefit costs per employee have increased 20 per cent. Furthermore," he added, "during this period there were other cost increases, increasingly stringent proration of production, and substantial improvements in the quality of our products."

Since 1958, Indiana Standard's net worth has grown from $2,058 million to $2,522 million, an increase of 23 per cent, according to the report. Total debt has been reduced to $375 million, 12 per cent of total assets. This is a reduction of $15 million from 1962, and a decrease of $92 million from 1958.

For the fifth consecutive year, Swearingen told the stockholders, the company's rate of return on invested and borrowed capital increased slightly to 6.7 per cent.

"This rate of return is still too low," he said, "and management will not be satisfied until it is improved substantially."

Arizona State Crushes CSU, 17-1

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona State University hammered four Colorado State University pitchers for 18 hits Wednesday, including three home runs, for an easy 17-1 non-conference baseball victory.

The victory raised A-State season record to 7-2, while CSU is 0-5.

Houston Slated For New Stadium

HOUSTON (AP)—The University of Houston will play its home football games in the $24 million, all-weather Harris County domed stadium beginning in 1965.

University officials made the announcement Wednesday night and said the home opener in September 1965 will be the first collegiate football game played indoors.

The announcement followed by 48 hours a statement by university regents that efforts would be renewed to gain membership in the Southwest Conference.

LBJ's Foreign Aid Message

The most important ingredient in the development of a nation is neither the amount nor the nature of foreign assistance. It is the will and commitment of the government and people directly involved.

To those nations which do commit themselves to progress under freedom, help from us and from others can provide the margin of difference between failures and success.

This is the heart of the matter.

The proposals contained in interest at the same time that they proclaim our national ideals.

We will be laying up a harvest of woe for us and our children, if we shrink from the task of grappling in the world community with poverty and ignorance.

These are the grim recruiting sergeants of communism.

They flourish wherever we falter. If we default on our obligations, communism will expand its ambitions.

That is the stern equation which dominates our age, and from which there can be no escape in logic or in honor.

NO WASTE, NO RETREAT

It is against our national interest to tolerate waste or inefficiency or extravagance in any of these programs. But it is equally repugnant to our national interest to retreat from our obligations and commitments while freedom remains under siege.

We recognize that the United States cannot and should not sustain the burden of these programs alone.

Other nations are needed in this enterprise of mutual help. Encouraging signs exist that the process of sharing the burden is steadily growing.

The best way for the United States to stimulate this growth and to broaden this partnership in freedom is to make our own example an incentive to our friends and allies.

We need the assurance and stability and progress in a world restless with many dangers and anxieties.

PRUDENT AND RESPONSIBLE PROGRAMS

In this program we do not seek to cover the whole world. Aid on a world-wide scale is no part of our purpose.

We seek instead, through prudent and responsible programs, to help carefully selected countries whose survival in freedom is essential—and whose collapse would bring new opportunities for Communist expansion.

There are no easy victories in this campaign. But there can be sudden disasters. We cannot ask for a reprieve from responsibility while freedom is in danger. The vital interests of the United States require us to stay in the battle. We dare not desert.

Economic and military assistance, used at the right time and in the right way, can provide indispensable help to our foreign policy in enabling the United States to influence events instead of merely reacting to them. By committing a small part of our resoures before crises actually occur, we reduce the danger and frequency of those crises.

Our foresight becomes a shield against misfortune.

The recommendations contained in this program for fiscal year 1965 are designed to move the aid program in that direction.

They reflect views and experience of the Congress, of the Executive Branch and of informed private citizens.

FIVE FUNDAMENTAL CONCEPTS FOR A SUCCESSFUL PROGRAM

FIRST: The request for funds must be realistic.

For economic assistance, new authorizations of $917 million for fiscal 1965 are recommended. Specifically, I recommend $335 million for supporting assistance, $225 million for technical cooperation, $134 million for contributions to international organizations, $150 million for the President's Contingency Fund, and $73 million for administrative and miscellaneous expenses.

For military assistance, I recommend that the Congress provide a continuing authorization, subject to an annual review of each year's proposals by the authorizing committee in both houses.

For fiscal 1965, I recommend no additional authorizations for the Alliance for Progress or for development lending assistance in Asia or Africa. Existing authorizations for these programs are adequate.

The appropriations recommended for fiscal 1965 total $1 billion for military assistance and $2.4 billion for economic assistance.

In fiscal 1964, the initial request was $4.9 billion, later reduced to $4.5 billion.

This fiscal year, the request of $3.4 billion, is $1.1 billion less than last year's request, although about the same as was available last year, taking into consideration the unexpended balance from the year before.

Moreover, more than 80 per cent of aid funds will be spent in the U.S. The impact of the program on our balance of payments will be less than ever before.

INSURANCE TO AVOID COMMITTING AMERICAN MEN TO WAR

These requests reflect a determination to continue to improve the aid program both in concept and administration. The over-all request represents a great deal of money—but it is an amount which we should, in all prudence, provide to serve essential United States interests and commitments throughout the world.

More than one million American men in uniform are now stationed outside the United States. As insurance to avoid involving them and the nation in a major conflict, we propose to spend through aid programs less than four cents out of every tax dollar.

If there is any alternative insurance against war, it might be found in an increase in the defense budget. But that would require not only many times more than $3.4 billion, for a military budget which already takes more than 50 cents out of every tax dollar, but also a several-fold increase in our own military manpower.

The foreign assistance requested will provide:

—The crucial assistance we have promised the people of Latin America who are committed to programs of economic and social progress;

— Continued economic development in India, Pakistan and Turkey under the major international aid consortia to which we are a party;

—The United States share of voluntary contributions to the United Nations technical cooperation programs and to such special international programs as the work of the United Nations Children's Fund, and the development of the Indus Basin;

—Funds to meet our commitments to the freedom of the people of South Viet Nam, Korea, and for the other obligations we have undertaken in Asia and Africa.

SECOND: The funds I am requesting will be concentrated where they will produce the best results, and speed the transition from United States assistance to self-support wherever possible.

Two-thirds of the proposed military assistance will go to 11 nations along the periphery of the Sino-Soviet bloc, from Greece and Turkey through Thailand and Viet Nam to the Republic of China and Korea. These funds are a key to the maintenance of over 3.5 million men under arms, raised and supported in large measure by the countries receiving the assistance.

The need for supporting assistance—funds used primarily in countries facing defense or security emergencies—will continue to be reduced. Fourteen countries which received supporting assistance three years ago will receive none in fiscal year 1965.

Four-fifths of the present request will go to four countries: Korea, Viet Nam, Laos and Jordan.

Two-thirds of the development lending proposed for fiscal 1965 (including Alliance for Progress lending) will be concentrated in six countries: Chile, Colombia, Nigeria, Turkey, Pakistan and India.

Funds for educational and technical cooperation — to help start schools, health centers, agricultural experiment stations, credit services and dozens of other institutions—are not concentrated in a few countries. But they will be used for selected projects to raise the ability of less fortunate peoples to meet their own needs. To carry out these projects we are seeking the best personnel available in the United States—in private agencies, in universities, in state and local governments, and throughout the federal government.

Wherever possible, we will speed up the transition from reliance on aid to self-support.

In 17 nations, the transition has been completed and economic aid has ended. Fourteen countries are approaching the point where soft economic loans and grants will no longer be needed. New funds for military equipment grants are being requested for seven fewer countries for fiscal 1965 than for the present year.

THIRD: We must do more to utilize private initiative in the United States—and in the developing countries—to promote economic development abroad.

During the past year:

—The first new houses financed by U.S. private funds protected by aid guarantees were completed in Lima, Peru.

—The first rural electrification surveys, conducted by the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association under contract to AID, were completed and the first rural electrification loan—in Nicaragua—was approved.

—The first arrangement linking the public and private resources of one of our states to a developing country was established, between California and Chile.

During the present year, the committee on Private Enterprise in Foreign Aid established under the Foreign Assistance Act of 1963.

In this connection, two specific legislative steps are recommended:

Two, additional authority for a final installment of the pilot program of U.S. housing investment in Latin American countries.

There are indications that further increases are in store. Canada recently announced that it expects to increase its aid expenditures by 50 per cent next year. A 1963 British white paper and a French official report published in January, 1964, point in the same direction. Other nations have reduced interest rates and extended maturities on loans to developing countries.

Of major importance in this effort are the operations of the International Development Association. Under the agreement for replenishing the resources of this association, which is now before the Congress for approval, other countries will put up more than $1.40 for every dollar the U.S. provides to finance on easy terms development projects certified as sound by the World Bank—projects which the developing countries could not afford to pay for on regular commercial terms. This is international sharing in the aid effort at its best. For to the extent we furnish funds to IDA, and they are augmented by the contributions of others, the needs of developing countries are met, thus reducing the amounts required for our own bilateral aid programs.

Under the program before you the U.S. would be authorized to contribute $312 million over a three year period. Against this, other countries have pledged $138 million which will be lost in the absence of the U.S. contribution. Action is needed now so that the association may continue to undertake new projects even though the first appropriation will not be required until fiscal year 1966.

FIFTH: Let us insist on steadily increasing efficiency in assistance operations.

After careful study, I have decided to continue the basic organization of aid operations, established after intensive review in 1961. Economic assistance operations will continue to be centered in the Agency for International Development, military assistance operations in the Department of Defense. Both will be subject to firm foreign policy guidance from the secretary of state.

STEPS TO INCREASE EFFICIENCY OF AID

One officer, Assistant Secretary of State Mann, has been assigned firm policy control over all aspects of our activities in Latin America.

Full support will be given to the newly-created Inter-American Alliance for Progress Committee which is designed to strengthen the aspect of partnership in the alliance.

The AID administrator has instructions to embark on a major program to improve the quality of his staff — and to reduce the total number of AID employees by 1,200 by the end of fiscal year 1965.

The AID administrator has been directed to continue to consolidate AID missions with U.S. embassies and, wherever possible, to eliminate altogether separate AID field missions.

The secretary of defense has been directed to continue to make substantial reductions in the number of personnel assigned to military assistance groups and missions.

In this connection, I recommend two specific legislative steps:

One, legislation to provide the AID administrator with authority to terminate a limited number of supervisory and policy-making employees notwithstanding other provisions of law, and to extend the existing foreign service "selection out" authority to other personnel.

This is essential if the administrator is to carry out my desire — and that of the Congress —that he improve the quality of the AID staff, and at the same time, reduce its total size.

Two, legislation to permit outstanding United States representation on the Inter-American Alliance for Progress Committee under the leadership of Ambassador Teodoro Moscoso.

Finally, I am appointing a general advisory committee, as suggested by Senator Cooper and others, on foreign econmic and military assistance problems. It will be composed of distinguished private citizens with varied backgrounds and will serve as a continuing source of counsel to me. In addition to its general responsibility the committee will examine aid programs in individual countries. These reviews will be made by members of the advisory committee, augmented as necessary by additional persons. I would hope that at least four or five country reviews, inlcuding two or three in Latin America, will be completed in the present year.

A PROGRAM TO STRENGTHEN THE FAMILY OF THE FREE

I am convinced this program will enable the United States to live in a turbulent world with a greater measure of safety and of honor.

There is in our heart the larger and nobler hope of strengthening the family of the free, quite apart from our duty to disappoint the evil designs of the enemies of freedom.

We wish to build a world in which the weak can walk without fear and in which even the smallest nation can work out its own destiny without the danger of violence and aggression.

This program, based on the principle of mutual help, can make an essential contribution to these purposes and objectives which have guided our nation across the difficulties of these dangerous years.

I recommend this program to the judgment and the conscience of the Congress in the belief that it will—Enlarge the strength of the free world,

—Aid in frustrating the ambitions of Communist imperialism,

—Reduce hazards of widespread conflict, and

—Support the moral commitment of free men everywhere to work for a just and peaceful world.

Lyndon B. Johnson
The White House.

D.C. WASH

By G. VAN DER HEUVEL

WASHINGTON — A Washington newsman recently salvaged a letter from his attic and put it in a safe deposit box. It had just been appraised by Charles Hamilton, New York autograph authority, at $3,500. Written in October, 1943, the letter was to Lt. Patrick Munroe from Lt. John F. Kennedy.

A casual letter from one navy man to another, it covers four pages and contains news of other friends, a light sprinkling of four-letter works and a fine example of Kennedy humor. The understatement, the throw away lines that delighted Americans two decades later in his Presidential press conferences were part and parcel of John F. Kennedy long before he

Munroe and Kennedy were both PT boat commanders in the Pacific. At one point they flipped a coin to see which one would take his boat to New Guinea, where the action presumably was. Munroe won the toss.

"I wouldn't reproach myself for betting on the wrong horse," became President.

Kennedy wrote later—after his boat had been rammed by a Japanese destroyer and he had led his men in one of the most famous rescues of the war. "It begins to be more and more apparent that a little of this goes a fairly long way—and lately our helpings have been extremely generous."

"IT WON'T HAPPEN AGAIN," JFK WROTE TO FRIEND

He thanked Pat for his good wishes in reference to the ordeal and added:

"After today it won't happen again." He explained that he had been working out of another base and had gone to see the doctor there about some coral infecion he had. The doctor asked him how he got the infection and Kennedy told him "swimming."

"Then," the letter went on "be burst loose with, 'Kennedy, you know swimming is forbidden in this area—stay out of the Goddamn water.' So now it's an official order — so no more strain."

Having just been clobbered in the New Hampshire primary by the not so littleman who wasn't there, it was a somber gathering of the faithful at Goldwater campaign headquarters here Tuesday night. There was one burst of laughter, however. The 11 o'clock news telecast showed former President Harry Truman giving his "I don't give a damn" reply to the question of who he thought the Republican candidate would be. This broke up the house.

Incidentally, Truman might have expected to be treated like a hero—or at least a friend—when he made his first trip to Greece this week for the funeral of King Paul.

When he was President, HST literally saved Greece from chaos and Communism with his historic pioneering foreign aid program in 1947. And for years afterward he was known affectionately as "Barba Truman"—Uncle Truman.

BRONZE STATUE DEFACED BEFORE ARRIVAL

But just before he arrived on his first visit his bronze statue had been defaced and a "Truman Out" sign had been painted on the wall of Athens University. The forgetful crowds had turned on a friend in their frustration over the Cyprus mess.

Truman is a practical politician — used to public abuse—but he might have felt like King Lear: "How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child."

The Democratic quest for 50 qualified women for top government jobs is the biggest headache the bureaucrats have had in a long time. Katie Louchkeim, former head of women's affairs for the Democratic National Committee and now deputy assistant secretary of state for community advisory services, knows the problem first hand.

A year or two ago, when Republicans were critizing President Kennedy for not putting more women in important positions, she says it was the same way: there were few women looking for jobs who were both qualified and not tied down by family responsibilities — who were mobile enough to drop everything and come to Washington.

President Johnson's forces are finding this equally true today. One high-ranking woman Democrat says she was asked recently by a cabinet officer to recommend a woman for an assistant secretaryship in his department.

BELFAST — A lone soldier was seen among a crowd of sailors who appeared at a recent dance for service men in an Irish factory town.

Regents Say No Fee Raise For Wildcats

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) —Henry A. Bubb, chairman of the Kansas Board of Regents, said Wednesday Kansas State University will have to find its own way of its football doldrums.

Bubb, of Topeka, said football was not the responsibility of the regents.

The sum of $60,000 has been mentioned as the figure needed to keep Kansas State's football program operating in the black for the 1964 season.

A proposal to raise fees $5 a semester per student was brought up in Manhattan preceeding the Board of Regents meeting Sunday, but the regents took no action on the matter.

Bubb said Wednesday, however, "we're not going to raise fees."

He said if Kansas State wants to raise money for athletics through fees, it must be done without increase in the total.

Bubb said it is up to Kansas State President James McCain to submit a proposal to the regents.

"I am almost certain the board will okay almost anything he submits that doesn't raise fees," he added.

Bubb said the Regents would deal only with McCain and "we are not going to tell them (the students) they have to have a good football team."

Not All Medical Services Are Free in Soviet Union

By REINHOLD ENSZ

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet authorities keep saying that Soviet medical care is the world's best, and that it is free for everyone. The fact is that certain sectors of the Soviet medical program are not free.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev's new Communist party program, issued in 1961, said the party must provide — by 1961 — "free medical services for all citizens, including the supply of medicines and the treatment of sick persons at sanatoria."

To learn precisely what is free, and what is not free, an interview was requested with top Soviet medical officials. After a wait of several weeks, permission was granted for an interview with Alexei Safonov, chief of the Soviet Medical Services Board.

The first question was: "Could you please tell us what Soviet medical services are free, and which must be paid for?"

Replying with a booming, self-assured voice, Safonov began: "As you know, medical services in the Soviet Union are free."

Then he spoke for approximately 30 minutes, listing in detail precisely what medical services are free — hospitals, clinics, doctors, etc.

When he stopped, having apparently exhausted the list, he was asked again: "Which Soviet medical services are not free? Is medicine free?"

Yes, he replied, it is free in the hospitals.

Are eyeglasses free? Another reluctant: "No."

Are false teeth free? "No."

"But," he quickly added, "all these things cost less than their actual value."

He was then asked why Britain, a capitalist country, was able to provide these things as part of its national health service while the Soviet Union—the world's first Communist country—did not.

"When a person becomes 70 years old he will probably need a walking stick. Must we pay for the stick?" he replied.

"Anyway," he added, "the level of medical care in England is very low. It is equal to that which we had here in the 19th century—sixty years ago. Most Britons must go to a general practitioner and do not have easy access to specialists, as do all Soviet citizens."

He was then asked: "If what you say about British medical care is true, why did the Bolshoi dancers create such a sensation during their visit to England? British newspapers reported that almost all of them went to London dentists to get their teeth fixed."

Safonov's answer: "This was perhaps due to a change of climate, or perhaps the English food. As you know, climate has a great influence on teeth."

After further discussion, Safonov acknowledged that some Soviet citizens prefer to pay a doctor or dentist in the hope of getting better treatment than at a state clinic.

"Yes," he said, "there is some of this, but the amount of time which Soviet doctors use for private patients is only about one-hundredth or one-thousandth of the total time spent on all patients."

The amount of time spent on patients in Soviet state clinics was recently criticized by a deputy [illegible] Writer [illegible] grandmother in a state [illegible] 12 minutes to receive a [illegible] talk to him, examine him, and then write a prescription—that is a norm, and the norm was established before the war."

ARADCOM SOLDIER HONORED — Spec. 4 Kenneth B. McKenzie (right) receives a $25 savings bond after being named Army Air Defense Command Honor Guard Soldier of the Month for February. Brig. Gen. Howard E. Michelet, ARADCOM deputy chief of staff for plans and operations, makes the presentation. Specialist MacKenzie is a draftsman in the adjutant general section. Selection of the ARADCOM Honor Guard Soldier of the Month is made on the basis of soldierly conduct, appearance, and performance of duty as a member of the Honor Guard.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

David's comments about the screwballs in medicine might be expanded to include the field of psychology, too. For America is desperately in need of professors and doctors who have "horse sense." We have far too many brilliant college minds that lack simple gumption and social poise. The bureaucrats at Washington are striking examples.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

Since I had asked them their impression of the younger doctors versus the older [illegible] ers, David replied:

"Well, Dad, I'm [illegible] dentists as a gr[illegible] adjusted and socia[illegible] ed than are medics.

"And I believe it is partly fault of our medical colleg[illegible] they still overly magnify astic grades.

"For instance, they give un[illegible] weight to 'A' grades and the fact that an applicant may have had his own chem lab in the basement during high school.

"And if the boy was a nut [illegible] space ships or rockets and [illegible] scientific projects, they [illegible] admit him to med[illegible]

"In practice, they often over[illegible] the fact he is a screwball [illegible] may be socially a misfit who never dated in his life and who had little participation in college athletics.

"That's also why we have [illegible] inarticulate physicians who [illegible] fools of themselves if they [illegible] the Rotary or Kiwanis [illegible] high school 'Career [illegible]

"Many of our professional students also drive taxicabs at night to help pay their expenses at college.

"Because these working students haven't the time to memorize all the minor points about a course, they may get a 'C' grade instead of [illegible] or magazines during the summer, etc.

But that "C" usually covers all the fundamentals.

Besides, they often obtain wider perspective and superior judgment about basic medicine or dentistry, partly due to their broader social perspective.

Therefore, within 5 to 10 years many of the "C" doctors have such flourishing practices that they must hire their former "A" classmates to work for them.

This is a common situation in both medicine and dentistry, as well as law, engineering and other professions, too.

Illinois Professor 'Reprimanded' for Attack on JFK

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — [illegible] president Kennedy.

But President David D. Henry, at a meeting of the school's board of trustees Wednesday, agreed with the board that the [illegible] professor's attack [illegible] dy in a John Birch pa[illegible] was no cause for acti[illegible] him.

Dr. 54, wrote last month American Opinion that Americans would cherish Kennedy's memory "with distaste." He suggested that Kennedy may have been assassinated because he had ceased to be useful to a Communist conspiracy.

The trustees refused to act against Oliver when they accepted a similar opinion from a faculty committee by a vote of 8-1.

He declined to comment directly on the trustees' action, saying the issue was never a matter of academic freedom.

It was, he said, "a question of my right as a private citizen of the United States to state facts and draw conclusions."

The trustees adopted the report of the faculty committee which said, "He must have the right to be ungloriously wrong, and suffer the professional consequences thereof, and to be gloriously right and receive the acclaim of his professional colleagues."

He said he objected on one hand because the trustees' resolution did not "declare with sufficient fervor the devotion of the university to free inquiry and expression."

On the other hand, he said, he objected because the report did not disassociate the university from the "disgraceful reflections" against Kennedy and because it did not assert with sufficient force that a scholar should "back up his conclusions with weighted and tested facts."

A trustee who joined the majority, Harold Pogue of Decatur, said he regretted that no legal action could be taken against Oliver.

Pogue said Oliver should resign from the university.

When he stopped, having apparently exhausted the list, he was asked again: "Which Soviet medical services are not free? Is medicine free?"

Yes, he replied, it is free in the hospitals.

Are eyeglasses free? Another reluctant "No."

But," he quickly added, "all these things cost less than their actual value."

He was then asked why Britain, a capitalist country, was able to provide these things as part of its national health service while the Soviet Union—the world's first Communist country—did not.

"When a person becomes 70 years old he will probably need a walking stick. Must we pay for the stick?" he replied.

"Anyway," he added, "the level of medical care in England is very low. It is equal to that which we had here in the 19th century—sixty years ago. Most Britons must go to a general practitioner and do not have easy access to specialists as do all Soviet citizens."

He was then asked: "If what you say about British medical care is true, why did the Bolshoi dancers create such a sensation during their visit to England? British newspapers reported that almost all of them went to London dentists to get their teeth fixed."

Safonov's answer: "This was perhaps due to a change of climate or perhaps the English food. As you know, climate has a great influence on teeth."

After further discussion, Safonov acknowledged that some Soviet citizens prefer to pay a doctor or dentist [illegible] getting [illegible] at a shop.

Then he spoke for approximately 30 minutes listing in precise detail what medical services are free — hospitals, doctors, etc.

Not All Medical Services Are Free in Soviet Union

By REINHOLD ENSZ

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet authorities keep saying that Soviet medical care is the world's best and that it is free for everyone. The fact is that certain sectors of the Soviet medical program are not free.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev's new Communist party program, issued in 1961, said the party must provide — by 1961 — free medical services for all citizens, including the supply of medicines and the treatment of sick persons at sanatoria.

To learn precisely what is free and what is not free, an interview was requested with top Soviet medical officials. After a wait of several weeks, permission was granted for an interview with Alexei Safonov, chief of the Soviet Medical Services Board.

The first question was: "Will you please tell us what Soviet medical services are free and which must be paid for?"

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

David's comments about the screwballs in medicine might be expanded to include the field of psychology, too. For America is desperately in need of professors and doctors who have horse sense. We have far too many brilliant people minds that lack simple common sense and social poise. The bureaucrats at Washington are striking examples.
